Editorial

THE rules and customs of a great school are often bewildering to a new boy, and some boys fail to grasp the fact that they are members of a body whose health and strength depend largely on his loyalty and fidelity. Many duties are required of each; some are hard to comply with and need sacrifice, some are easy to obey and ask no self-sacrifice.

One duty at least applies to each member of the school as a body, and that duty is to attend all matches and sports in which the school is engaged.

The duty of each boy is to be present at the contest which his fellow members are striving to win.

The team chosen to represent the school represents each of its members individually, and it is the absolute duty of each to follow that team and lend his support to its battles, even if he does not take an active part in the sport itself. His very presence shows the team that their efforts are appreciated by each of their fellows, and that the school as a whole stands behind them in victory or defeat.

Nothing can be more depressing to a team than to see that their efforts are not appreciated, and that the game they play is not the school's.

Many a game has been won by the support of those taking no active part, and many a game has been lost by the absence of those whose encouraging support inspires the team to make a greater effort and to play the game with a whole heart.

The team which wins is the team in which the heart of the school throbs; the teams of the future are to be made up of those who feel within them and through them the spirit of the school—the spirit of fellowship and brotherhood, of those who feel that on them rests the future good name of the school within and without, in whom wells up an ever-growing spirit of pride and love for the school of which they are members for life.

The keenness and spirit which is shown in the school by each of its members is the keenness and spirit which each will bear through life, for "the child is father of the man," and each must wish his days to be "bound each to each by natural piety."

School Notes

THE following boys entered the school at the beginning of the term:—C. A. Alexander, H. A. P. Ankerson, R. M. Badgery, C. E. Barnes, G. McC. Blackwood, L. Berry, W. A. Bishop, A. P. Blake, A. W. Brama, A. S. M. Braye, T. B. Broughton, E. D'A. Bucknell, J. D'A. Bucknell, E. Cameron, J. H. Carey, C. H. Cleghorn, W. P. Cordeaux, C. H. Corke, A. H. Crossman, G. G. Cullen, E. G. Edgell, T. D. Esplin, G. L. W. Fuller, W. S. Goddard, D. S. Goddard, S. Griffith, C. J. Hammond, R. G. O. Harris, A. C. Heron, A. G. Hill, J. B. Hobbes, R. R. Holcombe, J. R. Holden, J. J. Hyndes, R. C. A. Stewart; W. G. B. Studdy (Intermediate 1915, 2nd XV. 1916, Sub-Prefect 1916); W. H. Swales; A. S. Thomas (2nd XI. 1916, 2nd XV. 1916); A. I. Truebridge; T. A. Victor; C. S. M. Walker (Intermediate 1916); G. C. Ward; R. W. Watt; C. E. Wells; E. E. Wickham; W. N. Wickham; N. Waterhouse (Intermediate 1915); S. Zlotkowski.

The school offers its congratulations to Sir Thomas Dibbs on the well-deserved honour conferred upon him by His Majesty the King.

We welcome on the staff this term Mr. H. Hunt, B.A., Sydney, the Rev. C. P. Brown, M.A., Melbourne, and Rev. G. M. Searcy, M.A., Oxon. Mr. Hunt went with the Australian Forces to Gallipoli, and after four months' service at the front was returned to pursue his medical studies at the University. He has since taken his degree in Arts, and intends to take up his medical course later.

We regret to announce that Mr. J. P. Chard, who has been on the staff for the last three years, intends to leave us at Easter. He is about to take up the study of Law at the University. We wish him every success in his undertaking.

We also regret to record the resignation of Mr. Thompson owing to ill health. He had been a member of the staff since last June. We trust that the step he has taken will result in a speedy return to good health. G. H. Brown, who left the school last term, filled the vacancy until his University lectures began.

Lieut. Lindsay Clarke, an Old Boy, who was wounded at Gallipoli, gave an interesting address in the School Hall on Saturday, 24th February. He provided lantern slides made from actual photographs taken on the Peninsula and in Egypt, and described his experiences at the front in a highly interesting manner.

R. S. Holcombe has been appointed Senior Prefect and elected Captain of Football, and R. Jeremy has been elected Captain of Boats.

G. C. Loveday and E. C. King-Salter have been made Prefects, and J. E. S. Anderson, A. M. Balcombe, R. Cox, J. Crawford, W. H. Freeman, D. S. Lloyd, A. D. Morgan, B. Ryland, Sub-Prefects.

The following awards have been made:—A. M. Balcombe and W. B. Sawyer, cricket colours; F. S. Butler, 1st XI. blazer; E. W. Manchee, school blazer.

We congratulate N. M. Goddard on his winning the Barker Scholarship No. ii. and Horner Exhibition for Mathematics at the recent Leaving Certificate Examination.

The following boys have qualified and obtained tickets of proficiency in Life-Saving:—Cosh, Dodds li., Gaden l., Goddard l., Goldsmid, Hall, Holban, Honnor, Janes l., Maclean li., McIntosh, Phillips l., Ranken, Vallack, Welsh.

The Boat Club has received from Mr. Harry Shelley the handsome present of several pairs of oars and sculls, which will be of great service in the pleasure skiffs.

This term has seen the introduction of the practice of holding assemblies in the school hall on Friday mornings before chapel, when cricket, football, and other lists are read out. An opportunity is thereby given the Headmaster of addressing the school as a whole on matters of general interest.

The G.P.S. Regatta will be held on Wednesday, April 18, on the usual course.

We are sorry that we are compelled to hold over indefinitely the publication of several poetic effusions which have been sent in. Some of them give promise of better things, and we hope to hear again from the authors when we are less pressed for room. The illustrations to "The Prefect and the Sub." show distinct merit, and we regret that it is impossible (technically) to reproduce them.

In the recent examination for admission to the Military College, Duntroon, Colin H. Simpson secured 3rd place for New South Wales.

The following donations have already been received or promised to the Sports Ground Fund:—Mr. Ogilvie £50. Mr. A. M. Eedy £10, Mr. and Mrs Honnor £25. Mr J. R. Carey £40, His Honor Judge Backhouse £12/10/-, Mr. Randall Carey £10, the Headmaster and Mrs. Purves £50, Miss Joyce Purves £1/1/-, Mr. J. M. O. Goddard £5/5/-, Dr. P. Voss £1/1/-, Mr. K. B. Voss £1/1/-.

For the Chapel East Window Fund to commemorate all Old Boys who have volunteered in the war, donations have been received from His Honor Judge Backhouse, £12/10/-; Mr. C. B. Jackson, £1; Dr. Russell-Jones, £1; Mr. Buck, £1/1/-; Rev. D. Davies, £5/5/-. For the Chapel Fund donations have been received from Dr. Russell-Jones, £1; Mr. Ivo Clarke, £2/2/-; "Q." £2.

On March 22 the ceremony of unveiling the Brian Pockley memorial window in the chapel was performed by His Grace the Archbishop. A short service was held, at which the lessons were read by Rev. J. H. Maclean, R.D., North Sydney, and the Ven. Archdeacon Davies, Principal of Moore College. An address was given by the Archbishop. In addition to the boys, there were present, among others, Dr. F. A. Pockley and members of his family, His Honor Judge Backhouse, Canon Hey Sharp and Mr. F. A. Robinson (members of the Council), Mr. A. H. Lucas (acting Headmaster of the Sydney Grammar School), the Headmaster of the King's School, and Mr. Goldie (S.G.S.). A description of the window will be found under Chapel Notes.

On March 22nd Lieut. F. H. Day, who has recently returned from the Front, wounded, gave an address to the school on his experiences in Gallipoli and in France. He was enthusiastically received, and his address was highly appreciated.

Congratulations to L. S. Dudley on his winning First Class Honours at Graduation in English, Latin and Greek. He has also been awarded the James Coutts Scholarship in English.

Old Boys Serving with His Majesty's Forces.

A prominent Old Boy at the front writes as follows:—

Age counts for little here, personality and education for everything, and battalion commanders in seeking for new officers have recognised the value of the boys whom the G.P.S. turn out, and if a promising N.C.O., even of junior rank, is a G.P.S. boy, he is almost certain of his commission. The wastage is very great, and the old wish of the army for "a bloody war and quick promotion" has been very fully realised. It is the infantry above all who need them, for there the wastage is greatest, and the qualities that the G.P.S. teach are chiefly needed. The boy who has learnt as he must learn at the C.E.G.S., that he who gives most gets most, who has learnt to be responsible for others, and above all to set an example in everything, is going to make the good officer, who will think of his men's safety and comfort first and his own last, who will never ask his men to do anything which he is not prepared to do himself, who can keep a cheerful face and crack a joke in the midst of the utmost danger, who strives to be better than everyone of his men in every branch of military knowledge, can do anything he likes with Australians and they will follow him right through and out of the other side as they have done scores of times in this war.

Lieut. Owen Dibbs, of the 45th Battn., writes from France, 14/11/16:

I, the other day, chanced on the grave of poor old Jumbo Armstrong, and would have liked to have written to his people to make sure that they knew he had been decently buried. In due course they will be told by the War Office of the exact location, which I may not mention; he is buried in a little soldiers' cemetery, perhaps 25 graves in all, and a large painted cross is over him with just

Major J. N. F. Armstrong,
128th Field Company, R.E.
Killed in action.

5/7/16

It is situated in a little valley, with everything around to remind one of the great work of the British sapper. A railway passes within fifty yards, and a road is on each side of it.

In front is a hill which was once a famous German stronghold in a wood. Now it is a wrecked mass of trench, dugouts, fallen timber, and, of course, mud.

