The Library Sub-Committee beg to thank Mr. G. F. Robinson for a further supply of war literature and pictures, which have been greatly appreciated.

A branch of the "Snapshots-from-Home" League has been formed in the School, and we should like all our amateur photographers to give a helping hand to this endeavour to bring a whiff of home atmosphere to our men in the trenches.

We welcome on the staff this term Mr. A. McD. Armstrong, B. Agr. Sc. Melb., and Mr. D. Short, undergraduate of Sydney University, who has lately returned from active service at the front.

We congratulate Mr. R. W. Carey, O.B., on his election as member of the School Council.

The Annual School Concert and Dramatic Entertainment will take place in the Coliseum Hall on Friday, 25th October.

Just before the Midwinter holidays, on his resigning from the staff, Mr. A. D. Marchant was presented by the Headmaster, on behalf of himself and the staff, with a handsome entrée dish as an expression of the esteem in which he was held by his colleagues and in recognition of his valuable services to the School.

Acting-Professor E. R. Holme has resigned from the School Council, of which he has been a member for many years. For some considerable time also he has acted as Bursar and Secretary. Captain Holme will shortly sail for Europe with a University Company of the A.I.F. He has been chosen as Chairman of the Administrative Committee, whose duty will be to continue the training of Australian University students during the demobilisation period that must be spent in Great Britain. The good wishes of the School go with him.

Australia Oversea.

(Suggested by the Honour Rolls of the Great Public School Magazines).

DEAR lads, ye died that children
 Might learn to smile again,
 Ye live on in their laughter
 By Tigris, Nile and Aisne,
 Ye hear their footsteps patter,
 Ye watch them at their play,
 They seem your own wee sisters
 Ten thousand miles away—
 Upon your heads they shower
 The blossoms quaint and rare
 That little fingers gather
 For love to lavish there.

Dear lads, long, long shall Leeuwin
 Look out across the foam,
 And watch for you returning,
 Already havened home.
 Your own the larger vision,
 And well ye understand
 The hallowed grave of Anzac
 Is still your native land,
 And voice of Southern waters,
 However far ye be,
 Your requiem—Dead of Empire—
 Australia oversea! —B.

Old Boys serving with His Majesty's Forces.

Major Keith Williams, — Siege Battery, and Captain Dudley Williams, R.F.A., have both been mentioned in despatches. Dudley Williams is Adjutant to Col. Bruce Hay, H.Q., Anti Air Craft Defences, 4th Army.

Jack Massie is well again, and he says his foot is alright. He is having a twelve weeks machine gun course at Grantham, after which he expects to return to France.

Colin Alison has just got his commission in the Aust. Flying Corps. Owing to his still having some training to do he will not be sent to France as yet.

G. C. Connell, who was in the Officers' Training School at Liverpool, has owing to a slight operation to the leg, been transferred to the ranks and is now to take things easy for a time.

W. H. Zander enlisted in May, 1916, as a Private, and left as a Sergeant in the — Batt., — Infantry Brigade, and is now Adjutant of the Batt., and holds the rank of Lieutenant. He was "mentioned in despatches" in the New Year's honours Gazette, Jan. 1st, 1917, and was twice recommended for the Military Cross.

W. G. Tait writes to one of the boys and says he is in hospital with a bad attack of malaria. He will consequently have to take a base job at Cairo, and will not be allowed to go to the firing line again.

J. W. Forbes was killed at Polygon Wood on the 20th Sept., 1917, and was mentioned in a despatch by Sir Douglas Haigh on the 7th November, for gallant and distinguished services in the field. In a letter received by his mother two months after he was killed, his C.O. writes: "Your gallant son had on his front a very difficult enemy position to take, a position requiring a clear, cool head, great courage, as well as a brave leader. He captured all his positions, and also did most excellent service that day in the capture of many of the enemy, and was killed while consolidating his position. We will miss him terribly, for he was the most beloved and popular officer of his Battalion, beloved by both officers and men, and was known to all as "Tracker," as he was affectionately called, owing to his keen insight. He was a fine soldier, a splendid officer, a good comrade and friend, and the only consolation we have is that he died a hero's death, after doing his work nobly and well."

H. L. St. Vincent Welch was promoted Lieut. Colonel in April last. After being severely wounded and five months in a hospital in England, he returned to duty in France on the 2nd March last. He has succeeded Lieut. Col. A. H. Moseley as O.C. of the 6th Field Ambulance.

Noel Eedy sailed by the — on June 6th. His address is c/o Mutual Life and Citizens' Assurance Co., Ltd., Effingham Home, Strand, London, W. C. 2. As was stated in the June number he received his commission as Flight Lieut. just before leaving Australia.

R. Black enlisted in the Light Horse as a trooper at the end of Nov., 1914, and he left a few weeks afterwards for Egypt. In May, 1915, after training in Egypt, he left with his Regiment for Gallipoli. He was promoted on the field to a commission at Gallipoli. At the evacuation of Gallipoli in Dec., 1915, he was chosen as one of the rear guard, and was one of the last to leave the peninsula. He saw almost all the fighting in Palestine in which the 6th L.H. were engaged, was mentioned several times in despatches, and awarded the Military Cross for special act.

of gallantry near Beersheba, through which the lives of a large number of troops were saved. He was shot through the lungs and heart on 16th August, 1917, near Beersheba, while carrying out special duties close to the Turkish lines, and he died next day. He was buried at Rafa, and the news that he had been awarded the Military Cross reached the Regiment an hour after he had been buried, so that he was never aware that he had been awarded the distinction. The official report of the award of the Military Cross was given in our last issue.

Dear Pennefather,
I write to convey to you my very hearty congratulations on the Military Cross, which has been awarded to you in recognition of your conspicuous gallantry near Dernancourt on the 5th inst. While you were in charge of a party of Pioneers engaged in sapping work in front of the line, the German attack developed, when you at once disposed your men among the infantry. By your fine personal example of courage and coolness, you encouraged your men, who most gallantly stuck to their posts, and fought against heavy odds until all became casualties, while you yourself were severely wounded. It was indeed a fine piece of work, and your assistance to the infantry materially contributed to our success in repelling the enemy attack with heavy loss to him. I do trust that you are making satisfactory progress, and that you are not undergoing too much suffering. With good wishes and many thanks for your fine work."

G. B. Browne writes: "I am no longer a soldier. I was discharged from the Army last November, and am now a person at leisure—that is to say, the doctor won't allow me to do anything at present. I am not very bad, though, and I hope before the end of the war to be fit enough to help beat the cursed Hun. I have two brothers here in the A.I.F. One was wounded in France in 1916, and lost his left eye, and is now employed on Australian Records. The other is in the Engineers, and is going to France very soon. I have also a brother in Palestine in the Third Light Horse.

Bruce Dowling has been on leave; he was to go to Buckingham Palace on the 6th July to receive his M.C. The Gazette notice for winning it was "For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as Engineer reconnaissance officer, he carried out his work in a most expeditious and capable manner, and his reports were of great assistance and a large proportion of the work was carried out under very heavy shell fire; he showed great courage and resourcefulness in obtaining information."

C. H. Carter has been awarded the Military Medal, and promoted to Corporal for capturing a German machine gun and crew. Soon after this he was wounded in the right arm and shoulder. His many friends congratulate him on his honour, and wish for him a speedy recovery.

Roy H. Wilshire writes that the judges at their sports are two captains, both old North Sydney boys, who are with us at present—Capt. Chaplain Dent and Capt. E. A. Woodward. Even the aeroplanes seem to take a good deal of interest in our amusements, and often circle round just above and watch games, etc., and sometimes swoop down and fly with terrific speed barely six feet above the surface of the ground.

Signaller Hunter Freeman was on the Staff of the Colonial Sugar Co., and joined up with the Australian Field Artillery, but was subsequently demobilised and taken to England and placed in charge of a department of the highest explosive factory there. However, this was not sufficiently "active service," and with a letter from the Imperial authorities that his services had been entirely satisfactory, he left at the end of 1917, and rejoined the A.I.F., and was drafted into the Signalling Corps, where he had to go through a severe course of training, and when he sat for his exam, received a first class certificate, a no mean performance, when it is remembered the marking is on a 99 per cent. basis. so he is now at the front as one of the eyes of the artillery.

Writing recently of extraordinary things that happen on the field, he says: "One day, while resting on the roadside, I noticed several officers approaching, but as that is a daily occurrence and, as a rule, only calls for a casual glance; but something prompted, and kept prompting, me to look at them carefully to see if there was not an old school fellow that I knew with them, and as they passed I carefully noted every man, and what was my surprise to see my brother (G.K.F.), whom I had not seen or heard of for some time, and was not even aware of where he was. I was so delighted that I rushed across the road to him. He, of course, was equally surprised, but fell out, and we had a good time together for an hour or two.

One of the officers of the — Battalion, writing to a friend, says: "My first job was to get some of the water away from the trenches. This meant heavy work for one or two of the officers; and one of those who fell in was Bill Sayers. Because he was a good man, I sent him up to a rotten place, and gave him a job of getting the trenches drained and improved. This does not sound much, but it means a lot in a place where one is under continual fire, and up to one's neck in mud and slush. Not only did I send him there, but I had to keep him there for eight days without relief, and I tell you that to let you know what a fine old sport the bonnie laddie is. No complaint from him, but he just waded in, glad to know he was of use and I am glad to say that at the end of the job I was able to hand him his captaincy, which he has well earned.

In another letter the same officer writes: "A short while back we were in perhaps the most critical and important stunt our fellows have ever been in; it was a great fight; the position was one of vital importance to both sides. The battle lasted for 20 hours. At one stage it looked critical, and I sent forward a company of ours to hold the enemy. It was a tough job to give to any man, but it was in good hands, viz., old Bill Sayers, and he was a hero. Good old absent-minded Bill, always bound to forget something, and there he was in his hurry to get out, without a weapon of any sort, and in that condition was tackled by three Huns. That didn't trouble Sayers. He pulled off the steel helmet of one Bosche, and laid him out with that. He dealt with another with his hands, I believe, and was heard calling to the third to come back, but he evidently didn't like the look of Sayers just then. He did some fine leading, and I saw him that night passing through to the clearing station with a happy smile on his mud-caked face that could only be on the face of a man who had had the time of his life. He was hit in the arm, not seriously, I am glad to say, and it was a big relief to me to see him sent to Blighty. I am recommending him for the M.C." (A cable states that he received the decoration.)

