SCHOOL NOTES.

The School's population is greater this term than at any other period in the School's existence. Our total enrolment is 564.

The School property has been enlarged by the purchase of Upton Grange, formerly the Nurses' quarters at Grathwaite Hospital.

Numerous improvements have been carried out at Northbridge. A second storey has been added to the old pavilion, and contains a dining-room, kitchen, and masters' room. Additional dressing-room accommodation has been provided under the ramp, which has been added in front. Trees have been planted on a most ambitious scale, and our descendants should find them a gratifying shelter and an effective break-wind. No play is being carried out on the main oval, which is now beginning to be well-grassed again.

THE TORCH-BEARER.

Mr. Dixon has returned from his holiday in England. While in England he met Mrs. Hodges, Mr. E. I. Robson, and various Old Boys. Old Boys will be interested to learn that on Armistice Day Mrs. Hodges placed a wreath on the Cenotaph in honour of the Old Boys of the School who fell in the war.

Mr. Sturt left the staff at the end of last year to take up legal practice. We welcome, in his place, the Rev. H. P. Fewtrell, M.A. (Durham).

Shortly after the beginning of term, Mr. G. H. Broinowski joined the staff. An old boy of the School, the gold of his achievements is still fresh on the honour boards.

The School extends its congratulations to Mr. Heath, whose success in the Final Examinations in Medicine has just been announced.

The Council Senior Scholarships for the year 1925 have been awarded to R. B. Morgan and C. P. Hudson. The Old Boys' Union Scholarships have been awarded to G. N. Mackellar and V. L. McCausland.

The Torch-Bearer committee at present consists of the following:—D. R. Litchfield i. (Senior Prefect), J. F. Herbert i., R. W. Keegan and L. F. Fitzhardinge i.

SPEECH DAY, 1924.

Speech Day, 1924, was held on December 11th, a departure from previous custom. The day was fine, and there was a large assembly of parents and friends of the School.

In the absence of the Archbishop, the Vicar-General, the Ven. Archdeacon D'Arcy Irvine, presided. On the platform with the Headmaster were the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir William Cullen, and Lady Cullen, and members of the Council.

Sir William Cullen spoke briefly. The Headmaster then read the following report:—

Mr. Vicar-General, Sir William Cullen,
Ladies and Gentlemen,—

It is a very great pleasure to have Sir William and Lady Cullen with us as our guests for the day. I extend a welcome to them on behalf of the School, and trust that the trip which they are about to take may fit them for many happy years, not of retirement, but of leisure. They have both taken a very keen interest in the School at all times, and we hope that Sir William's freedom from the cares of judicial office may enable them to be with us on many future occasions.

We deeply regret that His Grace the Archbishop has not yet sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to be here. His interest in the School has always been deep, and his counsel has been of great benefit to us. We look forward to an early opportunity of welcoming him back fully restored in health and vigour. His Grace's place as Chairman of this gathering is occupied by Archdeacon D'Arcy Irvine. We are glad of this opportunity of expressing to the Vicar-General the School's appreciation of his great services during the past year in carrying the burden of the administration of the Diocese.

We suffered an irreparable loss on our Foundation Day, May 4, of this year, by the death of Arthur David Hall. Mr. Hall joined the Staff in January, 1891, and was for many years an assistant master in the School House. No words of mine can do justice to his services to the School. He was identified with every phase of its activities. As a teacher his ability was remarkable; in fact his personality and temperament were very close to the ideal. He was a most firm and yet a most kindly disciplinarian, a most thorough and yet a most inspiring teacher. He was a keen sportsman of very sound judgment and wide knowledge. For years he controlled the rowing and cricket of the School with marked success. Last year he trained and took charge of the athletic team whose fine win is well remembered. Above all, his kindly, simple manner and lofty ideals left an indelible impression upon all who came under his influence. Nowadays, when problems arise, we find ourselves considering what Hall would have done, and what Hall would have thought, and we know that when we have answered these questions we have found the right course. One could not imagine his being unjust or inconsiderate, nor could one imagine his forgetting the interests of the School or the spirit of the game. He was a schoolmaster because he loved the work, and I believe that in giving his best to others he found the highest reward. He earned and his universally accorded, a place of honour among Australia's greatest schoolmasters.

This year I have departed from the usual order by arranging Speech Day at the end of the third term, instead of the second. This appears to be a more suitable time from every point of view. As a result, my report covers four terms instead of three. Throughout this period one is able to record a great deal of satisfactory progress and a uniformly high standard in work and sport.

In 1923, forty-four boys passed the Intermediate Certificate Examination, and thirty-three obtained the Leaving Certificate. In both cases the number of first-class passes was very good. In the Leaving Certificate thirteen boys secured honours, and ten boys were awarded exhibitions. J. C. Jaeger was first equal in Mathematics, with the Barker Scholarship No. 2 and Horner Exhibition; first in Physics, secured first-class honours in English, and was placed second by a narrow margin in the total of the whole examination. His pass was superior to that of any other male candidate. Excellent passes obtained also by T. A. G. Holmes and T. R. Ford. The best results were obtained in Mathematics and Science; there being three first and two second class honours in Mathematics, and three firsts and seven second-class honours in Physics.