One meets Old Boys everywhere here, and in queer circumstances. Yesterday I saw Jim Reid, now a captain in the Engineers, busy putting down a light railway. H. B. Allen is an officer in this battalion.

Lieut. Julian Simpson (30/10/16)
says:—

You still thought that I was with the Warwicks. I have written on two occasions and they must have gone to the bottom. I was transferred to the R. F. A. a year ago and sent to France. Last May I took over a Trench Mortar Battery, a small but pleasant, though dangerous command. My address now is, V4 Trench Mortar Battery, B.E.F., France. I am very well, but at present exceedingly fed up with continuous wet and cold and mud. I have had my share in the offensive, but at present am not in the line, though temporarily in charge of the divisional ammunition dump—necessarily at a safe distance—and there I am exceedingly busy. I wish you had received my letters, for then I feel sure I should have heard from you, and that I am anxious so to do, and of the School. (An answer has been sent to every letter received from the Front or from England, several have evidently not arrived.—Ed. War Column). I have seen Charlie Huxtable and Dudley Williams. Those are the only Old Boys. The Germans are not taking the Somme show lying down. They fought well, still we beat them, so we must have fought better. The weather is abominable. Transport of ammunition and supplies is very near impossible in some parts except by pack animals. But the army is well and in fine spirits. We are all very bucked over the French victory at Verdun, a grand show.

Lieut. H. H. Dixon writes from the Lewis Gun School, 8/12/16:—

Just a few lines to let you know that I am still about and doing odd jobs. We came over to France a short while back, and on reaching a place—which shall be nameless—somewhere near the firing line, we were put into billets and promptly turned out into others.

After about three days I was sent down here for instruction in Lewis Gun work, and had a journey of a very varied nature. On arrival at railhead the N.C.O.'s. detailed to attend the school (four of them in my care) were put into trucks, and we officers were put into a bread truck on a returning supply train.

One of the first men I met here, noticing my colours (same in colour but not in shape as his own) came up and asked me, "Do you know a man named Dixon in your Division?" When I told him that I was of that name and brother to the man of whom he was speaking, he simply marvelled, and so did I.

Here also I met Dickinson (late of Mod. A.)—he had come up from the Somme where he had been with his battalion. We left Lark Hill a short while back on a bitterly cold morning, reached port about noon, and crossed over the same night. On the wharf I met Oliver Nickoll. He looks, and is, in excellent health, and anxious to take on some other job, I think.

We stayed one night in rest camp and then came on to —, where we were billeted. My platoon and another were in a farm just outside —, and we were fairly comfortable, as such things go, but were turned out in two days to make room for a battalion belonging to another brigade.

I will not go into a long description of French farm life; the smells are various and powerful, and the style of living would astonish most Australians; but the land is well utilised, i.e., as far as can be done with such labour as is available.

We entrained at 7.45 p.m., and then travelled about ten miles, and then were, apparently, shunted about periodically all night, landing at a well-known spot about 9.30 a.m. Here we were all turned out to catch another train; there were a score of officers and large numbers of N.C.O.'s., but not those belonging to our Division (14 all told), they had disappeared altogether—all except two. Well, we had to go on by rail from — down to —, and then marched about three miles out to this place.

Our missing N.C.O.'s. turned up later on. They had been shunted off at the first station, which was a Junction, and sent down on another line altogether. However our minds were much relieved when we saw them the following day.

Every officer in a battalion is supposed to know something of the Lewis Gun, which is a rapid-firer, but does not require an emplacement as does the machine gun.

J. F. Fraser on arrival in England joined the O.T.C. for Royal Horse Artillery at St. John's Wood, London. In the examination for commission he gained third place, and he has been attached to the Siege Artillery.

Ophir Taylor, who had been galloper to General Christian at the 1st Field Artillery H.Q., has been at St. John's Wood and Lark Hill since last September, and passed all his examinations in gunnery, etc., was in December gazetted as a lieutenant.

Eric Sinclair, after passing through the Artists' Rifles' Cadet School at Gailles, in Scotland, has been gazetted 2nd Lieut., 7th Battalion, Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders.

Reg. Clark, writing from Egypt (14/11/16) says that he is still in the best of health and spirits. Since April he had been Sergeant in charge of despatch riders in the Signal Squadron, Anzac Mounted Division, and in addition to his ordinary duties he was chief instructor in the Signal School. A cable has now been received that Clark has had his commission in the Royal Flying Corps, Special Reserve, R.F.C., Egypt.

Allan D. Newmarch, who left as a private in the Artillery, is now lieutenant with Head Quarters' Staff somewhere in France.

J. H. Newmarch, who left a lieutenant, is now captain and M.C. He was wounded at Gallipoli, and has lately been operated on for the second time in England, but from last accounts he hopes to be able shortly to return to France on Staff duty.

E. Leigh Spencer, who was reported wounded, has evidently recovered, for he is now attached to the 68th (Australian) Squadron, Royal Flying Corps. He hopes to get away from Egypt soon. His work will be either as a photographer or wireless operator.

Lieut.-Col. J. B. St. Vincent Welch writes from "Somewhere in the Mud," 31/12/16:—

It is really awfully good of you to write to the fellows who are away as you do, and we appreciate it tremendously. We fellows are very disappointed with the Referendum results, particularly the N.S.W. men. I believe that over here in the trenches the result was definitely "yes" with no uncertain voice. We felt pretty sick to find that our own kith and kin at home had left us so wretchedly in the lurch, and it certainly did not tend to do the prestige of Australia any good in the eyes of folk on this side of the world. The fellows who continue to play tennis and attend prize fights and races without doing anything towards helping us are really very akin to Nero when Rome was in extremis, and the bitter pill which we have to swallow is that, although we fellows do not feel like heroes or ask for any ovation when we return home, we know that the fellows who are shirking their responsibilities now will simply call us fools for having "done our little bit," and will smugly refuse to make room for us when we expect to sit down to the work which we left and which the patriotic slackers have calmly appropriated to themselves in our absence, although quite probably, if we had not come away voluntarily when we did in the early days, the slackers would, ere now, be under German rule.

We are still plugging away in our various fashions over here in the mud. I think it is the most dreary work we have so far been called upon to perform. What we fellows would occasionally barter half our worldly possessions for is the sight of a gum tree and the comforting warmth of the Australian sunlight. Nothing anywhere in sight except gaunt stumps of shattered trees against a dreary grey sky; and a landscape otherwise practically nothing but a waste of mud.

Sergt. G. W. Hosking writes from Egypt, 20/10/16 :—

As my address has changed a little, I thought I would write, giving my new address, and also a few items which may interest you and your readers. Being connected with the Light Horse, you will no doubt know what sort of a campaign we have been on during the past few months, and of the victory we obtained out here in the desert against the Turks. The desert life has been very hard and monotonous, with terrific heat, swarms of flies, scorching summer winds, and fighting with the Turks. The big battle we fought here on August 4th was the culminating point to a long weary period of continual outpost duty, and for about three weeks prior to the big battle our outposts were always in touch with the advancing Turco-German army. The plan was to try and draw them in on to our main position, and this we succeeded in doing, and the enemy launched his big attack in the early hours of the morning of 4th August, and from that time the battle raged fiercely for the ensuing 36 hours, after which the Turks began to retire, and the retreat continued for about a week, until the Turks were driven right back. The battle, which at first did not look too good for us, gradually turned in our favour as the day wore on. The artillery fire on both sides was terrific, shrapnel and high explosives being flung in all directions. The Turks at daybreak on the 4th subjected our position to a very violent attack by aeroplanes, as eight machines were over together, and they dropped some dozens of bombs, darts, and grenades. The conditions under which all this fighting took place were very trying, as the temperature was well over the century mark in the shade each day, which proved very hard for both men and horses. The week during the Turkish retreat was a strenuous one, and we were going night and day, but as we were a victorious army, we did not notice the hard conditions so much. Amongst the prisoners captured were a good many Germans, who, we were given to understand, worked the guns. A good many German officers were with the army, and the Turkish prisoners stated they were very cruel. The Light Horse of Australia and the New Zealand Mounted Rifles bore the brunt of the attack, and have added yet another laurel to the doings of the Australians in this war.

I have now been promoted to a sergeant, and my new address is Sergeant C. W. Hosking, 3rd Light Horse Brigade, Headquarters, A.S.C. (Supply Section), Anzac Mounted Division. We have a fair sprinkling of Old Boys in the Light Horse, and I have seen Colin Smith and Warden frequently. Another Old Boy whom I met to-day, Barnes, who is in the Camel Corps, and has just got his commission.

Dr. G. R. Clarke writes from France :—

This place has had a bad time, both from the Germans and our own troops, at different times, and the consequence is that it has had a bad knocking about. There are very few windows left in any of the homes, and the floors and walls are riddled with holes. The A.M.C. has a dug-out where the sick and wounded are carried by stretcher-bearers and treated there, and generally sent on to the hospital. It is no joke carrying the wounded down from the front line, for the trenches are necessarily narrow and winding.

The trenches have "duck-boards" put in them to walk on, otherwise one would get bogged in the mud.

We live in dug-outs; the mess-room is about 12 feet by 6 feet, and there is a stove in it, so that you can get warm at times when the fuel arrives. It all has to be brought up at night by the transport to a "dump," and from there is carried by the men up to Headquarters. The food and everything else for use in the trenches comes the same way; of course at times it is late, and then we have to put up with the consequences.