Extracts from Eric E. Fallick's letters:—

"I was delighted to receive another issue of the Torch-Bearer a couple of days ago. My word the old School is going ahead. It is getting a footing, too, in the Battalion I belong to— Captain Paterson, M.C., is the assistant Adjutant and Captain Sayers is O.C. of D Company. Captain Dixon (a master) is in the — Battalion, and his brother, also Captain, and D.S.O., is in our Battalion. He got his decoration in the Passchendaele stunt of October 12 and 14, 1917, where he was the only officer in our Battalion who went "over the bags" to come back unhurt.

At the beginning of January I was put into the New Zealand Stationary Hospital suffering from pleurisy, and later was moved to the Eighth British Red Cross Hospital at Le Touquet.

Finally, I was marked for "Blighty," and was transferred to the Third L.G. H., Wandsworth. After being discharged from hospital I was given a fortnight's convalescent leave and went to Scotland, and on returning to London, was granted a fortnight's furlough as I had been in France 14 months without having had any leave.

When I reported again, I went before a medical Board, and was marked for "light duty," and sent down to Sutton Verny Command Depot in charge of a draft of men. At Sutton Verny I met Colin McCulloch and one morning he and I walked into Warminster together, and spent the morning there. McCulloch returned to France very soon after, and, I regret to say, he was killed on April 11th.

I had only been at Sutton Verny a few days when I received orders to proceed to No. 3 Command Depot, Hurdcott, where I am now. An old Shore Master—A. C. Ross—is in this Depot. He is a Sergeant in the 17th Battalion, and has been invalided across from France. He comes along to see me now and again, and we have great yarns in my cubicle. I have also met two other "old boys" here: Sam Alderton and Hutchinson. Alderton belongs to the 5th Division, and Hutchinson to the Engineer reinforcements.

From Routine Order No. 406, 13th November, 1917:

"The Corps Commander, under authority delegated to him, has awarded the Military Medal to No. 574, Corporal (T/Sergeant), now 2nd Lieutenant Harold Innes Spencer, for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On October 12th, south-west of Passchendaele, Corporal Harold Innes Spencer (although wounded) returned immediately his wound was dressed and reorganised his platoon, which had suffered heavy casualties. Under heavy fire he carried in the wounded lying in advance of our line. Throughout the operations, until relieved on October 18th-19th, this non-commissioned officer very greatly distinguished himself by his thoughtfulness, courage, energy, determination and splendid devotion."

Capt. H. H. Dixon wrote from France on June 10th. He regretted that his self censorship was so thorough that we must not expect much news in his letters. He mentioned that Ivan McKay had got the first M.G. Battalion. He went on "The Germans certainly seem to know the theory of war well, and how to exploit successes, but our power of hanging on, combined with that of offensive work by the French, and the gradually increasing numbers of Americans, will finish the enemy off, I am convinced. When one sees the terrible devastation wrought on French cities, towns and villages, one sometimes wishes that similar sights could be witnessed by our own people, to enable them to understand for what we are fighting. I was unable to finish last night, so take the opportunity to do so, afforded by the fact that I am on night duty; it is now 4 a.m., and I have just sent off the morning report to Division, giving the situation as it now is on our Front. I have become quite a bicycle expert, and travelled about 30 miles to-day over hilly country on a heavy machine. I hope to see you all some day."

Leslie H. Holden was promoted to Captain in the A.F.C. last April, and was transferred from the fighting squadron in France to England, where he is at present at Minchinhampton on six months' home establishment work, and is on duty as an instructor during his stay in England.

T. J. Treloar received his discharge on June 26th, owing to loss of sight of right eye, caused by shell concussion.

Lance Manning was gassed last December just before entering an officer's school. He has been in convalescent camps ever since in France, as his heart has been weakened from the effects of it. He is now doing clerical work and typing in the Senior Medical Officers' office at Harve.

Bracebridge, Lincoln,
May 12, 1918:

I thought perhaps you might like to hear something about aeroplanes, and as I have had a chance of being among them here, and also going up for a flight in one occasionally I will tell you what I know.

The one I went up in last Tuesday was a two seater, used a lot for short bombing raids behind the lines in France, but it is also useful in other ways, as it carries an observer and three machine guns, two firing forward through the prop., and one worked by the observer on a swivel and bracket, firing all round the tail. It has a maximum speed of 130 miles an hour, which it did easily when I was up in her. In fact the pilot seemed to delight in going along level at a comfortable speed of seventy m.p.h., and then suddenly open her up at 130 m.p.h., and start looping the loop, and various other antics. (He told me afterwards he had done every trick he could think of). Well, you see that machine has many features of the small fighting scout, which is built for stunting, and which depends on stunting for its life. This type of machine is only a single seater and usually carries two machine guns, firing forward through the propeller, and fired by a trigger on the pilot's control handle, which is between his knees, so he has not to take his hands off his controls to fire his guns.

They are very small machines; just look like toys on the ground, but are very fast indeed, doing about 135 m. per hour and over, also capable of climbing at an alarming angle, and they can do every kind of stunt known in them. In fact the pilot of one of these machines is never happy unless he is looping the loop or rolling or flying upside down or something else absurd. Sometimes you will see them come down in a straight nose dive straight for the ground from hundreds of feet, until you think they will hit a roof or tree, and suddenly they will shoot up again, do a couple of loops and clear off to somewhere else.

They have got to be able to do all these sort of things in a scout, as when they are fighting a Boche scout they are almost entirely dependent on their stunting for their success, and it is always the man who can stunt best and quickest that wins.

Then there are the slower and heavier artillery machines carrying pilot and observer, which fly over the lines, spotting for the artillery. These machines are always protected by small scouts from attack while they are at work.

Then there are patrol machines, fairly fast and armed with machine guns for patrolling the lines, and keeping Boche planes from crossing our lines.

Then again there is the heavy bombing machine, very slow, only doing about seventy miles per hour. The most famous and biggest of this type is the Handley-Paige, which can carry a few tons of bombs, and can stay up in the air for seven hours. They can carry 23 men, but on bombing stunts only 4 or 5 go, the space being used up for bomb carrying. These machines have two engines and two propellers, one each side of the pilot's seat, developing 300 h.p. each. I am not certain, but I think they are Rolls-Royce engines.

Then there is another big bombing machine, called the Blackburn or Kangaroo. It is just a miniature Handley-Paige. To see it in the shed alongside the other smaller machines, it looks a regular giant, but when compared with the Handley-Paige it is a baby.

THE TORCH-BEARER.

The German Gotha corresponds to this machine.

It is also used for long distance bombing raids, and is usually protected from attack by smaller fighting machines.

These, then, are some of the types of machines used now-a-days, but they are always changing, and it is hard to keep in touch with latest improvements. I would like to go on telling you about them but time is limited, and I may write more later on.

(Signed) E. R. Sinclair.

Lieut. Alfred James Fell has been awarded the Military Cross, the engagement which gave him this honor took place about the beginning of April. On the 8th May he was captured, but for a fortnight was posted as missing. His mother then received a cable that he was a prisoner of war first at Karlsruhe and afterwards at Grand Nez in West Prussia. The last named camp is not known to the Red Cross Commissioner in Sydney, and news is anxiously awaited of Lieut. Fell's welfare.

Lieut. George H. Francis, No. 5 subsection, 4th Machine Gun Squadron, — Australian Light Horse Brigade, A. I.F., Egypt, has been awarded the Military Cross.

A. W. Gregory writes, in reply to one of the quarterly letters:

You are lucky in catching me, because I got a bit of high explosive shell in the head from the "Archies" (anti-aircraft guns you know), about a week ago, and am now undergoing a nice rest cure in a perfectly good hospital, and hope to be getting home to England in a week or two. Wish me luck.

I don't know if you're interested at all but my Squadron came right through the big German push of March 21st last. I'll see if I can remember enough about it to make this letter as interesting as yours.

On the 21st March at 9.30 a.m., the Germans "came over the top" from the south of St. Quentin to Arras, with about, I think, 45 divisions of 9000 odd men apiece. Quite a large quantity, eh? It was very misty and we couldn't see to fly; in fact, you could not see thirty yards ahead. We had been bombarding him from 5.30 p.m. on the 20th till he came over and kept on till about midday on the 21st. Then he captured our field gun positions and a lot of field guns and nearly stopped us. Then we started to fly, as it had cleared up.

I'm afraid I can't give any more dates and things as we were working at such high pressure you couldn't remember, but I'll tell some incidents.

The first man to go up was my Flight Commander (he's a Captain); he got badly wounded and had to come down. His observer got him out of the "bus" and carried him to our front line (they landed in No Man's Land); then he went back and rescued the guns, maps, and papers, and burnt the machine in face of machine gun fire, and got the M.C. for it.

Another man went up and got lost in the mist over the Hun lines, and had to come back with his engine shot through, and the machine so badly damaged that we had to burn it.

I went up next and met a company of Huns in the open. I dropped four bombs on them, and my observer fired 400 rounds into them with his machine guns. It was too easy; we wiped 'em out. Things went on like this till dark and he still advanced.

Next day we packed up and went to another aerodrome, burning ours when he came up. That day another fellow had been on the line, killing Huns and had used all his ammunition; he was chased by five Huns and had to land and run for it. Another caught a Hun battery on a road; blew them up with bombs and shot them down with his guns. Spoilt them quite severely. But it's the same story right through. We used 137,000 rounds of ammunition and 600 bombs in eight days, all at good targets. It was fine sport. Licks rabbit shooting! the bag's bigger!

We had 22 machines shot to bits in those eight days, and 32 casualties, only about six killed, but we reckon we caused over 2000 Hun casualties in that time by bombing and machine gun. and during this time the whole squadron moved six times, and a squadron move is some job, believe me. I know because I was senior pilot and when the Flight Commander got wounded. I got his job, and had to keep it. Still I got a captaincy out of it, so why worry.

D. B. Carver writes from France: "It affords us all over here very great pleasure to think that we are not entirely forgotten by those whom we would have remember us, and it helps to shorten for us the long monotonous days and months of war and to bring back very vividly to our minds the joyous times of the past. There is quite a number of Shore chaps in this unit and a good many in various units close by. Here we have O. P. Wood, W. Doyle, G. Valder, C. L. Boyce and myself, and quite near is Major Grainger, T. Robertson, Treatt, R. J. A. Rodgers, and several others that I cannot think of.

I had the luck to get Paris leave with Orm Wood, and there we met Bunny Rodgers, so had a splendid time together. We left Paris the day before the first shell landed there, so consider ourselves lucky, as a civilian population in a panic is a fearful sight and painful to witness.

I saw Keith Fraser a couple of weeks ago coming out of the line, looking very well and pleased at the idea of having a few days rest.

At the present time things are fairly quiet on our sector, as both sides seem to be awaiting some move on the part of the other. The Americans are appearing in ever increasing numbers and are doing splendid work wherever they go in. Contrary to expectations too, they get on very well with the Australians.