The teaching of Chemistry has been extended throughout the School as a result of steady development. A continuous course is now provided to the Leaving Certificate Honours standard, and candidates are sitting this year for the first time. Good science work makes heavy demands upon accommodation and upon the time of the Staff, and it seems probable that further laboratory space will be needed in the near future.

Throughout the lower forms of the School there has been a very marked improvement, which seems likely to be maintained.

During the past year the Old Boys' Union has been active, and, thanks to an energetic honorary secretary, shows a good increase in membership. The Old Boys' Club has been formed, and has filled a long-felt want. Its premises are becoming a city branch of the School, in which an opportunity exists of preserving old friendships and associations. This year the first election of Old Boys to the Council took place, in accordance with a recent ordinance of Synod. For the future five members of the Council will be Old Boys, directly elected by the members of the Union. The School extends its congratulations to the five gentlemen who were so appointed this year.

In sport, the School can fairly claim considerable success during the last four terms. The standard of inter-School sport seems to be steadily increasing, and the margin which separates the leading teams or crews is nowadays very narrow. Recently the premierships contests have been remarkable for their closeness and for the number of ties which have resulted.

The 1923 cricket team lost one match only in the series, and played a final with King's School. After a very close game, in which the prospects of victory continually veered, The King's School was victorious by sixty-three runs. The 1924 series also resulted in a tie between Sydney Grammar School and our own eleven. The final for the premierships was completed on Monday last, and we proved successful by an innings. Almost all the members of the eleven contributed handsomely to the victory. A few weeks ago our captain, B. M. Salmon, was selected to represent the State in Queensland. This is a somewhat unusual honour for a school-boy, and we extend to him the School's congratulations. The second eleven also had a successful season, and reached the final round with The King's School. After an excellent start they had to face a large second innings total, and were beaten.

The football team had a disappointing season. Mainly owing to casualties which occurred before the season was a month old, their backs were weak. The forwards were equal to those of any other school. In no case was the team beaten by a wide margin, but they could not reach a higher place than fifth.

The 1924 regatta was again attended by an enormous crowd, and although we did not emerge victorious, our performance was nevertheless very satisfactory. The eight won its heat easily, and in the final was beaten after a very close race by Sydney Grammar School. We think that, had the conditions been more favourable to a light crew, we might perhaps have been even closer at the finish. We congratulate the victors on their very gallant win, and hope that all our future meetings will be as pleasantly contested and as exciting. The first four did not do itself justice, and failed in its heat. The second four rowed in a very determined manner, and won its race by a narrow margin.

In athletics we can claim first-class results. In 1923 the team performed splendidly, and won the premiership. In 1924 we were beaten after one of the closest contests on record by 47 points to 45½. In both cases the most pleasing feature of our success was that points were secured in every event on the programme, and by every boy in the team.

In rifle shooting, also, the results were very close. Sydney Grammar School, The King's School, and this School each secured a first, a second, and a third place in the three matches which constitute the premiership. The Association subsequently decided, after considering the aggregate scores, to award the King's School the first place and this School second place.

Summarising the results of the seven contests included in the period covered by my report, we obtained two firsts, four very close seconds, and one fifth place—a highly satisfactory all-round result.

It is also worthy of mention that in an unofficial lawn tennis competition, held during the last fortnight, the School proved victorious in both senior and junior divisions.

The usual vast amount of sport has been provided for boys outside the senior teams, by means of outside matches, and the House competition. Our standard is one game and one practice per week for every boy, and we have maintained it until the last few months. Latterly the top-dressing of the main oval caused a slight interruption.

The Memorial Playing Fields have been steadily improved, and should be in very good condition by next year. The grass on the main oval did not show signs of satisfactory growth, and it was realised that some sacrifice was necessary in order to improve its condition. It has accordingly been rested during the latter part of the year, and has been heavily top-dressed. The weather behaved so well that the top-dressing has proved most successful. There is now a coating of grass over the majority of the ground sufficiently thick to withstand even the hard wear of a football season. The lower flat has been widened at one end, so that three football grounds may be now laid out upon it. A soil shed has been built, and the picket fence has been re-conditioned.

Work is to be commenced in a few days' time with the object of completing the old pavilion. We hope to see the work finished during the coming vacation. It is proposed to add another storey, and to increase the dressing accommodation. If all goes well, a small function will be held at the ground on February 7, when the completed building will be handed over to the School. A determined effort is also being made to plant trees on a large enough scale to give shelter from wind and sun.

The Sinclair Shed has been improved by the acquisition of an extra piece of land, and the installation of electric light. The property has also been fenced.

Almost all of these improvements have been made possible by the continued efforts of the Ladies' Committee. Since my last report two fêtes have been held at the School, and have succeeded beyond our hopes. That of last year realised £950.

Not content with this splendid result, the ladies redoubled their efforts this year, and secured no less than £1,354. No words of mine can adequately express our appreciation of their work on behalf of the School. However, the success of the fêtes is not to be interpreted solely in terms of money. They have become very happy social functions, and an occasion for the meeting of present and past boys, parents and friends of the School. It is inspiring to realise, as one must on such occasions, that the School does not consist only of those who attend it daily, but that there are thousands of persons who are keenly interested in its welfare.