Last week we came out of the trenches, and are now "in billet" some distance away behind, in a little place which consists of farm-houses. I and the second in command are staying at a farm where there are about a dozen children. We have a little room to sleep in, and have our meals in the kitchen, which is the main living room, and we air our French sometimes fairly successfully; at any rate we generally get what we want in the eating line, and that is the chief thing in the war. The folk here spend their time in looking after the animals, which they have stabled all the winter, and in drinking coffee. This they do at intervals of a few minutes all day and half the night. They are very good-hearted, and will do anything for you; and we get plenty of amusement in watching and listening to them. It is most difficult to understand them when they are talking to each other, as they talk at the rate of knots. I was sorry the School did not remain at the head of the river this year, but hope that next May will see us back again in our proper position, and that I shall be there to see it, though I'm afraid things will not have been settled by that time.

Captain Harris, who was invalided to England last year, has again resumed duty, and is now second in command of an Officers' and N.C.O's. School of Instruction behind the lines in France. He has been promoted to rank of Major. He writes as follows:—

The School job, if I like it, will see me through the winter, but I shall very likely try to get back to the Brigade as soon as I get properly fit again. About half a mile from here the 4th Australian Division have a school of the same class, at which Hugh Pulling is an instructor, and Ormiston, who has a commission in my Brigade, is a student.

I was commandant of a similar school to this when we received orders to break up the School and rejoin our battalions, as another move was coming. After marching for three or four days through some very beautiful country, the whole battalion billeted in a fine old chateau, packed in like sardines. I had three very busy days there, as I had to pay the company, register votes for the referendum (a most tedious business), and sit on a court martial and a court of enquiry. At 2.30 one very cold and frosty morning (nearly all military movements start in the dead of night) we marched off again, caught a train, and after travelling most of the day, got off and billeted in a very charming little village, where the people made the men very comfortable, and understood my French quite well (please tell Mr. Wilshire). After a few more days there we were all packed into motor buses and travelled all day. All the officers travelled in the same car, and we enlivened proceedings on the way down by a most uproarious sing song. This, however, was the last of our pleasures. When we "disembussed" we marched off through a steady, cold drizzle to our quarters, which were in the "forward area" of the district where the big fighting has been going on. I found my company's quarters to consist of three long tarpaulin tents sufficient to accommodate about half the company. I would keep on pushing men into the tent, and after a time they would begin, amidst blasphemy, to trickle out of the other end, forced out by the steady pressure from my end. Eventually, by stealing a tent that belonged to someone else, I got everyone under cover, but I think they must have slept two deep. Next day along fearsome sewers of liquid mud (called roads in these parts), congested with every possible variety of traffic, which pulled up for interminable halts in the rain every five minutes or so, we moved to another camp, where the mud was deeper and the accommodation still less. Fortunately braziers and fuel were plentiful, and the men soon scooped themselves out dug-outs in some old disused trenches close handy. And still it rained. The country, I believe, was once like the parts in which we had been billeted before going into the forward area—pleasant undulating grassy downs, with winding white chalk roads, beautiful little woods, and dozens of picturesque little hamlets among the trees, each with its own church visible from all the country round.

In the country over which the great "Push" has passed some of the villages have been absolutely pounded out of existence and out of sight; literally, there are no traces of them left except a few bricks lying about. Some of the villages are in better repair, piles of bricks and beams, an occasional wall, and very rarely the roofless shell of a house. A bigger pile of debris than usual generally marks the church, which has been dealt with very thoroughly as a possible observation post. The woods are collections of forlorn bare poles, with a few leafless sticks projecting from the trunks. The roads are canals of mud from six inches to four feet deep, varying in consistency from pea soup to a rich strong mixture that closes like a rat trap over unwary feet. I actually saw a man dragged by two of his mates out of such a morass, and when he "came away" he was minus one of his boots. Along the more passable roads struggle endless streams of infantry soldiers, pack horses, waggons, guns, travelling kitchens, mules, every conceivable style of transport, all plastered with mud and moving at a snail's pace, when not blocked altogether. Here and there are squads of men armed with brooms and scrapers feverishly attempting to keep pace with the rapid manufacture of the completed article—and failing. One regiment so employed was, they told me, a crack regiment of British Hussars. The ground is simply shell holes ranging from pits that one could nearly swim in down to little pin pricks no bigger than a cart wheel. I was once told that one was quite safe if one took refuge in a shell hole as two shells never fall on the same spot. It's not true, for in parts there is none of the original surface left, and a shell couldn't fall without dropping into another shell hole. The country is seamed and scored with trenches in various stages of disrepair; some of them, which have been subjected to a heavy bombardment, being hardly distinguishable from the surrounding chaos.

Well, to resume, we moved up into trenches in support, where there were a number of dug-outs, which nearly all fell in owing to heavy rain on the first night. Fortunately we were near a village in fair repair from which we could get timber for new dug-outs. We also made a great find—an old vegetable garden, planted formerly by the Bosches, which allowed us some variety in the way of tucker. The village was full of old German dug-outs, 20, 30, and 40 feet underground, in which we put a number of men when the rain came on harder than ever. These dug-outs were full of all sorts of interesting objects; in one we found helmets, gas masks, official printed forms, bombs, rifles, comic papers, leather beds, all sorts of equipment, and a dead cat. The last was rather too interesting. One dug-out was simply paved with bottles—all empty. We took it to be the H.Q. of some very high command. Next we moved into the front line, where there was practically no shelter, and mud and water two feet deep at the bottom of the trenches. We mostly preferred to move about "on the top," as progress was too slow in the trenches, and as the snipers were not very active, this proved all right for a time. The first night B Company and D Company (mine) were ordered to put in a new front line trench 150 yards ahead of the existing line, and about 250 yards long. We worked all night at this, and put in a fine trench (the only dry one in the front line), which must have alarmed the Huns, as they manned their front line more strongly and lay for us next morning with snipers, so that moving on the top became distinctly exciting and had to be stopped. All the time there was a good deal of shelling with heavy stuff going on, but fortunately the shells went right into the soft ground and exploded upwards, so were not nearly as dangerous as when the ground is hard. Instead of dismembering one a shell that falls close merely adds another coating of mud to those already worn. The men maintained their spirits and sense of humour through it all. Two of my men were going down from the front line to the support line on some errand while an afternoon "hate" was in progress. They stopped for a spell (the mud wading is terribly exhausting) at a peculiarly desolate spot, where the only objects of interest were a dead Hun (to be precise, half a dead Hun), a broken in dug-out, and a lot of salvage, rubbish, dirty old rifles and equipment. One of the men began to sing, "I stand in a garden of roses." A shell landed about 20 yards away, whereupon his mate remarked, hurriedly, "Well, you'll well stand alone," and made off, followed at 50 paces distance (as the drill books say) by the singer, still singing. We only had two days at the time in the front line, then back in support for a day, then in the line again for a day and night before moving back. We did not do a "stunt," as a fight is called here, as it rained every day and the mud was too awful for words to describe. For a fortnight we never had dry feet, and very seldom dry clothes. Fortunately there was a daily issue of rum, and except for part of the time when we were in the front line, we could generally get something hot for meals. When the battalion moved back I was sent on leave, which I was quite ready for, as I couldn't talk and could only just walk, which enabled me to get a week's sick leave in addition. As on my return from England I came straight back here as instructor, I have managed to avoid the horrors of war for a time.

A. E. Witts writes from France,

We are at present on a part of the front where we get plenty of rain, mud, snow, fog and shells. A few days ago we had a bright sunny day, and old Fritz sent many of his aeroplanes over our way, with the result that we were "pasted" with shells all day. Our "ever watchful airmen" were evidently away on a raid or a good dinner. We only had four shells within 50 yards of our camp. The first blew up our feed heap and part of shed, killing one of our horses. One man was in the shed at the time and was stooping down when the shell arrived; but he is about the luckiest man in France, as he was not touched or harmed in any way. He was only about a foot from the edge of the hole. The shell made a hole about 6 feet deep by about 12 feet in diameter. The concussion threw large iron pipes hundreds of feet away and wasted much of our horse feed. While we were looking at the first shell hole, another shell landed about 30 yards away and threw dirt hundreds of feet into the air. I waited to see if any large pieces were coming my way and then I ducked for the first shell hole and put an empty bag over my head for protection, but a piece of dirt, about as large as a billiard ball, hit me on the hip, and I did the "Highland Fling" for a few minutes, but it was only a slight bruise. The other two shells fell in very soft ground and scattered dirt all over our tents and dug-outs, but we had time to get under cover. The dirt and stones that the shell throws up is scattered as far as 4 to 500 yards. The shells were about 10 inches in diameter. J. C. Taylor, who is in this Company, has a narrow squeak some time back. A shell exploded five hundred yards away, and a piece of shell came through our tent, just missing his head, and landed on the foot of my bed, but I was away at the time. The same man was wounded yesterday by shrapnel, which went through his wrist. He was on fatigue duty at the time. To-day has been bright and warm, and many air duels, but we did not see any come down, although some days we have seen as many as three planes down in one day. At present I am in a tent with J. A. Carlisle and N. E. Lillyman. Carlisle is a driver and not a gunner. They both asked me to remember them to you and the old masters of the School. Ginger (Noel) Smith is now a lieutenant, but I don't know what unit he will be in. The other Old Boys in this Company are—J. C. and O. C. Taylor, Major Kingsmill. We have only had five falls of snow this winter so far, but we have had some very cold days—so cold that waggons could go over the boggiest parts and not sink an inch. When the ground is like that we carry rations to guns on foot, as it is too hard on horses' feet. We have a lot of rain, and then we get a doing when we have to take ammunition to guns on horseback, as vehicles cannot get near our Company. We have to carry them over one and a half mile of shell torn ground with guns firing from all kinds of places; then the trenches and barb wire are very dangerous, especially on dark nights when it is raining. A few nights ago one of our men fell into a shell hole full of water, and with a horse on top of him; he got out, but the horse got drowned. Our Company battery has been very lucky, as we have been in some very hot places and have come out with very light casualties. We have been in Belgium, and used to go through Ypres nearly every day. It has been a beautiful city, but now it is like a very large building that has been burnt and then let go to ruin. It is still shelled, but they cannot do much more damage now. There is a large town near here, but we are not allowed to mention names of any places near where we are stationed.