I have been extremely unfortunate in this war. I came to France with the first Australians, and since then I have never had the luck to be sick or even wounded, and save for a leave to Blighty and one to Paris, have never been away from my unit, consequently I am getting just a little tired of this war, and all connected with it, and long for the delights of our 'arbour, and the lights of Sydney town. By the way I am the only one in this unit (— Army Aust. F.A.B. Am. Column) who receives the Torch-Bearer, and I think the other members aforementioned are a wee bit jealous. Do send them one each next time, and so lighten their darkness."

Extract from a letter received from Sapper A. R. C. Hull, Palestine:—

"We are camped not far from old Jericho, in against the side of the valley, on a slightly raised bit of ground, so we can see right across the plain. Just below is a road, and on the far side of it are camped all the regiments, and a day or two ago the big pink Y.M.C.A. tent was erected among them. As to-day is Sunday I think I shall go down to the service there this evening. They generally have a song service of some sort. Do you remember the Bible story of the ravens finding Elisha? On the way from Jerusalem to here, the way we came, I saw the cave where he was supposed to have lived. The ravens weren't really birds you know, but a tribe of cave-dwellers, whose tribal crest and name they were. Also the place where we get all our drinking water from was known as the Pool of Elisha. I rather think it says in the Bible that he stood on the bank and threw some stuff into the water to purify it, as before it had been absolutely undrinkable. It is the best water anywhere around here.

While we were on guard on the pontoon bridge I used to get a swim every day; dive in off our bridge and get out on one further down stream. The Jordan runs so fast that it is impossible to swim against the current, so that after swimming down we have to walk back. Sometimes we used to walk up stream a bit and get in on the first bend, and come down on the current, shoot through the pontoons (like big rowing boats) on our bridge and go down to the next. Also we made fish traps out of wire netting and caught enough cat-fish to have fish for breakfast nearly every morning. One of our chaps managed to make some quite decent fish hooks out of steel wire, with which we used to fish while on night shift on the bridge. We sometimes caught small bream this way; the biggest was about three pounds, but the cat-fish were much larger. One day just as we were going back to tea, we found one of the traps had four big catfish in at once; you ought to have heard the noise they made when we took them out of the river. They make a kind of crying noise.

L. J. Longwill writes to the Editor: At present I am in the — A.C.H. (which for the time being is at Port Said), having had an attack of malaria and of which I am thankful to say I am pretty well O.K. again. Among the Old Boys who are in here, also are Major C. M. Fetherstonhaugh, D.S.O., and Capt. L. L. (Curly) Williams, M. C., and little "Curly" Campbell, who is returning to Australia on a 6 months' furlough, having been wounded in four different places. The Major and Curly Williams both have the same complaint as myself. George Campbell left to-day for the Rest Camp; his wound being healed. This is the first time I have seen Curly since I left School, and they tell me he is a very fine officer, and we had a great old chat about the School. I have not seen Allan Garbett or Hoskings lately, but Digby (Jerry), Kite, Barney Haydon and Snowball were all O.K. when I left the Regiment. Rodney Robey, who was recently wounded, has returned again to duty. While on the Cadré at Moascar I journeyed to Port Suez with a cricket team, and played against a team there, which included Major Joe Harris. I had the honour of bowling him both innings, the last being a beautiful shooter, which did not cause him to smile naturally. Major Vernon is S.M.O. at Moascar, but says he would sooner be out with the boys and I quite believe him. McCall McCowan was here with the Black Watch (Scots) but he has now left this front for the present. I have not been receiving my Torch-Bearer as yet, but fortunately I have been able to get the loan of one each time. I saw the Rev. Stacy Waddy here to-day. He is off to Australia. I cannot say that the Jordan Valley is the best place in Palestine, for the flies and mosquitoes, dust and heat, are anything but nice. No doubt but that you have heard all about the Jordan and Jericho, etc., ere this, and I shall as well as many others, not forget it for a long time.

A. C. Elliott writes:—My next younger brother to me (W. A.), who left Shore in May, 1914, has got on very well in the R.N., and was promoted 1st Lieut. recently with seniority on 15th March last; he was awarded a Japanese decoration, "The Order of the Sacred Treasure, 5th class," for work in the Mediterranean last year. A Jap destroyer was torpedoed, and my brother's destroyer, the ———, took her in tow, and had rather an exciting time getting her into port; he with some of his men were put on the Jap destroyer, while his skipper superintended arrangements from the ———. He was also mentioned in despatches last month. He is now in submarines and seems to quite enjoy stalking the wily U boats from underneath the sea.

My youngest brother (G. A.), joined R.N.A.S. early this year on reaching 18, and got his commission as a probationary Flight-Officer on the amalgamation of the R.N.A.S. and R.F.C.; he became a temporary 2nd Lieut. in the R.A.F., and has now nearly completed his training, and hopes to be in France before very long.

There is little news of any interest concerning myself. I have been in the 53rd Battalion ever since I landed in France and have been Adjutant for the last thirteen months, with the rank of Lieut. I have had a very lucky run, and only been knocked out twice, once in March, 1917, when I got a few scratches in the hand, and the other occasion was on April 17th last, when I was rather badly gassed at Villers Brétonneaux, during the Somme push; my eyes got very badly burnt, and are still far from right, and I have to wear dark spectacles; however, I hope to be out again in a month. I was with our Battalion on the Somme in the winter of 1916-17, at Bullecourt, in Flanders last year, and in the Somme push from where we came down from Wyhchaete and Messines, until I was gassed. There are no Old Boys in our Battalion, but I often see Dod Mehan, who is in the same Brigade. It was rather funny that both he and I got Military Crosses out of the same stunt—the battle of Polygon Wood in September, 1917.

I often bump up against Old Boys and have a yarn over the old days. I saw Guy Pulling just before he left for India, Jack Massie in hospital recently, and Pat Manning and Ginger Smith were quite near our Battalion in February last.

In addition to the Old Boys I have mentioned I have met several others, also Col. McKay and Mr. Goldsmith, who you no doubt know has the M.C.

Sergeant A. Clunies Ross (permanent address, c.o. C. Potter, Swan House, Great Swan Alley, London) would be very glad to receive letters. He wrote on May 5th, from Hurdecott, near Salisbury, as follows: "I have now been about five weeks in England, having never been really well since I absorbed some gas in the Ypres section last October. I am slowly getting rid of the ronchi, which at present, according to the A.D.M.S., infest my chest, and shortly expect to get my furlough, and a week or two later a return to France will probably be my programme. Mr. Dixon is on the Headquarters Staff of the 9th Brigade, and I have spoken to him over the phone; he hoped to call in and see Phil Dixon (who is also in A Company, a Lance-Corporal of Signallers), but was unable to do so. A quotation from a Roman paper is especially interesting, as it refers to the fight in which Jack Pockley lost his life; it is owing to them that the whole German plan has failed; they were given a special post of honor near Amiens and since their arrival the enemy has not been able to advance one inch. Over there I walked one day to a headquarters to ask after Dixon's and Cook Russel's whereabouts and ran into a Staff Capt. who remarked, "Well, how are you, sir?" Being a Sergeant I could only reply, "Very well, sir." It was Morell. In a shop at Steenmerck, where I was trying my French on Mademoiselle, Ken Anderson walked in. I saw a good deal of Morgan and am very sorry to hear of his damaged hand. I have also seen Fallick, Alderton, and the youngest Hutchison.

The man in the bunk next me was under Paul Voss for some time and spoke of him as the best M.O. he has known."

Mead C. Cox wrote from Heytesbury on May 27th, he had been very glad to receive letters from present boys. He was along with J. H. Priest and A. G. Pritchard; most of the rest of his draft, including Dick Hardy, Treatt, and the Ralstons had already gone over. At Suez he had seen Major Harris, Bray, (a Corporal of Engineers), and O. D. Meares. Priest wished to thank two present boys who had written to him.

S. Claydon, (L207, Private), wrote from France at the end of April. His permanent address is care of E. Clarke, Twynham, Sharnbrook, Bedford. He mentioned that Sergeant V. V. Williams had been accidentally wounded at bomb practice, in which a live bomb had got mixed up with the duds they were supposed to be using. The wound was not very serious, but was "a Bligh-ty." In spite of bright moonlight, they had had a spell from molestation.

Kerrod Voss wrote on blue winged paper from Nottinghamshire, June 16, "On the day of the race I was thinking of them and wishing I was in it again, but we shall all be too old to row when we get back. Morell had dinner with me a short time ago, but I have not come across any old boys in the R.A.F. In my work here there is plenty of flying and I have to go up almost every day. In ordinary straight away flying there is no sensation at all, but some may be garnered from various stunts. One of the most exciting of these is a stall in the front seat of an F.E. A stall consists of pulling the nose up vertical, when the machine of course stops, the whole thing then hangs for a moment, and all is as still as the grave, and then the nose falls with a dull crash, like a pleasure boat on a rough sea, and you tear down at a tremendous speed. A loop is comparatively dull, as the centrifugal keeps you in the seat, and it is just like sitting in an arm-chair. Poor old Abernethy's name came out in the casualty list the other day; it is horrible to think how many have gone now. George Hamilton is going strong on the — Australian M.G. Battalion, with Ivan McKay at the head. Eric Sinclair is at Lincoln, about 30 miles away; I am hoping to fly over for lunch one day soon."

Ted Woodward wrote "In the Field," on June 16th: "On arrival in France for a week I gave anaesthetics day and night, more anaesthetics than I ever thought possible; sometimes I went to sleep on the stool, while the bearers were bringing the next patient to the table. Then for a week I did nothing, and then there was the inevitable casualty, and I walked right into the war on my first day here. This is the best life of all; all the best men are here, and one meets new friends, and finds old ones every day. There is no underground mining; everyone is concerned solely with the job on hand. This is a very refreshing experience; the mere spectacle of war is interesting; the roads packed with guns, horses and troops of all nations on the move, and all the time constant activity in the air above. Every now and again one has rather too close a view of a bursting shell, but at this moment I am in no immediate danger, camped in a tent in a little glade some distance back; fields all around are thick with grain to the last acre, and there is a glade of poppies and cornflowers at the fringe of every crop. Last night I had my own private nightingale singing in good voice in a tree just overhead. The disembarkation officer in England was J. O. H. Nickoll; Paul Voss is close to me, looking splendid; Malcolm Gillies and Roy Wiltshire are transport drivers in this ambulance, and Alldis is pay sergeant. Tozer is at the base, coming up soon; O. G. Dent is our Padre. We were terribly sorry to hear about John Pockley and Dibbs. To-morrow night I go to mess with brass hats, red tabs and generals, where I expect to meet Kaepfel. I saw Gavin Cameron up the line, and two Hutchinsons, and Hales, convalescing from boils, at the base. I hear that Hugh Pulling and Froggy Morell are doing splendid work. No Torch-Bearer again; please give my address to those concerned, U.B.A., 71 Cornhill, London, E.C. We hear, but can hardly credit it, that Australia is suffering from a revival of interest in the war."