Max Wright, in a letter to Mrs. Edwards (mother of G. P. Edwards), says:—

I went to Alexandria with George on the 7th of October with a draft of men for a week's holiday, and had only just returned to camp at Kantara when George was detailed for a Cavalry School for senior officers at Zietoun. He developed an abscess in one of his ears and decided to go to No. 14 A.G.H. at Abassir to have it attended to before going to the School. After ten days' treatment he appeared to be practically well again. He suddenly became worse about the 16th inst (November). I was with him on the night of the 18th, when the doctors decided to operate, which, I understand, was quite successful. George recovered from the operation on Sunday morning, and I was speaking to him till about 11 o'clock, when he became unconscious and never recovered, until he passed away at 6 o'clock on Monday morning, the 20th inst. He was buried the same afternoon. The doctors say meningitis was the trouble. It was a sad blow to all of us, for not only was he the most popular officer in the regiment, but our most promising subaltern. It was a very big loss to the regiment, from which he will be sadly missed.

His Commanding Officer, Major Irwin, says of him:—"During the operations at Romani and Bir-el-abd he was my second in command, and thereby we were brought very closely together. I had a very high opinion of your son, both as a soldier and a man, and I don't think there was an officer in this brigade more universally respected. He had a strong personality and stood out on his own, and we were and are still proud of him. He realised his duty and performed it fearlessly and well, and we all feel his death very acutely."

L. L. Williams writes from Egypt, 28/1/17:—

Most of our spare time has been spent playing football and getting fit. We have only lost one match since the regiment left Australia. I happen to be skipper. Am always running across Old Boys. All seem to be fit and going on well. L. W. Davies is at present acting adjutant; A. H. Campbell is a trooper in my troop; Leigh Spencer has gone to the Flying Corps; Charles Linton is with the M.G.'s., and looks tip-top, and Weston is with him; saw Broughton with the 5th L.H. when he was over playing football the other day; ran across George Campbell in Cairo when I was up at a Cavalry School. Roger McKinnon plays football with the 6th L.H., he is a pretty solid lump now. Alan Warden has only played in a few matches. Roger Ibbot is with the regiment and is all serene.

F. A. Chapman writes from France, 7/1/17:—

About a fortnight ago we came from the line for a few weeks' rest. I went up with a draft of 160 reinforcements and was allotted to No. 9 Platoon, C Coy., 3rd Battalion. I expect you received my letters from England stating that the 14th L.H. and all other L.H. in England had been turned into infantry. About a week ago Rod Maclean came over to us in the 8th Rfmts. He is in a Coy. same Battalion. I read in an Anzac Bulletin that 560 (name is now 641, Ed.) had enlisted.

A. A. Heath writes from the Candahar Barracks, 19/1/19:

On arrival we went to a place called Hurdcott, but last Sunday, with six others, I was sent to an Officers' School at Sedworth. I spent my four days' disembarkation leave in London, and of course visited all the sights, which were of great interest to me. Signs of war are more in evidence here than in Australia. The only people you see working are women, old men and boys. Food supplies have been cut down, and for luncheon you can only have two courses, and for dinner three courses, and pretty small ones at that—especially for an Australian. My last day of leave I spent with Alan Taylor, and we prowled round all day. He is pretty well but will not be fit for duty for six months yet. One thing we saw that day was the Serpentine in St. James' Park pumped dry, and on its bed are large wooden government offices. I left out one interesting piece of news. Who should I find to be in charge of the camp at Hurdcott when I arrived but Major-Cooke Russell? He was only there for ten days after, however, but it was great to meet someone like him whom you knew, and who could put you on your feet.

The Editor has received the following note re W. E. Giblin:—

Awarded Military Cross for conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty, attended the wounded in No Man's Land under heavy machine and gun fire, and showed absolute contempt of danger.

Heartiest congratulations to the following on distinctions won since our last issue:—H. E. a'Beckett, M.C.; Stuart Cameron, M.M.; B. S. Dowling, mentioned in despatches; R. J. Dyer, D.S.O.; C. D. Fuller, D.S.O.; J. D. Grant, M.C.; J. O. Harris, mentioned in despatches; J. D. Mackay, D.S.O.; J. H. Newmarch, M.C.; T. A. J. Playfair, mentioned in despatches; H. D. Pulling, M.C.; L. L. Richardson, mentioned in despatches 3rd time; W. L. Trenery, M.C.; J. B. St. Vincent Welch, D.S.O.; H. L. St. Vincent Welch, mentioned in despatches 3rd time.

Photographs are required to bring our list up to date of Lieut. J. Hay, Gunner O. C. Taylor, Lieut. H. E. a'Beckett, Trooper J. Mocatta. Can anyone supply any of the above?

Just as we are going to press we have received a visit from Mr. R. P. F. Franklin, who has volunteered and is going into camp near Melbourne.

Since our last issue the flag has floated no less than eight times at half-mast. The names of the fallen are—L. W. G. Last, A. A. Hillyar, J. Hay, J. J. Wildridge, F. W. M. Busby, F. W. C. Bootle, O. C. Taylor and J. Mocatta.

Mr. J. O. Harris writes giving a great deal of information re Old Boys, for which the Editor of the Roll of Honour begs to thank him. He says that K. Bayley was in his company and had gone away sick, but had really returned to the battalion before he was properly fit. He had seen Boydell and also Brassey, who rode past with his battery and came into the school to see him. He looked particularly fit and well. L. Cadell was Lieutenant and Quartermaster, 49th Battalion, and was quartered in the next village for a week. M. C. Crocker was 2nd Lieutenant, 13th Battalion, and was attending the 4th Div. School of Instruction, where Hugh Pulling was an instructor. F. H. Day he saw in London; he had not yet recovered from his last wound. Dyer, who had got his D.S.O. in the New Year Honours, he saw fairly often, he had a very high reputation in the Engineers. J. W. Forbes he saw the day before writing. He was 1st Lieutenant, and was quite recovered from his wound, and was quite absorbed in his battalion. He had met C. S. D. Hay. He was F.O.O. (Forward Observing Officer) of a battery. Lehmler was Captain in the 4th Battalion. He met Oliver Nickoll at Southampton, where he was assistant M.L.O. (Military Landing Officer). He says that it was pretty game of him to take on another job after losing his arm. He looked first rate and had grown very fat. Ormiston was 2nd Lieutenant, 3rd Battalion, and on their last visit to the line was attached to his company. He was a

Lewis Gun Corporal. Hugh Pulling was mentioned in despatches in the New Year Honours for the battle of the Somme. Guy was in the 13th Battalion. He had just missed him by a couple of days. Captain J. G. Tyson, 3rd Battalion, had the command of his old company.

Chapel Notes.

THE first baptism took place in the Chapel on December 17th, when Ivo John, son of Ivo Clarke, was baptized by Mr. Davies.

The Brian Pockley Memorial Window will be unveiled by His Grace the Archbishop on Thursday, March 22nd. The occasion was made a Military Church Parade. A photograph of the window appears on another page. The following description is given by the artist, Mr. Norman Carter:—"I have endeavoured to conform to Dr. Pockley's suggestions and to keep the symbolism appropriate to the subject of the Memorial. St. Luke, as the 'Beloved Physician,' is attending a wounded soldier. The colours of St. Luke's robes are the same as the St. Luke in the west window of St. Andrew's Cathedral, which, I understand, are accepted as correct. I have left the head of St. Luke unfinished, because it occurred to me that perhaps Dr. Pockley might want a portrait of his son introduced (this has been done), which can be done as far as the conditions of stained glass will permit. The base is an adaptation of the military badge worn by our soldiers, which lends itself to treatment and is appropriate to the general scheme. On the left side of window a wounded native is reclining awaiting attention, which is intended to connect the general idea with the Rabaul Expedition. I have introduced the figure of St. George, although it is an anachronism, first, because it symbolizes the military side of Dr. Brian Pockley's profession; second, St. George's banner bears the Red Cross, and another opportunity is offered for an appropriate symbol; third, as the general scheme for nave windows, already approved of by the Council, will represent the various Patron Saints, it seems wise to introduce this figure in a window that did not quite fit in with the original scheme to act as a connecting link. In justification of the anachronism I might mention that in medieval work figures from various periods were often grouped together in one design, and that would not seem out of place in a Gothic building such as the Chapel. The tracery is comparatively unimportant. I have treated it simply with stars and two red crosses. The vacant space in the base of the left light is open to heraldic treatment, should Dr. Pockley care to have a family coat of arms introduced (this has been done). The back-ground to figures is treated with tropical foliage appropriate to general scheme.

It will be noted that spaces have been allowed for texts and memorial inscription in the base.

The texts inserted are, "Give peace in our time, O Lord," and "The Beloved Physician."

The Memorial inscription is as follows:—

In Memoriam, Brian Col-	den Antill Pockley, M.B.,

The following note has been received by the Chaplain from R.G.H.W.:—

"How many of us have wondered why the Dead March in Saul is played at each Memorial Service? or, still further, what it means? We stand during its music as an outward tribute of respect, and it is hoped also, from feelings of the affection and admiration that spring from true hero-worship. There are many fine Funeral Marches written by other great composers besides Handel, yet his is the march almost always used. This is because of its wonderful simplicity and completeness. Most composers write in a minor key thereby seeking to produce gloom and sadness. Not so Handel. The Dead March in Saul (Saul is one of Handel's oratorios little known) is written in major keys from beginning to end, and may be divided into three parts. The first suggests the deepest sorrow for the death, and the extremely serious and solemn nature of the end of this human life. The bass, like the tolling of a bell, keeps calling our attention to the passing away of the spirit; and further, the music seems to tell of that end which must eventually come to all of us. The middle part presents the ideas of calmness, trust, and resignation; and, as we listen, surely we feel the message of comfort and hope. All earthly struggles are finished; there is now nothing but rest and peace. The third and concluding portion is one great triumphant strain telling of the final victory of life over death. The grandeur of the simple chords most convincingly tells of triumph and victory won."

The Chapel Committee beg to acknowledge with many thanks donation of £2/2/- from Mr. Ivo Clarke (offertory at baptism), and £2 annual donation from "Q."

Addresses have been given this term by the Rev. F. C. Phillip, M.A., and the Rev. J. H. Maclean, R.D.

Since our last issue a Litany Desk has been placed in the Chapel, the gift of "confirmees of 1916."

The Royal Military College, Duntroon.

CAN you imagine boys working much harder than the average fellow, through a four years' course, and yet enjoying it? Surely there must be something wrong somewhere! And yet, ask a Royal Military College

Staff-Cadet how he likes the life, and whether he would exchange with anyone who has a fairly easy time and get nowhere in particular at the end of it. A Duntroon man's aim is to "get somewhere" in those four years—in other words, to equip himself physically, mentally, morally, and from a military point of view, to be a good soldier and a leader of men.

And if he has to get up at an hour which, to a city youth, might seem "unearthly," with a temperature, in winter, somewhere below freezing-point, and if he must make his own bed and sweep out his own room, well, looking back, he would probably say that these very things have had much to do in making his training worth while.

A fair knowledge of science (especially the science of explosives), drawing, mathematics, languages, and a special study of all military subjects, from machine gun work and trench warfare, to scouting and Light Horse drill—these go far to turn out a good soldier—but something more is required, namely, that the complete soldier should be a gentleman and a leader of men.

And so sport, with its lessons of leadership and self-reliance, plays a very important part in College life. Football, cricket, hockey, tennis, athletics, all are indulged in with a keenness which tells of physical fitness and an appreciation of the joy of life. G.P.S. and other teams come up to try conclusions with the College XI. and XV., and go back with a new conception of the meaning of discipline and very pleasant memories of a team of good fellows who, above all, know how to "play the game." It is a matter for sincere regret that the School has not yet been able to send up a team to be the guests of the College for a few days. Perhaps the coming football season will see a change.

Boys entering the College must be between 16 and 19 years of age, and physically fit. Exams. of about N.S.W. Intermediate Standard are held every October, and any information may be got from the District Commandment. Once in the College, a cadet receives an outfit allowance of £30, and a maintenance allowance of 5/6 a day. Thus the actual expenses of College life are nil, and unless a cadet indulges in orgies of window-breaking or such-like amusements, he finds a considerable sum awaiting him at the end of his course, which is handed over to him as he goes out as a 1st Lieutenant in the Permanent Forces, with the tradition of Duntroon to uphold.

What that tradition is may be in some degree gathered from the following extract from a letter written by General Sir Ian Hamilton, dated 29/2/16:—

"It was not until the bitter fighting and terrible trials of the Peninsula campaign at the Dardanelles that I fully realised the priceless value of what had been done at the Royal Military College.

"The late Commander-in-Chief of that force believes he is not overstating the case when he says that each Duntroon-educated officer was literally worth his weight in gold."

Just one more thing—and this must mean very much to every Duntroon man—on the side of the hill, overlooking the College, is a single grave, in which lies the body of the man who made the College what it is, one of Australia's "truly great," the late Major-General Sir W. T. Bridges, K.C.M.G., First Commandment of R.M.C. He and the Duntroon men who have gone to the front have given to the College an heritage of glory, and their memory will be an inspiration to every man who passes through Duntroon. One of the late General's last acts was to point out that every officer chosen for a specially difficult type of work at Gallipoli was an old Duntroon graduate. Great was his pride in the men whom he had shaped, and greatly has it been justified. Vitai lampada tradiderunt.

For a boy about to enter upon a life career, no heritage could be grander than that of the Royal Military College, and no life is likely to turn out finer men, nor men of more worth to their King and country.

R.C.M.B.

Rowing

THE usual Christmas camp took place during the last week of the Christmas holidays. Some very good work was done, in spite of the lack of coaches and the fact that the pontoon at the association's shed, after unavailing efforts to keep it afloat, one night sank unobserved to the bottom. Much difficulty in launching the boats was experienced through this mishap, but, taking advantage of a high tide, we managed to float the eight; and once it was out Sydney Grammar School kindly offered us the use of part of the space which they occupied, in the Sydney Rowing Club's sheds at Abbotsford. Mr. Ramsay was able to take the eight out every afternoon, Mr. Hutchison and Mr. R. J. Hardy attending to the coaching of the fours, and by the end of the camp the crews had settled down to the positions which they will probably be in on the day of the race. They are at present seated as follows:—

THE EIGHT

1. D. S. Lloyd	5. R. Jeremy
2. H. C. Windeyer	6. H. F. Wilson
3. M. Wilson	7. A. D. Morgan
4. R. S. Holcombe	Str.: J. M. Ralston

1ST FOUR

L. F. Dods
L. Hudson
B. Ryland
G. D. Morgan

2ND FOUR

K. F. G. Kopsch
K. C. Hannah
J. W. Capp
J. H. Cunningham

There are four of last year's colours still with us in the eights—namely: Jeremy, Wilson, Lloyd, and Holcombe, while stroke and seven are recruited from the fours, so that the only inexperienced members of the crew are Windeyer and M. Wilson. The first four contains one man who rowed last year, in Ryland; the remainder in the fours being new. The positions of the coxes are as yet undecided, but we have Hunt and Perry, who coxed last year, and some promising beginners.

During the term the 2nd Four was unfortunate enough to lose its stroke, Clowes, who was forbidden to row on account of his heart. However, Cunningham, who was then rowing "two," was brought to the stroke seat, and Hannah was put in his place.

The services of R. J. Hardy being no longer available owing to his enlistment, the Headmaster kindly consented to coach the 1st Four. Mr. Hutchison is again taking charge of the 2nd Four, and we hope that the four, under his coaching, will be as successful as it was last year.

In rowing from Berry's Bay this year, we have been favoured with much better water than usual, but the Eight was again obliged to row from the University sheds at Glebe Point while in the racing boat, in which they had their first row on Saturday, March 17th. During the latter part of the term the 1st Four has been rowing in the "Nellie," but as the Headmaster finds it impossible to go to Glebe Point every afternoon they will not use their racing boat until the Easter camp.

Taken as a whole, our prospects this year are good, and we are looking forward to a good showing on April 18th, thanks to the untiring efforts of Mr. Ramsay in his most unselfish and constant attention, often at great personal inconvenience, to the coaching of the Eight and his interest in the rowing of the school.

The Perfect Oar

ONCE on a dim and dreamlike shore,
 Half seen, half recollected,
 I thought I met a human oar
 Ideally perfected.
 To me, at least, he seemed a man
 Like any of our neighbours—
 Formed on the self-same sort of plan,
 For high aquatic labours.

His simple raiment took my eyes:
 No fancy duds he sported;
 He had his rather lengthy thighs
 Exiguously "shorted."
 A scarf about his neck he threw;
 A zephyr hid his torso;
 He looked as much a man as you—
 Perhaps a trifle more so.

And yet I fancy you'll agree,
 When his description's ended,
 No merely mortal thing could be
 So faultlessly commended.
 I noted down with eager hand
 The points that mark his glory;
 So grant me your attention, and
 I'll set them out before ye.

His hands are ever light to catch;
 Their swiftness is astounding;
 No billiard ball could pass or match
 The pace of their rebounding.
 Then, joyfully released and gay,
 And graceful as Apollo's,
 With what a fine columnar sway
 His balanced body follows!

He keeps his sturdy legs applied
 Just where he has been taught to,
 And always moves his happy slide
 Precisely as he ought to.
 He owns a wealth of symmetry
 Which nothing can diminish,
 And strong men shout for joy to see
 His wonder-working finish.

He never rows his stroke in dabs—
 A fatal form of slinging,—
 And never either catches crabs
 Or misses the beginning.
 Against his ship the storm winds blow,
 And every lipper frets her;
 He hears the cox cry, "Let her go!"
 And swings, and drives and lets her.

Besides, he has about his knees,
 His feet, his wrist, his shoulders,
 Some points which make him work with ease
 And fascinate beholders.
 He is, in short, impeccable,
 And—this, perhaps is oddest
 In one who rows and looks so well—
 He is supremely modest.

He always keeps his language cool,
 Nor stimulates its vigour
 In face of some restrictive rule
 Of dietary vigour.

And when the other men annoy
 With trivial reproaches
 He is the captain's constant joy,
 The comfort of his coaches.