Keith Freeman says that since last writing he has obtained his commission, and also been awarded the meritorious service medal. His brother, Hunter, is Signaller to the — Battery, R. F.A. He left the munition factory where he was head chemist and rejoined the Artillery. Charlton and Harry Moors were in Freeman's Battalion, the 4th Pioneer.

The following note has been sent to the Editor:

"Lieut. G. K. Freeman, M.M. — Pioneer Battalion, A.I.F., has now been on active service for nearly three years, the greater portion of which has been in France. He went as a private, and promotion that has come to him has been won wholly on the field of battle. Early this year, after having been raised to the position of Regimental Warrant Officer, he was sent to Trinity College, Cambridge, as a Cadet, to study for his examination for a commission. He passed first in two subjects, and 4th in combined order out of 212 who sat, and gained his commission. Since then we hear, for services rendered at Paschendale, General Robertson has decorated him with the Military Medal."

Full details have been received of the death of the late Lieut. John Graham Antill Pockley, killed in action on the 30th March last during a counter attack near Villiers Bretonneux. The following are extracts from letters recently received from his Colonel and other officers of his Battalion, the 33rd:

"On Easter Saturday, the — Brigade was counter attack Brigade for the — Division.

The — Battalion and the — Battalion counter attacked the Bosche in Hangard Wood, which is about four kilos from Corbie. They had to cross three hundred yards of open country under very intense machine-gun fire, and without artillery support, and suffered severe casualties.

"Jack's Company did magnificently, due in a great measure to his splendid leadership. Jack and his Sergeant were hit at the same time, and when his batman and a stretcher-bearer came forward to help him, he insisted they should take the Sergeant first, and when they returned for him he had been hit again, and had died from exposure.

He was always very cool, very courageous and very keen in the line, and inspired his men with the greatest confidence.

He was nothing if not unselfish and thoughtful. It is small wonder he was so greatly beloved by his Company, and by the whole Battalion. It was a sad day for us when he died, and we mourn his loss more than words can express."

This is the action of which the following description is culled from English papers:

"Meteren was held by Australian veterans. Is it necessary to say that Meteren continued to be held?"

Italians papers:—

"It is owing to them (A.I.F.) that the whole German plan has failed. They have been given a special post of honor near Amiens and since they arrived at the place the enemy has not been able to advance an inch."

A private cable states that Captain-Chaplain O. G. Dent, is ill in hospital in London. Also that Lieut. R. O. Dent is now in No. 3 General Hospital at Wandsworth, suffering from gunshot wound in the right shoulder.

Lieut. Colonel R. John Dyer was recalled from the Engineer Headquarters, Brightlingsea, at the beginning of April, to take up his new command, Chief Royal Engineer to the 4th Australian Division, and took part in the Villiers Bretonneux fighting.

W. J. Maclean returned early in September. He spent six months in hospital in England, but has now pretty well recovered from all his wounds, excepting one affecting the muscles of the right hand.

H. G. Brooke, who left school about 1913, has gone into camp with the University Company.

Eric K. Burke's new address is No. 20555, Anzac Wireless Station, Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force, A.I.F., care of Presidency Postmaster, Bombay, India. He wrote on July 1st from Hamadan, in Persia, where he probably was serving in the expedition to the Caspian Sea and Baku. He had been busy with photography and we look forward some time to seeing what is probably a unique collection.

Captain (Dr.) John Sidney Wilson died of wounds in France on August 9. He left in 1912 after passing through every form in the School. Thence he passed into the Medical School of the Sydney University, and became a resident student of St. Paul's College. In July, 1916, he graduated, taking his Ch.M. and M.B. degrees, and on October 1 his name was gazetted as a Captain in the Army Medical Corps, A.I.F.

In the interval he served as resident medical officer at the Royal South Sydney Hospital, and in December left for the Front. After serving for some time at Salisbury Plains, he proceeded to France in 1917, and was attached to a field ambulance.

The manager for Messrs. Burns, Philp and Co., London, has cabled the following particulars: "Captain Wilson, during an advance on the morning of August 9th, closely following the infantry, was severely wounded in both legs by shell fire. His wounds were immediately dressed, and he was conveyed to an advanced dressing station. Despite all medical efforts, he died at about 5 p.m. the same day, and was buried in the Australian Military Cemetery near Villiers Bretonneux."

The facts concerning the death of Captain Dudley Adams, who was killed in action on March 21st, at Jussy, near St. Quentin, are that on the morning of that date the enemy heavily shelled the waggon lines and vicinity for several hours, killing and badly wounding many horses. Captain Adams ordered his men into dug-outs, and then went himself to a hut to obtain a revolver to destroy the wounded horses. While in the hut it was struck by a shell, which wrecked it and mortally wounded Captain Adams. He was picked up and carried to a dressing station close by, but expired on the way.

His commanding officer further states as follows: "I need hardly say how keenly I felt his loss. We had been in the battery together for over two years. He was a keen, capable, fearless officer, very thorough in all he did. I have not only lost a good officer, but a true, cheerful companion and staunch comrade, who will, indeed, be very difficult to replace. He was much loved by officers and men alike."

Max Hall writes to his mother a very interesting account of his voyage from Sydney to ———, the Italian naval base, where they found every type of vessel in the harbour. They anchored near to the ———, and went ashore in lighters. There were ——— men in camp there, and room for many more.

In a letter from Devonport he says: "Before now I did not know what the war was. It is not just Germany and her Allies just fighting against England and her Allies. Great Britain has got small camps from one end of Italy to the other. Just to supply rest and meals for troops going to Egypt and Salonica. The same way in France all along the lines there; America is putting railways and train sheds all over the place and stores of all kinds were put together in various centres. In all the camps we were in, everything was ready for us; and at La Havre there was absolutely no trouble about the meals. At ——— we went straight into the huts. The food was not at all bad;

we used to have bully beef and biscuits every day, besides other things; when you hear of bully beef you think of some sort of very tough meat, but it's quite different; it is like well-cooked corned beef, often with a bit of jelly on it. I think it is very nice, but you can get tired of it. On the second morning after our arrival at _____, the Siege and _____ L.H. were sent to build an aerodrome. We got on well with it, as everything is in parts already cut to size, so all we had to do was to bolt them together. After half a day's work we had something to show for our work. After sixteen days we moved on by train and got to Bari for breakfast. We followed the east coast and were at Foggia by dinner time. We were all along within a stone's throw of the water and submarines came to the surface to bomb the trains occasionally. We reached Bologna the same night and had breakfast at Voghera. At Rome we changed our engine for an electric one, as we had to pass through a large number of tunnels. We went through thirty-five in an hour and a half. We next stopped at Davona, and during the following night passed Monte Carlo and the border, arriving early at Cannes. After passing the outskirts of Marseilles, we followed the left bank of the Rhone to Lyons. From there we went to our second resting place, St. Germain au Mont d'or, where we went into camp for our usual clean up and feed. Next day we reached Bourges and had hot coffee at Orleans. The train was re-united at Vaux, and we arrived at our destination as far as the train was concerned at 5 p.m. From Le Havre military station we marched with our full kit. I can advise anyone else coming that it is useless to carry more than is really required, as when you go back to France there are only a few things you can take with you. I could easily manage upon what I could put into one bag. In this camp ration tickets are issued, and at meal time simply give in your ticket. This is the best way as each man gets the same. We have eggs and sausages for breakfast and tea, as well as bread and butter (margarine), and cheese for tea; stew or cold meat for dinner. So you see we do not starve. Eggs to buy are fourpence half-penny; There are a good number of American troops here, nearly all big men, like the first Australians. After two days we left for Southampton and entrained for _____ On arrival we marched with our baggage to the main barracks, and then went to _____, a distance of three miles. The _____ and _____ Reinforcements, who wished us good-bye in Sydney, met us there.

Dr. H. V. Hordern writes from Cairo, 13th August, 1918:

"Have been in Cairo three weeks understudying the man in charge here, and have got on to the work very well. I expect, very shortly, to be sent either to take charge of the work at Port Said, or else up into Palestine. It has been exceptionally hot; am in a bath or perspiration all day and the nights are not much better. There is a fair amount of buying to be done in the local market, and I have been round with an interpreter (everything is done in Arabic, and mine is not too good just at present) to the native bazaars. I try to look as wise as I can and drink gallons of Turkish coffee and Persian tea, without which no bargain seems to be complete. Have never seen so many blind people, or those with sore eyes; they say of this country that it is a land of sin, sand and sore eyes. The very first person I met in Port Said was, of course, an old S.C.E.G.S. boy—Cuthbert Featherstonehaugh, who was down on leave; had had a bad bout of malaria."

Trooper Wardell has reached Egypt, and was fortunate in travelling in the same boat as Lieut. R. P. Franklin.

Speech Day.

IN the afternoon of Wednesday, September 25, in beautiful weather, the School held its 29th Speech Day. The proceedings began (for the first time) with a service in Chapel, during which two windows were unveiled and dedicated by the Archbishop to the memory of Captains R. N. Richardson and L. L. Richardson (brothers) and L.-Corp. Roy Milton.

The distribution of prizes took place, as usual, in a large marquee erected for that purpose on the schoolground. On the platform were His Excellency the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson (who gave away the prizes), His Grace the Archbishop (who presided), Sir Thomas Dibbs, General Finn, Captain Stanham, Dr. F. Antill Pockley, Mr. R. R. P. Hickson, and the following members of Council: His Honor Judge Backhouse, Hon. R. J. Black, the Ven. Archdeacon Davies, Canon Hey Sharp, Canon Charlton, Rev. J. H. Maclean, and Mr. A. B. S. White.