When grumblers call the rowing vile,
 Or growl about the weather,
 Our Placéux smiles a cheerful smile
 And keeps the crews together.
 No "hump" is his—when everything
 Looks black his zeal grows stronger,
 And makes his temper like his swing—
 Proportionately longer.

One aim is his through weeks of stress,
 By each stroke rowed to aid work.
 No facile sugared prettiness
 Impairs his swirling blade work.
 And Oh, it makes the pulses go
 A thousand to the minute
 To see the man sit down and row
 A dug, dong race, and win it!

Such was, and is, the perfect oar—
 A sort of river prince, Sirs;
 I never met the man before,
 And never saw him since, Sirs.
 Yet still, I think, he moves his blade
 As grand in style, or grander,
 As captain of some "Happy-Shade"
 Elysian Leander.

Swimming

THE fifteenth annual swimming carnival took place at the Lavender Bay baths on Monday, March 19th. The following are the results of the events:—

50yds. Handicap, under 13.—Hardy ll. 1, Gaden ll. 2, Ward 3.

100yds. School Championship.—Brown 1, Minnett 2; time 1min. 7sec.
 50yds. Handicap, under 16.—Keeling 15secs. 1, Brownlow 12secs. 2; time 51secs.

50yds. Handicap.—Brownlow 12 secs. 1, Goddard 6secs. 2; time 40secs.

Lower School's Teams Handicap.—
Lower IIIB., Gaden, Ward, Dodds,
Hardy, 7secs. 1.

Old Boys' Race.—Beale 1, Gall 2,
Mayne 3.

50yds. Championship, under 16.—
Harris 1, Manchee 2, Hammond 3;
time 31 4-5secs.

Musical Lifebuoys.—Barsby 1.

50yds. Breast Stroke Championship,
—Lewarne 1; time 32secs.

Diving Championship.—Lewarne 1,
Minnett and Curlewis (tied) 2.

Egg and Spoon Race.—Miller 1,
Waring 2.

Upper School's Teams Championship.—Moderns' (A)—Brown, Moses,
Raleigh, Colquhoun—1; Upper (IV. B)
—Curlewis, Minnett, Spring, Goddard

Cadet Notes.

THIS term the Corps has been without the services of Major Pulling, who is on leave for six months, and Mr. Thomson, who has left the school. In addition all the Subalterns have left.

The Corps takes this opportunity to welcome Mr. Hunt, who has joined as Second in Command. Mr. Hunt was a Sergeant with the A.I.F. at Gallipoli. His services are bound to be of very great value.

Drill has been carried on as usual except that our rifles are still in the hands of the authorities. The places of the Subalterns were satisfactorily filled by those who are taking their examinations for commissions. Classes of instruction for them and for Non-coms. have been held. The results of the examinations for commissions are not yet to hand.

On Thursday, 8th March, the Corps provided a guard of honour for the Governor. His Excellency was speaking at the North Sydney Carnival on the North Sydney Oval. The rest of the Corps marched up to the Oval and listened to the Governor's address.

The Memorial Service, held in the Chapel to unveil the Brian Pockley Memorial Window, was made the occasion of a Church Parade.

The following last year's cadets have enlisted since 'Xmas:—Lieuts. Hardy and Jackson, C.Q.S.M. Shaw, Cpl. R. R. King, Pts. Thomas and Rosewarne. Lieut. Simpson has entered Duntroon College. The Corps wishes them good-bye and good luck.

The result of the Non-Coms. Examination are as follows:—

Recommended for promotion to rank of Sergeant: Balcombe, Bignold, Hutchinson, Loveday, Ryland, Turnbull.

Passed for Sergeant: Charlton, Dods, Heath, Purser, Sawyer.

Recommended for promotion to the rank of Corporal: Chesterman, Cosh, Cox, Dods, Goddard, Heath, King I., Purser, Reading, Sawyer, Stanton.

Cricket.

AFTER defeating S.G.S. at the end of last term by 108 to 38, we again met them at the beginning of this term, when the result was reversed, the scores being 130 to 87. Since then the team has not been defeated. The most interesting week was from March 3rd to March 10th, when, owing to the postponement of the S.H.S. match from Saturday, February 24th, to Wednesday, March 7th, three competition matches were played and won. This gives us six points in this year's Competition, and as every other team has been beaten at least once, we are leading by two points.

Four members of last term's team left at Christmas—Mayers, Charlton I., Heron, and Brooks. Moses, Taylor, and Roberts have gone to the 2nd XI. Cox, Butler, Manchee, Raleigh, D'Ombraun, and Maclachlan have been brought into the team, and Doyle played in the T.S.C. match. Manchee shows promise as a batsman, and is very sure and keen in the field. With the exception of his 35 not out v. S.I.C., Raleigh has not yet made good.

The batting, which showed improvement and promise last term, has been well up to standard, and some high scores have been made. With the bat, and also with the ball, Holcombe is easily the best. He has captained the team with skill and success, and our good position in the Competition is largely due to him. He has made 283 runs in six matches, 217 being made in Competition matches, viz., 134 v. T.K.S., 33 v. S.H.S., and 50 v. N.C. In the same six matches he captured 30 wickets for 206 runs, his best performances being 7 for 32 v. T.K.S., 5 for 50 v. S.H.S., and 7 for 28 v. T.S.C. The next batsman is Freeman, who, though still uncertain at the beginning, is a very quick run-getter when set. He has excellent strokes on the off and behind the wicket, and drives with great power. His best scores this term were 82 v. S.H.S., which won the match for us, and 105 v. T.S.C. Both innings were bright and attractive, and the ball was sent over the fence three times on each occasion. Cox, who was tried in the 1st XI. without success last term, has struck form and has some good performances to his credit. In the Competition matches he and Holcombe were the opening batsmen, and on each occasion the score was taken past the half-century before the fall of the first wicket. His scores, which show an improvement each time, are, 21 v. T.K.S., 29 v. S.H.S., 36 v. N.C., 52 v. T.S.C. Sawyer did not strike form until the N.C. match when, by good hard hitting, he contributed a useful 22 at a time when runs were needed. In the T.S.C. match he was the highest scorer of the day, making 108 not out, the runs being obtained by good strokes all round the wicket. He was thus the third man to pass the century this term. Balcombe as wicket-keep has maintained his form of last term, and is in the first class of wicket-keeps. In all matches not 30 byes have been recorded against him, while he has taken nine wickets by stumping and catching.

Amongst the bowlers, after Holcombe, Butler is bowling with most success. In all matches he has taken 13 wickets for 184 runs, his best performance being 5 for 19 v. S.I.C. Sawyer has not got wickets, though he bowls with good pace and length. Raleigh, though disappointing as a batsman, is proving useful as a bowler, his best performance being 5 for 32 v. T.K.S. in their second innings.

The fielding has been good in all matches except the S.H.S match. The best fieldsmen are Freeman, Cox, and Manchee.

The following awards have been made by the General Sports' Committee:—Colours to Balcombe and Sawyer; Blazer, with 1st XI., to Butler; plain blazer to Manchee. Cox has filled the vacancy on the Sub-Committee. Bats were presented to Holcombe, Freeman, and Sawyer, for their batting performances.

COMPETITION MATCHES.

School v. T.K.S.

Played at No. 2 Oval on 3rd March, and won by 151 runs. Rain had fallen over night, and the wicket was very wet. Bettington won the toss from Holcombe and sent us to the wickets. Cox and Holcombe were the opening batsmen. The ball came through easily enough, and both batsmen played with confidence. Holcombe scoring freely by off and on drives, and Cox increasing his score mainly by singles. When he was 21 he touched one from Moore, which Bettington held—1 for 74. The next five batsmen, Moses, Taylor, Freeman, Raleigh, and Balcombe, contributed 13 between them. Sawyer, Manchee, and Butler shaped much better, each reaching double figures. Holcombe in the meantime had been increasing his score by bright cricket. When he was about 70 he gave three chances, two being difficult, but having survived these, he took his score on, passing the century with a straight drive for 6, and was caught by Bettington ii. off Moore when he had reached 134. The whole of our team was caught out. The best performer with the ball on the T.K.S. side was Best, who took 4 for 19. T.K.S. replied with 74, to which Walters contributed 24, Best 18, and Sheehan 12. Holcombe was in top form with the ball, taking 7 wickets for 32 runs.

School v. S.H.S.

Played at No. 2 Oval on March 7th, and won by 52 runs. The day was rather hot, and the wicket perfect. Holcombe won the toss and sent S.H.S. to the wickets. Lachmund was run out when he had only scored a single. Williams was just going nicely when he was clean bowled by Holcombe. Then Bain and McCredie became associated, and runs came freely from the latter batsman. Our fielding was very bad, easy balls being allowed to go through to the boundary. The fourth ball of the last over before the lunch adjournment was touched by Webb, and held by Holcombe, and the innings closed for 147. Our bowling had been very much off, although Holcombe took 5 for 50. The last batsmen of S.H.S. had been allowed to make too many runs. In the field even we looked a beaten team. After lunch Holcombe and Cox went to the wickets. Runs came slowly, although the batsmen seemed confident enough. When Holcombe had reached 33 he was bowled by Webb in a good ball off his pads—1 for 58. D'Ombraim was next batsman. He and Cox took the score to 81, when he was bowled by Williams. The next batsmen, Taylor, Moses, Raleigh, and Balcombe, made 5 between them, and we were 6 for 97, then 7 for 106. Things looked very bad. Meanwhile Freeman, who had been rather uncertain, began to see the ball, and the margin began to diminish. Runs came freely, till our score was 141. With a beautiful six to leg he made the scores even. The next was a good off drive for four, and the match was won. Freeman, by forceful batting, took his score to 82, when he was caught by Cooper off McCredie. His performance at the critical stage of the game was most meritorious. Manchee, 17, was the not out batsman, his runs being made by nice strokes all round the wicket.

School v. N.C.

Played at No. 2 Oval on March 10th, and won by 74 runs. A slight shower had fallen in the early morning, making the surface of the wicket damp. Brown won the toss from Holcombe and sent us in to bat. Cox and Holcombe were the opening batsmen, and both played very cautiously to begin with. Holcombe was missed by Newton at point when his score was 20. After that he opened out, hit a couple of sixes, and finally took his score to 50, this time being held by Newton at point—1 for 80. D'Ombraïn followed, and was out for 0. Raleigh then remained with Cox till the luncheon adjournment, scoring 9—3 for 107. After lunch Cox remained at the wickets for several overs, but failed to increase his score, 36, a slow but valuable innings. Freeman followed, but failed to get going. Maclachlan and Taylor both reached double figures, and Sawyer hit out well and scored 22. The only bowler who gave any trouble was Brown, who took six wickets for 30. Brown and Cripps were the opening batsmen for N.C. Cripps was not at home to Holcombe's fast ones, and when his score was 9 he skied one, which was held by Holcombe. Newman was next batsman, and shaped well from the beginning. When 18 he put one up from Sawyer to square leg, and Butler took the catch. Brown meanwhile had been batting well, but when he had reached 29 he was cleaned bowled by Holcombe. Of the remaining batsmen Darke, Gray, Ward and Bennett reached double figures, and the innings closed for 114.

OTHER MATCHES.

School v. S.G.S.

Played at Rushcutters' Bay on February 10th, and lost by 43 runs. This was the first match after the vacation, and neither side was showing any form. Hodgins won the toss and decided to bat. Hesslein, Gostelow and Dickson shaped well as opening batsmen, and Kendall hit out for his 29, twice sending the ball over the boundary. Holcombe had the best average among the bowlers. Our batting, with the exception of Holcombe and Freeman, was a very poor display. Holcombe had reached 39 when, through a mis-judgment in the call, he was run out. Freeman gave promise of a good score when he was bowled by Wing. None of the remaining batsmen reached double figures, and the innings closed for 87, Wing having taken 5 wickets for 35 runs.

School v. S.I.C.

Played at No. 2 Oval on February 17th, and won by 104 runs. Sullivan won the toss and decided to bat. The wicket was good and the weather perfect. Porter and Landers were the opening batsmen, but they were not at home to Butler's bowling. In the fourth ball of his first over Butler had Porter l.b.w.; in the third ball of his second over he had Landers also l.b.w.; in the fifth ball of his third over he had Stenmark l.b.w. Sullivan, with 17, was the only one to make a stand, and the innings closed for 47. Cox and Moses were our opening batsmen, but Moses again failed, being out for 1. Taylor and Freeman scored 17 and 16 respectively by bright cricket, but Raleigh, with 35 not out, was the best performer of the day.

School v. T.S.C.

Played at No. 2 Oval on March 17th, and won by 5 wickets and 303 runs. Holcombe won the toss and sent our opponents to the wickets. The only boy to reach double figures was Henderson, who made 19. Balcombe and Holcombe opened for the School. Holcombe failed to get properly over one from Shortt when he had reached 17, and was caught at mid-off. Freeman was next batsman, and immediately began to score freely. Balcombe went along slowly, not taking full advantage of the bowling, and was out l.b.w. when he reached 26. Doyle came next, and went very slowly, while Freeman piled up the runs at the other end. He gave a fine exhibition of fast scoring, and with a straight drive for six brought his score to 105. The next ball he played to Bruce, who held the catch. He had been at the wicket a little over the hour and had not given a chance. Doyle was out soon after for 13. Cox and Sawyer then became associated in a partnership which yielded 148 for the fifth wicket. Cox hit out more freely than ever he had done before, and scored a good 52. Meanwhile Sawyer was going merrily and fast approaching his century. He was driving beautifully to the off, glancing cleanly to fine leg, and sending loose ones over the fence. An off drive to the fence brought him over the century, and when he had scored five more the innings closed, Sawyer 108 not out, MacLachlan 6 not out.

2nd XI.

The team has had a term unbroken by defeat. Edwards and Laurie were the most successful bowlers, and in the two competition matches each secured fourteen wickets for under the hundred. No opposing team scored a hundred in its first innings, and in both competition matches the team passed the double century. The batting has improved. MacLachlan has a sound defence, and clean strokes behind the wicket. Bevan, Charlton and Edgell have also batted consistently.

v. S.G. Won by 6 wickets and 20 runs. S.G.S., 89 (Munro 20, Benjamin 19, Woolcott 17). D'Ombraun 3 for 16, Cobb 2 for 12, Manchee, Vivers, Clissold and Edwards one wicket each. School, 4 wickets for 109 (Doyle ii. 40 not out, D'Ombraun 31, Bevan 18, Manchee 13 not out).

SENIOR DISTRICT.

Hornsby was the winner of the Competition. The scores were:

Hornsby	9 points
House B	7 points
House A	3 points
North Sydney	3 points
Mosman	2 points

Hornsby and House B tied for top place, but Hornsby beat House A in the play-off. The Competition was a very interesting one, most of the matches being closely contested. The standard of batting was good, and the bowling was excellent. Two hat-tricks were obtained in the opening match. The results of matches are:—

North Sydney beat House A by 101 to 79. North Sydney, McIntosh 40, Simpson 22, Gaden 4 wickets for 27, Vallack 3 wickets. House A, Telford 18 and 6 wickets for 34, Barsby 16 and 3 wickets for 9, Pulver 14 not out.

House B beat House A by 60 to 49. House B, Simpson 13, Smith 9, Barnes 4 wickets, Crossman 6 wickets, including the hat-trick. House A, Cleghorn 18 runs, Merrifield 6 wickets, including the hat-trick.

Hornsby beat North Sydney by 13 runs. For Hornsby, Nicklin 31, Hardy 15, Phillips 15 not out, D'Ombrain 10, Ranken 4 wickets for 44, Hardy 3 for 19, Purser 2 for 14. For North Sydney, McIntosh 43, James 10, Gaden 4 wickets for 30, Vallack 3 for 39.

Hornsby beat House A by an innings and 34 runs. For Hornsby, Taylor 32, Turnbull 18 not out, Phillips 18, Nicklin 14, Maclean 13, Bennett 11, D'Ombrain 4 wickets, Hardy 3, Ranken 2. For House A, Barsby 22, Cleghorn 19, Telford 17, Fuller 13, Telford 4 wickets for 45, 3 for 18; Cleghorn 2 for 15.

House B beat Mosman by 193 to 145. For Mosman, Woods 44. For House B, Smith 21 and 3 wickets, Barnes 4 wickets.

House B beat North Sydney by 46 to 35. For House B, Smith 11 and 4 wickets, Barnes 5 wickets. For North Sydney, Gaden 10, Vallack 4 wickets, Simpson made 45 in the 2nd innings.

The match between Mosman and North Sydney was cancelled.

House A beat Mosman. 1st innings, House A, 132 (Cay 31, Bucknell 48, Telford 20); Mosman 129 Woods 57, Alexander 29. 2nd Innings, House A, — (Cleghorn 49 not out, Pulver 15 not out), Mosman 80 (Woods 33, Heath 18; bowling, Heath 4 for 25, Woods 4 for 21, Barsby got 5 wickets).

Mosman beat Hornsby by 136 to 12. For Mosman, Dabelle 44 runs, Harris 29, Heath 16, Alexander 5 wickets, Dabelle 4 wickets. For Hornsby, Ranken 20 runs, Remington 15, Ranken 3 wickets, Hardy 3 wickets, Taylor 2 wickets.

Hornsby beat House B by 110 to 72. For Hornsby, Phillips 39, Maclean 15, Taylor 21, Ranken 5 wickets, Hardy 4 wickets. For House B, Smith 29, Shaw 18, Smith 6 wickets, Barnes 3 wickets.

Hornsby beat House B in the Final by 4 wickets and 92 runs. Hornsby 178 runs. Nicklin 53 retired, Maclean 34 retired, Taylor 29 not out, Bennett 25, Hardy 5 wickets for 29, Ranken 2 for 24. House B 86 runs. Grieves 31, Shaw 16, Barnes 14, Smith 13, Barnes 2 wickets.

JUNIOR DISTRICT.

Matches have been played regularly during the term, nine teams competing. The weather has been good and very little alteration was made in the programme. House B had a fine record with an easy win. The team played five matches and won them all with a total of 13 points.

House B was strengthened by the good bowling of Hammond and Windeyer II., and the batting of Baker (Captain) and Kidson.

Ware and Hunt made the best scores for Mosman A. Ware also had the best bowling average.

Maling, Sedgwick, Quodling and Nelson played well for Mosman B.

Maschwitz, Slessor I., Smith II. and Hardy II. did good work, both batting and bowling, for Hornsby B.

North Sydney B was supported well by the good batting and bowling of Doyle (Captain) and the good all round play of Brooks, who did some fine fielding.

Correspondence.

THE MEANING OF THE UNIVERSITY.

THE Editor Torch-Bearer.