The Headmaster's report on the year's work was as follows:—

Your Excellency, my Lord Archbishop, Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have the honor to read to you the Report of this School for the last year. First we record with thankfulness the addition of about 120 names to the long list of those serving their King and country. This number represents the normal yearly output of the School, making a grand total of about 340. Present boys have a great inheritance in this war record, and every day, taken out of the middle of work, a few moments are devoted to thoughts for the welfare of that large and honored and well-loved band. The toll unfortunately has been specially heavy in the last year, which has seen thirty-five more names placed alongside those of their elder brothers-in-arms whose warfare is closed, but whose service and sacrifice will be commemorated as long as the School lasts. They are of many different ranks and of divers services, but now they are all together again; in noble ends like these there are no gradations of honor; all are of one rank, the high rank awarded to nothing but service and sacrifice. The Honor Roll is in your hands, and no words are needed to assure you that every boy in the School, only too many of whom have suffered an intimate personal loss, sees not only the torch of life shining far away in the ranks of war, but also feels a new compelling claim to make his life more earnest in these present everyday moments, and less unworthy of those who have fought and fallen, and of those who are still fighting and will fight on till they fall, or till they win for the world peace with honor. The number of fresh distinctions is greater by a few names than that of the honored dead. We all naturally rejoice for the boy himself, his family, and his school, when a noble deed is done under circumstances which bring the reward of valor, though we know well that many a soldier, whose deeds never come to light, deserves Cross or Medal. To this truth the readiest witnesses are the winners of decorations themselves. "My distinction is nothing," said an Old Boy, writing of his fallen brother, "it is he, who gained full marks."

The Chapel, which became the School's most valued possession just at the time when it was most needed, and in which seventy boys were presented to your Grace last Confirmation Day, has received, or is about to receive, many fresh memorials of its Old Boys, including windows to Lieut. R. Black, M.C., the Richardson brothers, both captains, courageous, Lance-Cpl. Milton and Captain John Sidney Wilson, and memorial tablets to Pte. F. Johnson, Major Gother Clarke, Lieut. Eric Dowling, whose name is also on the Litany Stool, Captain Owen Dibbs, and Gunner Rupert Garraway. The Chapel is yet to receive a Memorial which will do more than anything else to make its services more solemn and splendid, and will have untold influence on the character of this School. It will never be forgotten, in our lives, that Captain Brian Pockley was the first Old Boy to fall—the news came one peaceful summer afternoon of the weekly holiday—whose name is recorded on the first of the Chapel windows and in the Memorial Prize called after him. Early this year his brother, Captain J. G. A. Pockley, equally beloved by his contemporaries, and revered by his successors, fell as his brother fell three and a half years earlier. It is in his memory that Mrs. J. G. A. Pockley is giving an organ for the Chapel. We hope that by this time next year, in spite of war difficulties, the organ will be in use. The generosity of the offer assures us of a fine instrument, and it will seem to us to speak with the voices of men, so closely linked to the School, that we almost expect still to meet them in their familiar places.

Another memorial gift is that of £500 as a nucleus for a new laboratory in memory of James Blackwood, some time senior prefect of the School, and Pockley Prize winner, Latin Medallist at both University Public Examinations, and, later, private soldier of the King. The Council have prepared a scheme to be submitted to the donors, which will, it is believed, produce a memorial of great and lasting service to the School. James Blackwood's inclinations were literary, but it is felt that there is nothing inappropriate in a scientific bequest, as it were, coming from one of the School's most accurate and tasteful classical scholars, for his training and his native outlook made him regard as akin to himself everything of human interest.

Several more foundation prizes have been presented to the School since last year, including the A. H. Wade Prize from the parents of an Old Boy Gunner, who died of illness while on active service; a gift of £100 has also come from an anonymous donor, who wishes the annual interest to be spent on two prizes to be called the "War Memorial" and the "United Services Memorial" prizes, and to be awarded respectively to the head of the School, and to any boy in the Upper School who just loses an important prize by the accident of fortune.

In mentioning prizes, I cannot forget as I stand here that two years ago Muirton Forbes came up to receive from General Ramaciotti the Brian Pockley Prize; he is one of the many recently fallen, and near him lies another Old Boy over whom his comrades have carved the inscription, "The earth holds not a braver gentleman."

It has been our pride and joy to welcome back a fair number of returned Old Boys, and to all such we offer now the School's congratulations, its sympathy in their sufferings, and best wishes for their future; amongst the returned men we are glad to welcome Major Harris, who, after nearly three years of service, will shortly take up his old position on the staff.

Every troopship that leaves these waters takes away its quota of Old Boys, of whom also a large number will soon be leaving in the University Company. This Company is to be under the command of Capt. Professor E. R. Holme, who has served the School long and faithfully from the early days when he was a member of the staff, and through later years when he took a seat on the Council, and eventually became Hon. Secretary and Bursar. His profound learning, his wide outlook, and his literary gifts have at all times been lent ungrudgingly in the School's interests.

Amongst academical honors won by Old Boys the following are noteworthy:—V. G. Child, formerly Cooper Classical Scholar of Sydney, with a triple first in the Arts School, concluded his University course at Oxford with a First Class in the School of Literae Humaniores and the Craven Fellowship; and Dr. C. H. Burton-Bradley has been appointed Director of the Laboratory of Microbiology and Pathology at Brisbane. In our own University we are glad to note that A. L. Clowes and G. F. Browne were elected to Scholarships at St. Paul's and Wesley Colleges respectively.

Twenty-five boys obtained Leaving Certificates at the last examination, and among them won eleven University Exhibitions. First Classes in these days of continuous examinations may mean anything or nothing; but in the Leaving Certificate examination they are rare, generally not more than about two per cent. of the number of candidates in each subject; so the School was more than well treated with two First Classes each in Mathematics and Latin, and one each in French and Physics.

In the Intermediate Examination two of our candidates obtained First Classes in five subjects, and the total number of passes, 55, was much the largest that the School has yet produced.

This time a year ago we had good hope of winning the cricket competition; this we would certainly have done—as we went right through the season undefeated till the last match on the programme—had not Sydney Grammar School happened to spoil our record. In the competition for Second Eleven, as in the Senior competitions, we went through to the last match unbeaten; then we met Sydney Grammar School, and this time had the pleasure of a win against them, a win by the margin of one run.

The Eights Race will be long remembered; it is safe to say that one boy, at any rate, will never forget it. Three days before the race the captain of boats, who was also stroke, had an operation for appendicitis, with the result that changes had to be made in every one of our three boats—the Eight and the two Fours. In spite of this disaster the Eight finished in the first three, a bare half-length behind the winners, Sydney Grammar School. We felt that if the newly-arranged crew could have had just one week more under Mr. Ramsay, the narrow difference might have disappeared. That Mr. Ramsay will coach school crews for many years to come is our best rowing hope; he turns out fine oars, and, as a by-product, fine characters.

Last Friday and Saturday the combined Athletic Sports of the great Public Schools were held; there were eight competing schools, and in the senior competition this School was a good second to the Grammar School, a difference of 46 to 42, and a slightly better first in the junior competition. Thus this year the two Grammar Schools were first and second, and second and first, in turn.

The Cadets are to be congratulated on two good wins. At the end of the shooting season they secured the Rawson Challenge Shield with a record score; and in April Lieut. Crawford's Special Company was first in a competition among twelve teams from various Metropolitan areas. It is interesting to learn that the deciding factor in the award of the Shield to them was their complete steadiness in the ranks. As in many previous years, the rifle team had the valuable help of Mr. J. D. Thompson.

This time a year ago the Council were able to announce that arrangements had been made for buying, though not for paying for, ten acres at Northbridge; a short time ago the adjoining block of about the same area was offered to them on the same terms, and the offer has been accepted. The School is now relieved from what for many years has been an ever-present dread, that, as the claims of other schools for the use of the municipal grounds became more pressing, we should be to a great extent crowded out, and should then reach the deplorable condition of a large school with no proper accommodation for games. All members of the School, past and present, are proud of the confidence shown in its future by the Council and by a most loyal and energetic committee of Old Boys, and deeply appreciate the splendid help of a number of ladies who have made it their business to raise funds for the development of the grounds. By subscriptions and other means a large sum has been collected, but a great deal more is still needed. All subscribers, and intending subscribers, are asked to visit the grounds (which are easily reached from the third tram stop across the Suspension Bridge) and see what has been done and what yet needs doing. Before next year there should be ready one fine ground for senior games, and two smaller ones; and as funds allow later on there should be a total of six grounds, which, though it sounds a large number, is none too many if you intend to provide properly for 500 boys. By this time I think everyone knows that in a school of this type there is no fear of games taking undue importance. The time table provides five hours of fairly strenuous work, with at least one and a half hours, in the case of senior boys much more, of preparation. This still leaves a large part of the day to be filled in somehow, and it had best be filled in healthily and energetically. In addition to this we know that organised games train character as perhaps nothing else can. A boy learns to play for his side unconsciously, rather than for himself, and to value the game more than the prize. In the last Torch-Bearer, with the cheerful optimism of youth, Mr. Davies asked for the gift of a Clydesdale or a Suffolk Punch to draw the heavy roller and mowing machine needed for such a large area as our Memorial Playing Fields. None of us perhaps expected a very practical reply, but an Old Boy, Gordon Black, saw us through our difficulty, and the horse is now on his way down.

Mr. Barton and Mr. C. P. Browne are now at the war on leave; Mr. Marchant, after years of good service in the School in work and sport, has returned to his own profession, and within the last week Mr. Waldock, who has had charge of the English and Modern History of the Upper Sixth, has been appointed to an Instructorship at the Naval College. The School notes with pleasure that within the last four years three members of the staff have been appointed to important positions, Mr. R. P. Franklin, now also at the war, to the Headmastership of the Melbourne Grammar School, and two others to the Royal Naval College staff.

During the holidays I hope to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Hodges; though it is impossible for them to be here, they are thinking of the school to-day, and I have just received a letter from them full of good wishes to you all; it is nothing but simple justice to say that their term of office here has left behind it ideals which will never be wholly lost.

May I now offer my thanks to the many generous and sympathetic friends of the School who have helped us along our way time and again; to the Council who devote a very great deal of industry and talent to the welfare of the School, and make generous allowance for its inevitable mistakes and equally generous recognition of its success; and most of all to my colleagues, both those whose service has been far longer and more disinterested than my own, and to those who have joined the staff in later years to occupy the places left vacant by enlistment or professional promotion.

The Archbishop said they had good reason to be proud of the record of the School—proud of its intellectual record, and especially proud of its character-building, evidence of which was to be found in that list, read in Chapel, of those Old Boys who have given their lives for their country, and for whom they now mourned. The work of the School would make itself felt in the generations to come and stimulate its boys in the duty of serving God and the State.

His Excellency, before distributing the prizes, said he was very much impressed by the excellent service in the School Chapel. The singing of the hymn, "Oh, God, our Help in Ages Past," reminded him of the signing of Peace in Pretoria at the conclusion of the Boer war. "You are proud as you can be," said His Excellency, "of that battalion of men—nearly 1000 strong—who have gone from your school to the present war, but forty or fifty years hence you will be prouder still." He exhorted the boys to follow up their studies. It was not given to everyone to win a Craven Scholarship—only one or two a year rose to that distinction in Oxford; but everyone could do his best. The time was coming when boys would have to shoulder responsibilities, and he was sure that when called upon they would maintain the high standard set by the School and achieved by so many in the arts of peace and amid the perils of the battlefield.

Judge Backhouse, in moving a vote of thanks to the Governor, said that he was delighted to welcome him in his official capacity, and also as one who took great interest in the School as well as in education generally. He said that His Excellency was an enthusiastic oarsman — (hear, hear) — and that he had trained for a boatrace and studied for his examination at the same time, and was successful in both! Referring to the war, and the part in it which was played by the School, he said that peace by negotiation had been suggested, but could they negotiate with anyone unless there was a feeling that the compact would be honoured?

The visitors were entertained at afternoon tea in the school grounds.

Debating Society.

A VERY successful debate was held with a team from Sydney Grammar School at S.G.S. Hall on August 20th. Mr. Lucas, Headmaster of S.G.S., was in the chair, and Mr. Purves and Major Buchanan (Newington College) acted with him as adjudicators. The attendance was fairly good. Representing this School were Crawford (leader), Melville, Louat, and Smith. The speakers on both sides were congratulated by the Chairman on their oratory. The subject was "That in these critical times Democracy has proved a failure as a system of government." S.G.S. spoke for the motion, and S.C.E.G.S. against. We congratulate S.G.S. on winning the debate, and thank them for the splendid time we had as visitors.

Chapel Notes.

ON August 4th the anniversary of the war, the address was given by the Rev. P. J. Bazeley. On 6th August a short service was held in commemoration of the landing at Lone Pine. On August 18th the window in memory of R. Black was unveiled by the Rev. D. Davies, who also gave the address. On September 23rd, at 12 noon, an address was given by Dr. C. H. Oliver, of the C.M.A. Medical Mission in China. On Speech Day, the 25th September, a service was held, during which the Archbishop unveiled windows in memory of R. C. Milton and R. N. and L. L. Richardson. Tablets have been placed in position in memory of E. S. Dowling and G. R. C. Clarke. A Litany Desk in memory of the former, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Neville Dowling, was dedicated by the Rev. D. Davies on Friday, September 13th.

An organ, at a cost of £1000, has been presented by Mrs. J. G. A. Pockley, and it is hoped it will be ready for use before many months have passed, and so a very urgent necessity will have been met.

Tablets are being prepared in memory of Owen Dibbs and E. R. E. Garraway, and a window in memory of J. S. Wilson.

On August 21st James Esk, son of Captain and Mrs. L. H. Lehmaier, was baptised, and on June 20th Mr. H. Hunt, of the School staff, was married to Marie Christine Jensen, daughter of the late J. T. Jensen.

Confirmation will be given by the Archbishop on Thursday, October 17, at 2.15 p.m.

The R. Black window represents St. Paul as apostle to the Gentiles as a sort of Patron Saint to our Allies amongst coloured people. The Milton window represent the conversion of St. Hubert. St. Hubert was a young man of good family who was fond of the light side of life. One day when hunting a stag, a cross suddenly appeared between the antlers, and a voice was heard, "Hubert, unless thou turnest to the Lord and leadest a holy life, thou shalt go down quickly into hell." When he asked what he should do, he was instructed to go and see Lambert, Bishop of Maastricht. He is the Patron Saint of Belgium. A description of the Richardson's window will be given in our next issue.

The Chapel Committee beg to acknowledge with many thanks a donation of £2/2/- by Captain L. H. Lehmaier.

Cadet Notes.

THE Training Areas have been re-numbered so as to associate them with A.I.F. battalions, and in consequence our area is in the district allotted to the 17th Battalion, and is now designated '17. Ba.' The Companies in this Area have also been re-lettered. The School Companies are now called D and E Companies.

The two Companies are now in full working order. The programme has consisted mainly of rifle exercises and squad drill, and satisfactory progress has been made. The fact that there are plenty of rifles and that the large majority of cadets are in uniform, has had a beneficial effect on the drill.

The Corps welcomes Major Harris, who came on to parade shortly after his return. Major Harris was O.C.

of A Company before he enlisted.

The whole School paraded on Speech Day, those having uniforms being in the company, and the remainder in another. A Guard of Honour, under Lts. Crawford and Welsh, was provided for the Governor.

G. N. Chesterman, R. C. Cox, L. F. Dods, A. W. D'Ombain, N. M. Goddard, R. S. Holcombe, K. D. Hudson, G. C. Loveday, recently members of the School Corps, have enlisted in the Sydney University Company, and are now in camp.

School Fete, June 15, 1918.

THERE was something distinctly uncanny about the great success of the Fête in aid of the Memorial Sports Ground Fund. During the fortnight or so between its definite proposal and the great event, no one seemed to know what would be done or how things might turn out. Two things seemed certain—about five hundred pounds was wanted immediately, and the Fête was somehow going to get it. Up till the opening on that bright Saturday afternoon the amount anticipated was a variable quantity—by midnight the five hundred point was passed, to the happy amazement of everybody. Such an achievement must have had some explanation. It lay in the magnificent work and generous gifts, previous to the Fête, of many interested in the School, and the willingness of all who attended to spend money while there was anything to buy, and to give it when there wasn't. No wonder a long preparation for the Fête was unnecessary.

Late in May a meeting, composed for the most part of ladies interested in the School, decided that as the Sports Ground Fund needed five hundred pounds immediately, a Fête should be held on 15th June to get it. No attempt will be made here to record the names of all those who were present and offered their unconditional support, nor can there be anything but general reference to the large number who came forward in all different ways to make the Fête such a success. Many of us in the School did not dream of all that had been done, till afterwards, when it was seen as fact. At that first meeting Mrs. A. A. Roberts and Miss E. Linton were appointed to act as secretaries, and Mrs. Esplin as Treasurer.

The Fête was opened by Mrs. J. C. Wright at 2.30 from the Library stairs. The following stalls were arranged in bright colours on the School ground:—Fancy Goods, Medley Stall, Produce Stall, Hidden Treasure, Pot Plants, Sweets and Cakes. On the front lawn there was a Punch and Judy show, and in class rooms were the Art Gallery and Museum, Picture Show and Waxworks. Also on the ground were Shoot-i and a Shooting Gallery. Before dark most of the Stalls were empty, but the refreshments in the School dining hall continued busily until after 11 p.m. During the evening the side-shows and a concert given in Mods. A room were crowded. Before midnight the scenes of the afternoon's gaiety were deserted to the moon, and the Treasurer had gone home perfectly satisfied.

Indeed all the School and everyone interested in the School were delighted with the result. The money received met the critical financial difficulty of the Sports Ground Committee, and the School desires everyone who helped to know that their generous help and support was appreciated more than we can say. The total amount cleared was Athletic Sports Meeting, 1918.

THE Twenty-eighth Annual Meeting was held in the North Sydney No. 1 Oval on Thursday, September 5th. It was fine at the start, but rain threatened before the end, and it became very cold. Instead of the pre-war prizes, composition medals struck from the Sports die were awarded the winners. The Headmaster, Mr. Randall Carey and Mr. P. J. Hardy gave cups for the winners of the Senior Shield, the Junior Shield under 16, and for the Championship under 14. Two Old Boys at the front, Lieuts. Eric and Noel Smith, gave cups for the winners of the 440 Open Championship and for the High Jump under 16. The Senior Shield was won by F. W. Edwards, the Junior by F. D. A. Hixson, and the Under 14 by H. L. M. Smith.

Rowing.

THIS term there has been a good deal of activity at the sheds preparing new material for the crews for next year. It is as yet uncertain what men will be available from last year's crews, but good material for filling the gaps is to be found in Bell, Hixson, Hinder, Hannah, Blackmore, Yates, Litchfield II., while Archer, Cudmore, Sendall, Sinclair I., Manning, Murrell, Small and Shannon are promising men.

Early next term the Trial Fours will be held, and should provide good racing between four or five crews from the newer men, stiffened by the inclusion of a few of last year's trainees.

Saturday rowing will commence as early as possible next term, and should see an eight, three fours, and one or two pairs proceeding up the river each week. The Committee has put in some very useful work this term, and Mr. Ramsay has managed to give the crews one afternoon a week, from which they have derived much benefit.

It is at present too far off to forecast anything about next year's contest on the river, but it is safe to say that the crews will be powerful, and the prospects are beginning to brighten up.

The G.P.S. Athletic Meeting.

WE are indebted to the Referee for the following report:—

The 24th annual track and field championships of the A.A. of the Great Public Schools of N.S.W., which were decided at the Sydney Cricket Ground last Friday and Saturday, may be written down as amongst the most successful of the series. And despite the weather—it was unseasonably hot and close on the first day, and unseasonably bleak and cheerless on the second—the attendances were excellent, notably so on the Saturday afternoon, when, I should say, record figures were obtained. And there was all the old-time enthusiasm and excitement—the cheers and counter-cheers were simply great, from the time the boys filed to their marks until the official verdict was proclaimed by the judges, with occasional periods of white heat excitement.

With a new system of scoring in vogue it was generally anticipated the competition points would be closer together, and particularly so as it was known that this year's Sydney Grammar School team would not be of the customary athletic strength. At the same time it was generally anticipated that the S.G.S. boys would "just about win," whilst S.C.E.G.S. was voted as likely to be "second amongst the seniors and first amongst the juniors." And anticipations were in every respect realised—Grammar School won the senior championship by 4 points from S.C.E.G.S., whilst the tables were turned in the junior premiership, the Church of England boys beating the Grammars by 5 points.

P. J. HEATH OF C.E.G.S.

The hero of the sprints was P. J. Heath (C.E.G.S.). He won the 220 yds. in 23 3-5 sec., and the 440 yds. in 54 2-5 sec., whilst in the final of the 100 yds. he and N. S. Langdon (S.G.S.), who had finished second in the two events named, were declared inseparable at the worsted end in a race run in 10 4-5 sec. With nine runners and five to be placed the event required some judging, particularly as all the heats had been won in 11sec. but amongst those grouped around the finish there appeared a fairly widespread opinion that Heath was first through the worsted. He is a quick beginner, and this had much to do with getting a handy place on the inside in the 220yds. and 440yds. Langdon, on the other hand, is slow to get going, but a resolute finisher. Anyway, Heath was surely best of the sprinters engaged. Of the others, D. G. Munro (S.G.S.) appealed to me most, although we did not see A. Oxenham (S.I.C.) at his best—he is only just over an attack of influenza.

DESPERATE FINISH IN THE MILE.