Dear Sir, — I have often wondered if boys who have just left school and who are just proceeding to the Varsity realize what the University means. To some it is merely a place where they will receive some training in a special subject, such as Engineering, Law, or Medicine, which will fit them to be an engineer, a lawyer, or a doctor, as the case may be. To other men the University is an excellent place where one can have a very good time while presumably studying, say, Arts or Science. And to others—and I am afraid that these are in the minority—the University stands as a great school—a great preparatory school, in which they will be trained and prepared to take their place in life, not as mere skilled specialists, not as educated idlers, but as leaders of thought and action.

The University is, or should be, a place where a boy is to cultivate high ideals; where a boy is to gain a knowledge of public matters and to acquire a desire to further investigate them; it is a place where a boy is to obtain a knowledge of men so that he may know how to lead men in after life; finally it is a place where the boy is to make friends—and those not only of his own profession—who will help and stand by him through life.

It is surprising what little interest the average student takes in University affairs. The University, even in war time, has many active bodies, such as the Union with its debating society; the Undergraduates' Association, which publishes "Hermes," the University journal, and which arranges the garden parties, the annual re-union of graduates and undergraduates; and, in peace time, the commemoration festival; the Sports Union, which provides opportunity for every kind of sport; the various special societies, such as the Medical, Engineering, and Science societies, which hold monthly meetings and publish journals; finally, the Christian Union, a particularly admirable non-sectarian institution, which, among other activities, holds meetings at which addresses on many different subjects are given by prominent men.

All these organisations the undergraduate has time to support, and, if he is to get anything at all out of his University life, must support. Yet these societies and their functions are really very indifferently supported at the present time. The debating society has a mere handful of regular members. The sports union, out of eight hundred men at the 'Varsity, can get only one hundred and fifty to make up its membership roll. As little interest is taken in the rest.

The reason for all this is somewhat difficult to find. It may be that the schools—and this is not excepting the great public schools—are at fault in not imbuing their boys with the right public spirit; it may be that the boy himself fails to realise that his duty towards his school, his 'Varsity, and his country is to make himself as useful and as noble a citizen as possible; or it may be that the University is itself at fault in not adequately fostering and encouraging among its students the true ideals of public service. Whatever it may be, it is certainly a fact that the majority of boys coming up to the University at the present time do fail to take that part in the life and activity of the University which their duty towards themselves and their country demands of them.

The following clipping from a sporting paper has been sent to the Hon. Treasurer :—

A VERSATILE SPORTSMAN.

It is evident that in Mr. B. St. John, the best tennis player in Queensland, who some years back defeated both Horace Rice and H. A. Parker, then at their best, the Northern State has one of the most versatile sportsmen any country has known. He is the best tennis player Queensland has ever produced, save, perhaps, Ernie Hutton (another all-round champion); as a footballer he has had few superiors, and he has shone as a cricketer. And all this in spite of the handicap that he is without a right hand. How he could play cricket and football under this penalty is hardly understandable. Now he has done what many of his friends have for years expected him to do. He has won the chess championship of Queensland. His chief points in chess are his carefulness, his middle game, and his end game. He lacks a book knowledge of the openings. And to crown all he has, in spite of an impediment that one would have thought absolutely a bar, been accepted by the military, and is now Company Sergeant-Major, having enlisted some months back.

W. G. B. Boydell has left the Koh Kang Kol Mine, Chosen, and is on his way back to Australia to enlist. His address in Australia will be 46 Pasley Street, South Yarra, Victoria.

In a large batch of letters from the Front, Old Boys have expressed great delight at receiving letters from the boys at School. The boys also very much appreciate those written in reply and treasure them highly.

The badge of the O.B.U. has been a great success. Letters are being continually received from Old Boys and from parents expressing appreciation of the idea and of the design and manufacture. The first lot has been sold out, and a further order has been sent to the medallists. Badges may be obtained from H. H. I. Massie, The University Club, Castlereagh Street, Sydney (price, 3/6 each).

The Hon. Treasurer begs to acknowledge with many thanks "Q's" annual donation, and has divided it in accordance with the wish of the donor as follows:—Chapel Fund, £2; Library, £1; Hospital and Mission Fund, £1; Athletic Sports, £1.

In a recent number of the Sydney Morning Herald there was the following note:—

"Major Richard John Dyer, previous to being honoured with the D.S.O., had been awarded the Legion of Honour by the President of the French Republic. On leaving school, he entered the employ of Mort's Dock, Ltd. Being in the engineering profession, he joined the Australian Engineers, under Col. Spain, and on the outbreak of the war left for the front as a 2nd Lieutenant with the 1st Field Coy. of Engineers. He soon made his way upward, and received promotion to the rank of Major last year on his 22nd birthday. In December, 1915, he was mentioned in despatches by Sir Ian Hamilton for his work in Gallipoli, and in February of the following year was decorated with the Legion of Honour for his work on the Peninsula."

The same paper has the following re Lieut.-Col. J. B. St. Vincent Welch, D.S.O.:—

"Immediately on the declaration of war in August, 1914, he went into camp as Captain in the 1st Field Ambulance, having previously held that rank in the N.S.W. A.M.C. since 1908. He left Sydney with the 1st Contingent in October, 1914, and was for some months in Egypt. He took part in the great landing at Gallipoli on April 25, 1915, when he was Officer Commanding, and was there promoted Major in March, 1915, and Lieut.-Col. in July, 1915.

"He was twice wounded, and was invalided from Gallipoli to Malta in November, 1915. He went again to Egypt, and thence, in March, 1916, to France, where he is now in the field as Lieut.-Col. of a field ambulance.

"His youngest brother, Major H. L. St. Vincent Welch, has constantly followed in his steps since October, 1914, as an officer of the 4th Field Ambulance in Egypt and Gallipoli, and now in France. He was in the landing at Gallipoli, and was there twice mentioned in despatches by General Sir Ian Hamilton. (He has now been mentioned for the third time by Sir Douglas Haig, from France.—Ed. O.B.U. col.)

"The eldest brother, Capt. Leslie St. Vincent Welch, has just returned from France, the second time, in charge of wounded. He first left Sydney for Egypt in July, 1915, and subsequently as regimental medical officer of the 2nd Divisional Ammunition Column, saw service in the field in France."

The Rev. F. Hugh Hordern, L.Th., has resigned from Dulwich Hill and has been appointed curate of St. George's, Battery Point, Hobart.

Kerrod Voss, owing to his departure for Queensland, has resigned the Hon. Secretaryship of the Union, and H. H. I. Massie has been elected to the vacancy. His address is c/o The University Club, Castlereagh Street, Sydney.

The G.P.S. Regatta will take place on the Parramatta River on Wednesday, April 18th. There will be three races, the Eights, 1st Fours, 2nd Fours. No School is allowed to enter more than one crew for each race. Steamer tickets may be obtained at the School. The School crews will be in camp at Gladesville as usual during the Easter holidays.

The address on Anniversary Day, May 4th, will be given by the Rev. I. D. Armitage (Old Boy) at 9.15 a.m. The Anniversary Service will be held on Sunday, May 6th.

The Anniversary Service will take place on Sunday, May 6th. His Grace the Archbishop will celebrate at the 8 a.m. service and preach at 10.45 a.m. It is hoped there will be a good attendance of Old Boys at both services.

The Hon. Treasurer begs to acknowledge the receipt of subscriptions (received before 22/3/17) for the year 1916-17 from the following:—

Old Boys' "Torch-Bearer" Fund.

Third Annual Report and Statement of Receipts and Payments.

SYDNEY, 7th March, 1917.

TAKING into consideration that no special appeal was made last year and that we have increased our Fund by £51/16/2, at the same time losing so many of our subscribers who have gone to the war, we consider the result satisfactory.

We wish to make a special appeal to boys just leaving the school and all Old Boys who have not yet joined the Torch-Bearer Fund.

We think that this is the time to come along and take the places of the boys who are fighting at the front and keep the Fund going so as to enable us, after the war, to make a special effort and assure the success of the Fund.

Any boys who want particulars of the Fund can receive any information from Mr. N. Y. Deane, c/o Messrs. Brooks & Deane, Belmont Building, 15 Castlereagh Street, Sydney.

In conclusion, the Trustees wish to thank all last year's subscribers and to state that they intend now to invest another £100 in the Commonwealth War Loan, as probably all available money will be so invested during the war. All subscriptions to the Fund are indirect contributions to the fighting forces of the Commonwealth.

Correspondence.

THE Editor Torch-Bearer,

Dear Sir,—An incident has just occurred to my mind which I feel sure will have an interest for you, as showing the widespread "field of fire" of the School magazine.

It was early in December last and my regiment had just come out of the line at ———, away up on the borderline between France and Belgium, for the usual periodical "rest" (was there ever such a misnomer by the way) in billets.

After seeing the men fixed up, I was shown to my billet by the guide, and on entering the room which we were going to use as a dining-room, the first thing which caught my eye was the Torch-Bearer, of October, 1916, lying in a cupboard.

You can imagine my astonishment and joy at thus unexpectedly bumping up against such an old friend in that remote part of the world. I promptly spent all the time I could spare in eagerly devouring its contents—but, unfortunately, that time was not very long, because, as I have already told you, we had only come out of the line for a rest—and every soldier knows what endless "fatigues" that little word—in its military sense—denotes.

I had intended to acquaint you of this incident at the time. However, there has been no opportunity until now, when I am lying in bed recovering from the effects of having made too close acquaintance with an enemy H. E. shell, which deprived me of an eye and left several other distinguishing marks.

I shall be about again in a few days now, and am looking forward to a good time in old London, pending the Medical Board's decision whether the future is to be war or Australia for me. I may add that I am informed there are quite a number of one-eyed men at the front—altho' I haven't come across any Australlians among them.

Yours,

P. E. BROWNE.