Amongst the middle distance division and milers B. G. Orchard (N.C.), a son of the Minister for Recruiting, was the elect of the close followers of school athletics, but although he won the half-mile convincingly, he failed to see out the finish of the mile, which fell to the Newington College second string, J. Watling. The mile finish was particularly exciting. The event at the bell looked like going to C. B. Hall, of the King's School—a more than promising miler is Hall—who was forcing the pace. In turn S. G. Webb (Sydney High) and Orchard made their efforts, but failed, when Watling set sail in pursuit. Had Hall not allowed Watling to pass him on the inside he might have won—it was a desperate finish. Watling took the risk of going inside, and it came off, but it was risky: Both finished with the greatest gameness. In the second division R. G. Potts (N.C.) repeated his last year's win. Watling may be said to have done best of the distance runners with one first and one second.

PROMISING HURLERS.

In the hurdling department H. S. Hawkins (S.G.S.) also repeated his 1917 win, but, remarkable to relate, he only qualified for the final by winning a qualifying heat amongst seconds and thirds. He made no mistake in the final, although his schoolmate, D. G. Munro, and F. W. Edwards (C.E.G.S.) kept him moving. Both Munro and Edwards are very promising three-stride artists. And there were several others to shape well, too.

In the jumping section of the games the all-round form was not as good as usual. R. W. McFadyen (The Scots' College) was well above the others at broad jumping (the take-off, by the way, was "trappy" in the broad jump), whilst E. R. Zlotkowski (S.G.S.) never looked a loser in the running high jump, although the Riverview boy, P. Ireland (S.I.C.), kept him moving. Amongst the most promising is A. Bruce (Scots), who is quite a stylist. Practically all the high jumpers, senior and junior alike, jumped too often. With the 12lb. shot F. G. Ryan (St. Joseph's) scored his third successive win, but he had a close call this time. He was fouled twice in his four putts. After ruling out Ryan's first putt the judge at the circle (Mr. Coombes) called in another judge, Mr. C. T. Ferguson, for consultation about the remaining efforts. Like his elder brother (J. B. Ryan), he is as quick as lightning in his movements, from pick-up to putt, but a bit free in action. N. F. Stewart (S.G.S.) and Wilson (C.E.G.S.) stood well out amongst the others engaged.

THE JUNIORS.

The juniors made a brave showing. Personally, I take, if possible, more interest in the doings of the junior section than the senior—perhaps with an eye to the chances for next year. And if last week's results are a true indication, the S.G.S. will have to look to it next September, for the Shores have a formidable lot of juniors, including N. D. McIntosh, F. D. A'Hixson and R. S. O. Harris (sprinters), and A. Janes (half-miler). And the S.G.S. juniors are not too bad either—B. Crawford (hurdler),

J. R. Mackellar (sprinter and jumper) and T. Webb (half-miler) in particular, being smart. Amongst the Under 14 Years, G. S. Smith (Armidale), Bruce Macpherson (Newington) and A. H. Beer (C.E.G.S.) did as well as any, and better than most. The last-named is a big boy for his age, and overgrown. In the years to come Bruce Macpherson will surely make a name.

There are other points I would have liked to have touched on, but the limit of space has nearly been reached. The Armidale School team, under Mr. Harvey, although not as strong as some of the previous teams, did well amongst the juniors, G. S. Smith and A. E. Stacy doing best. By the way, there were those present who thought Stacy had handily won the goyds. hurdles event. It was a most interesting and well-handled meeting.

Football.

THIS term the XV. won two of the Competition matches played, which, with the win against S.H.S. in the first half of the season, placed it fifth on the list. The form shown by the team in the first term was consistently maintained each match during the latter half of the season. The team has been patchy, and the lack of quick combination amongst the backs has in most cases been the cause of the team's failure to score more tries. The forwards always held their own against other teams, and in the majority of matches their condition was better than that of their opponents. Of the School team Ryland was selected in the Combined Public Schools' team to play the United Services' team, and Doyle and Morgan in that to play the University Company. The Second XV. have shown this term much improved form, and should, next year, supply a quota of good, experienced players to the First XV. Of the backs Laurie, playing as five-eight, has been the best, his tackling being reliable, and his all-round kicking, either foot, up to first grade standard. Shaw, as half, played a good defensive game, but, was rather on the small side. Of the three-quarters Goddard used his pace to advantage, and was the best, while King, Dawson, and Bevan played sound football. Dods as full-back was generally reliable, but occasionally fumbled and sometimes kicked straight into the man charging down on him. Of the forwards Hardy was the best, but did not make consistent efforts to play hard the whole time. Archer, Hart, Russell, and Sendall played good football and helped to form a pretty solid scrum.

The Third XV. has had a fairly successful season. The personnel of the team has been in a state of flux throughout the season owing to the continual demands made upon it by the two teams above. Curlewis as captain handled his team admirably in every way.

At the end of the season the following awards were made by the Football Sub-Committee:—

Honour Cap.	Colours, 1918.	1st XV. Blazer, 1918

In conclusion, the School's congratulations are offered to St. Joseph's College on their winning the 1918 Football Competition.

S.C.E.G.S. v. N.C.—Played at Stanmore on Saturday, August 10th, and won 8-3. Team: McIntosh, Doyle, Crossman, Shadforth, Cudmore, Ashton, Manchee, Davidson, Pulver, Ryland, Heath, Hardy, Hudson, Morgan, Hutton. Ryland won the toss for us, and decided to defend the goal nearer to the school. The ground was wet after the rain in the morning, and in parts the water was still lying. Although the rain held off for the first half, the second half of the game was played in pouring rain. While the ball was still dry the game was very fast and interesting. From N.C.'s kick-off Heath returned and found his line. Up-and-down play followed for some time, with Davidson and Ryland standing out in good forward dribbles. Manchee's kicking was sound, and he found his line well every time. The first score came to Shore from a passing rush which was finished by Davidson picking up quickly when the ball went wide from Ashton's pass and scoring. Morgan kicked the goal from an easy position. Up-and-down play followed, with our backs beginning to combine well in passing rushes. From one of these Crossman scored a good try, beating his man and dodging the full-back. The try was not converted. For a while Newington had us on the defensive, and from a scrum near our line their forwards heeled quickly, and, with the ball passing to the five-eight on the blind side on to the left wing three-quarter, who shot across our line, they scored their first points. The try was not converted, so at half-time, shortly afterwards, the score stood at 8-3.

During half-time the rain started, and kept on all through the second half. There was practically no handling of the ball at all, although McIntosh occasionally managed to gather the ball cleanly and get his kick in. Cudmore and Doyle received more opportunities than the other backs this half, and both, by good dribbling, several times looked likely scorers, but invariably they kicked too hard and the ball was forced. Davidson and Ryland were quick on the ball, and in this respect were more prominent than the other forwards, who all worked hard but found the ground too slippery for quick breaking up and following on. Of the backs, Shadforth and Ashton were most prominent during the first half; while Manchee, though on the slow side in getting away, played a safe game; and in the second half the wings did a lot of work. One of the features of the game was Brown's kicking for Newington.

S.C.E.G.S. v. T.S.C.—Played at No. 2 Oval on Saturday, August 17th, and won 29-11. Team: McIntosh, King, Doyle, Shadforth, Cudmore, Ashton, Laurie, Davidson, Pulver, Ryland, Heath, Hardy, Hudson, Morgan, Archer.

T.S.C. kicked off with the wind behind them and attacked strongly. From a scrum they started a dribbling rush, which was stopped, but shortly afterwards we were penalised. From the free kick T.S.C. centred, and Davidson, gaining possession of the ball, started a rush which ended in Doyle scoring a try, which was converted by Morgan—5-0. From the kick-off Ryland gathered and found his line in T.S.C. half. Here play remained until T.S.C., gaining from a scrum, started a passing rush, which was stopped by Cudmore. T.S.C. were awarded a free kick, but their attempt at goal was unsuccessful. From the kick-off T.S.C. attacked, but their chance of scoring was spoiled by a forward pass. From the scrum T.S.C. heeled and started a passing rush, which ended up in an unconverted try—5-3. The next score also went to T.S.C. as a result of a quick heel by their forwards from a scrum in front of their goal posts. Their half passed to the five-eight, who easily beat Shadforth and McIntosh and scored under the posts. An easy kick was missed—5-6. From the kick-off play was carried down into T.S.C. half, and after up-and-down play for a while Laurie started a passing rush, the ball going to Shadforth, to Ashton, to Doyle, who scored after a long run. Morgan converted—10-6. T.S.C. worked play towards our line, and from a line-out in our twenty-five scored, the five-eight again proving too good for his opponents. The try was converted, making the scores 10-11, and shortly afterwards the half-time whistle sounded.

From the start of the second half our forwards at once carried the ball into T.S.C. half, where Hardy and Davidson, by a good dribble, gained ground for us. The ball was returned to the half-way line, but shortly afterward Laurie and Heath, following up quickly a kick by the former, brought play to T.S.C. twenty-five, and Heath gaining possession scored an unconverted try—13-11. The backs now combined better, and from a passing rush from Ashton to Shadforth, to Ashton again, and on to Doyle, the last-named scored another unconverted try—16-11. The next try was Cudmore's, who scored in a good position, and the try was converted by Laurie—21-11. Shadforth, by good cross-kicking and judicious cutting-in, gave his side many opportunities; McIntosh gathering the ball well in his own half ran well, kicked and followed on, and by a good dribble brought the ball right to the T.S.C. line. The ball bounced the right way for McIntosh, who gathered and was pulled down a yard from the line. It was a good piece of individual play, and it looked as if the full-back would score. Our three-quarter line kept up good passing rushes, which were stopped by the sound tackling of T.S.C. After a good piece of play of Pulver, which brought play to T.S.C. twenty-five, the ball went out. From the line out Shadforth gained possession, and from his accurate cross-kick King gathered and scored. Morgan converted—26-11. T.S.C. again had us on the defensive, but Archer and Ryland came away with the ball at toe and again put us in a good position. The last try came as a result of a cross-kick by Cudmore, Doyle gathering and racing through. The try was not converted, and full time came with the score 29-11.

The first half of the game proved very even, as the scores indicate. T.S.C. passed the ball about cleverly, and their open play and the tackling of our backs was responsible for our position at half-time. Ashton was the best of the backs in defence, but his attacking play was poor. The forwards did not work together, and the only ones to stand out were Davidson and Ryland. After half-time they rucked better, and played with much more dash and opened up the game for the backs. Of these Doyle was the most prominent, and in his position as outside centre received many opportunities where he was able to make use of his pace.

The other backs played satisfactorily, and King's handling on the wing was good.

S.C.E.G.S. v. S.J.C.—Played at Hunter's Hill on Saturday, August 24th, and lost 3-25. Team: McIntosh, Crossman, Doyle, Ashton, Cudmore, Shadforth, Manchee, Davidson, Pulver, Ryland, Heath, Hardy, Hudson, Morgan, Hutton.

On this match depended the result of the Competition, for in the event of a win for S.C.E.G.S. the winners of the Competition would have been S.G.S., and a drawn game would have meant a play-off between S.J.C. and S.G.S. This state of affairs gave the game extra interest, with the result that an unusually large crowd of spectators attended. We won the toss, and defended the pavilion goal, with the sun behind us and a wind blowing across the ground in our favour. After some strenuous play in mid-field from the kick-off, S.J.C. worked play down to our 25 where from a passing rush on the blind side of a scrum Ryan flashed across for S.J.C., three minutes after the start of the game. The try was not converted. 0-3. From the kick-off we worked play up the field, but S.J.C. backs made good use of their line and again pressed us. They combined well, and scored their second try from a passing rush. 0-6. The S.J.C. passing was very good at this stage of the game, and Bradley, after breaking through, was only just pulled down on the line. Shadforth had hurt his knee and was unable to get up to his man in time. From a scrum in our 25 a passing rush was started by S.J.C., and their five-eight, from in front of the posts, lauded a good field goal. 0-10. From now on S.C.E.G.S. played a more resolute game and began to carry play into S.J.C. 25. From a forward dribbling rush Hardy, following on well, narrowly missed scoring by a knock-on when picking the ball up. There was no alteration in the scores at half-time. In the second half S.J.C. kept up their attacks by the three-quarter line, but they were not so successful as in the first half. Shadforth had moved to outside centre, Ashton taking his place, and Doyle coming to inside centre. The first try of the second half came from a passing rush, with Ryan scoring. The try was converted. 0-15.

Our forwards were playing very well against a heavy pack, and Ryland in attack, and Hutton in tackling were noticeable. After up-and-down play S.J.C. again brought play into our 25, and from a forward passing rush scored a try, which was converted. 0-20. After some play in mid field, in which Manchee was conspicuous by his sound defence, and McIntosh by a long line kick, Symons broke through, and running well, was pulled down about five yards from our line. From the scrum S.J.C. heeled the ball and their backs gaining possession, scored a try, which was converted. 0-25.

In the face of a rising score S.C.E.G.S. now played with increased dash, and although the forwards were just about worn out, they held the S.J.C. pack. Ashton was conspicuous by a quick gather of the ball, and by getting away quickly broke through. Running practically half the length of the field, he was overhauled in the S.J.C. 25 and pulled down. Our disappointment at this non-success was compensated a few minutes later, for from a line out the ball was knocked back by our forwards and passed accurately amongst all the backs with Crossman scoring a good try. It was not converted, and this made the score 3-25, which was unaltered when full-time came shortly after.

The best of our backs was Manchee, who, getting plenty to do, more especially in defence, did it thoroughly. McIntosh's line kicking was uniformly good, his handling occasionally weak, and his tackling uncertain. Of the other backs Cudmore played a fairly safe game, while Doyle and Crossman did not get many opportunities. When the ball did come to them they handled and kicked well. Shadforth, injured early in the match, played under difficulties while Ashton played a very good game in the second half. Coming in as five-eight, he was never in doubt about tackling one or two men, a position in which he frequently found himself first half owing to Shadforth not being able to get up quickly to stop a rush. Of the forwards Ryland and Morgan were most conspicuous. Hutton's tackling was a feature of the game, while Heath and Hudson did a lot of work in the ruck. Pulver, Hardy, and Davidson all played well, and each at times did specially useful work.

CHARACTERS OF THE XV.

B. Ryland (Captain, Honour Cap 1918, Colours 1917-1918, right breakaway).—A forward with great dash and grit. Has a splendid control of the ball when dribbling. Tackles well and stops rushes ably. A good pack leader and an energetic captain.

C. R. Doyle (three-quarter, Honour Cap, 1918, Colours 1918).—A fast and powerful runner. Is very hard to bring down. Has a tendency to run infield instead of going hard for the line. A safe tackle, but inclined to go high instead of always going low. A good punt kick.

E. W. Manchee (half-back, Honour Cap 1918, Colours 1918).—Excellent in defence, tackling surely, and always flinging himself at the ball to stop a rush. In attack rather slow at getting the ball away to the backs, and inclined to run into the rucks too much. Good kick either foot.

J. Ashton (three-quarter, Colours 1918).—A reliable back either as centre or five-eight. Tackling good. Very fast and useful in overhauling a back who has broken through. Good in attack. Handles and kicks well.

F. G. Davidson (breakaway, Colours 1917-1918).—A very good player in the open. Is quick on the ball and follows up well. Dribbles the ball cleverly. Tackles well.

P. J. Heath (forward, Colours 1917-1918).—Played in the front rank. A powerful forward, who is very good in the rucks. With more judgment as to the time a ball should be picked up or dribbled, he should be very useful.

A. H. Crossman (three-quarter, Colours 1917-1918).—A good attacking player. Very quick off the mark, and side steps nicely. Usually a safe tackle, but risks missing his man by going high. Kicks with judgment.

D. N. Shadforth (half-back, Colours 1918).—A very sure tackle. In attack good. Slips through quickly. Inclined to run into the rucks too often and so starves his three-quarter line. Kicks well with either foot.

G. D. Morgan (forward, Colours 1918).—Centre. Hooks very well. Good in the line-outs, where he uses his weight to the advantage of his side. Can generally clear his kick, even in a tight corner. A reliable long distance place kick.

J. Hutton (forward, Colours 1918).—Played right hook. A very sure tackle, and takes the ball cleanly. Kicks well and follows up quickly. Good hook.

N. D. McIntosh (full-back, 1st XV, 1918).—Handles and kicks well. Fast, and makes use of his pace when following up his own kick. Tackling unreliable.

J. Cudmore (three-quarter, 1st XV, 1918).—A much improved player. Rather slow off the mark, but runs strongly when he gathers pace. Handling fair. Kicks well.

L. S. Hudson (forward, 1st XV, 1918).—Played left hook. A hard worker. Good in the rucks, and always on the ball. Dribbling good. Tackles well.

J. L. Vivers (forward, 1st XV, 1918).—Lock. Good forward in the line-out, where his height enables him to knock back well. A good ruck forward and generally useful player. Safe tackle and good place-kick.

W. L. Ormiston (forward, 1st XV, 1918).—Played in the second row. Useful forward, who handles the ball cleanly and kicks well. Tackling fair. Rather patchy, and at times inclined to hang off.

C. W. Pulver (forward, 1st XV, 1918).—Played lock. Good forward in the loose. Fast, and always on the ball. Tackles well. A much improved player.

The Annual Meeting will be held in the Library on Friday, October 11th, at 8 p.m. All members of the Union and Old Boys in camp are invited by the Headmaster and Mrs. Purves to tea in the Dining Hall at 6.45 p.m.

Hearty congratulations to Professor Holme on his appointment as Chairman of the Administration Committee of Australian Universities for the training of student soldiers at demobilisation; on his appointment by the S.U.U.A. as Hon. Organiser of the University Company for active service; and on his appointment to commissioned rank in the A.I.F. for service abroad.

Congratulations to Dr. C. H. Burton Bradley on his appointment as Director of the Laboratory of Micro-Biology and Pathology in Brisbane.

Congratulations to J. M. Ralston on his appointment as associate to Mr. Justice Ferguson; and to H. V. Jaques on resuming the practice of his profession at the Bar after his return, wounded, from the front.

Warren Crane was rejected on July 5th, 1916. Rejected Volunteers' Association Badge No. 1613.

Minor-Canon North Ash, assistant-priest in the Cathedral parish of Newcastle, has withdrawn his acceptance of the parish of All Saints', Hobart, in order to leave his name on the list of those who are waiting to be called up for chaplaincy work at the front.

A School Shield, designed by Mrs. Hodges, and reproduced by Messrs. W. C. Penfold and Co., was shown and was much admired. Copies may be obtained either at the School or at Messrs. Penfold's, Pitt Street, Sydney. The price of those mounted on wood is 5/-, and of those on paper (unmounted) 1/6 each.

The Annual School Concert and Dramatic Entertainment will take place at the Coliseum Hall on Friday, October 25th. The proceeds will be in aid of the purchase of a new practise four, which was badly required. Tickets may be obtained at the School.

The Annual Gathering of Old Boys took place on Friday, October 11th. Over 90 sat down to tea, and among these present there was a large number of returned soldiers and Old Boys from the camps. It is regretted that the addresses of a good number of the returned men were not known to the Hon. Sec., but an advertisement was put in all papers specially inviting returned men and those in the various camps.

The Annual Meeting took place in the Library, and there was over 120 present. The Annual Report, which was read by the Hon. Sec., pointed out that some 832 had volunteered, of whom 110 had received various distinctions, but unfortunately 106 had fallen. There were 701 members in the Union, of whom 52 were life members. The Balance Sheet showed a credit balance in the year of £18/11/11, and the Hon. Treasurer had invested £350 in the War Loan.

It was resolved that all Old Boys who had volunteered should be made honorary members till the Annual Meeting which followed their return. The result of the elections was as follows:—

President: The Headmaster (ex-officio).

Vice-Presidents: Prof. Holme, R. W. Carey, A. D. Hall, A. B. S. White, J. O. Harris, H. H. Dixon, Dr. Kendall, Mr. E. I. Robson and Mr. C. H. Hodges.

OLD BOYS' COMMITTEE.

PRESIDENT.—His Grace the Archbishop.
 Chairman.—The Headmaster.
 Hon. Secretaries.—Messrs. R. W. Carey and J. Varley.
 Hon. Treasurer.—Mr. W. B. Clarke.
 Hon. Surveyor.—Mr. Geoff. Fisher.
 Hon. Architect.—Mr. H. H. I. Massie.
 Hon. Auditor.—Mr. N. Y. Deane.
 Executive Committee.—Messrs. N. Y. Deane, H. H. I. Massie, R. T. Scott, J. H. Hedges, R. J. Jackson, R. S. Holcombe, D. T. Kilgour, N. R. Smith, Dr. Beckett, and Dr. Guy Pockley.
 Council Representatives on Ground Committee.—His Honor Judge Backhouse, Professor Holme, and the Headmaster.

The ground is held in trust, under a declaration of Trust, executed by His Honor Judge Backhouse, Mr. R. W. Carey and the Headmaster.

Good progress has been made in levelling and preparing the Senior Ground, which it is hoped will be ready for play at the beginning of next year. The Council have now made arrangements to buy a further area of ten and three quarter acres, adjoining the first ground, which will give the school a well-defined and adequate block of land able to meet all likely requirements for many years to come.