There has recently been even more public discussion than usual of educational topics, and especially of methods of teaching. From all discussions, phrases and ideas have a way of remaining, and frequently leave a misleading impression. We have heard of the death-knell of class teaching, and of the humiliating effect of the class list. We have been told that the study of the classics is purposeless. There has been frequent reference to new methods, and the impression has undoubtedly been created that rapid change is advisable. The teacher, however, has been charged with undue conservatism and unwillingness to adapt himself.

I think that a brief word of caution is all the comment which is necessary and fitting. Needless to say, there is ample room for reform in educational methods. Very promising experiments have been made, and are apparently yielding good results under suitable conditions. In general, however, the time is not ripe for sweeping changes. Conditions of life are altering gradually; methods are altering with them, and are likely to continue to alter. Progress will be made in the direction of greater freedom. But it is wrong to think that these ideas are entirely new, and foolish to think that they can be applied in a sweeping manner with immediate good effect. I confess myself upon the side of the moderate conservatives, who are anxious to hold to anything that is good, and to discard it only in favour of some tested improvement. The ideal is the same as it always has been, to induce in the mind of the pupil the desire to learn, and to use his master as a guide and helper. No one who is acquainted with school life at the present day will deny that this ideal is considerably nearer to realisation than it has ever been before; but it is dangerous to think, as some people would have us, that its full realisation can be achieved by the application of a formula.

The arguments against the teaching of the classics are as old as the hills, and probably no more true than they ever have been. For years past no Speech Day report has seemed complete without some refutation of them, but the fact that refutation is still urgently necessary is my excuse for yet another reference. It is urged that classical teaching does not render a boy more fit for his future profession; on a much higher plane, that few boys pursue the subjects far enough to obtain any useful knowledge of the languages themselves or of the older civilisations. The former argument is false; the latter has some reason, and is founded upon a very real fact. Both, however, miss the mark. The first object of any secondary work is to expand the mental capacity of the pupil. Most teachers with experience believe that there is no method so useful in attaining this object as the methodical study of a language with a clear and orderly accidence.

During the latter half of the year a number of lectures were arranged for the boys of the Upper School, upon some of the various careers which are open to them. The objects of the lectures were, broadly, to encourage boys to give some thought to their future, to give them useful general information, and to bring them into contact with gentlemen of interests, probably different to and wider than those which some of them ordinarily encounter. Sir Henry Braddon was kind enough to deliver the first of the series, and then in turn we heard members of various professions describe in a most interesting and instructive manner their own respective occupations. Unfortunately the series was interrupted by the approach of examinations. However, it was so successful that I propose to continue it next year as opportunity occurs. I would like to take this opportunity of thanking the gentlemen who gave up their time in this manner, and who went to so much trouble to do justice to the object of the lectures.

I should like to refer to a topic which has been freely discussed among schoolmasters during the past year, both here and in England. There is a widespread and not unjustifiable belief that in order to obtain the best results a boy must enter commercial life at the age of sixteen or thereabouts; and a great number of promising boys do so, to the great distress of their masters, who feel that the rough clay is being taken from their hands at the very time when they are able to give it the most lasting impression. The reasons are many: wage legislation, the desire for immediate reward, and commercial conditions are only a few of them. The results are to be deplored, I think, because one feels that, for the average type of boy, there is no adequate substitute for the training of the two final school years. Invaluable opportunities occur for the exercise of trust and the development of self-reliance, for administration and control in positions of minor authority, under conditions which evoke the best moral qualities. Furthermore, these two years are the very ones during which guidance and supervision are useful, and even necessary. Until recently the parent who wished to assure for his son a reasonably certain career used to regard the so-called "professions" as his first choice. Nowadays many look upon a commercial career as providing at least an equal status and the promise of as much, if not more, reward. I regard this condition as far from unfortunate, for the national prosperity depends more than ever upon a high level of efficiency and endeavour in productive industrial and commercial life. If the best type of our boys could find easy access to commercial careers, not only they, but the community, would gain. The Headmasters' Association discussed this question with the Chamber of Commerce early in the year, and received a very cordial and sympathetic hearing. It subsequently transpired that the Headmasters' Conference in England was at the same time engaged on a precisely similar line of thought.

The contention of schoolmasters is that the fully-trained schoolboy will prove more efficient in the long run, although his value to his employer may not be so great as first. This same problem was discussed in Germany over twenty years ago. Statistics were compiled with the design of comparing the progress of boys trained in two classes of German schools, namely, the business colleges, which completed their course at about sixteen, and the the gymnasia, which aimed at a full general education on lines similar to those of our full secondary course. The conclusion was definite, that the former class showed superiority up to the age of 26. After that age, however, the latter class moved to the front, and thenceforward maintained a very considerable lead. I have applied to several eminent business men, and have found most of them in agreement with this principle. I am assured that there is a dearth of men with real executive capacity, and I think, in common with other headmasters, in both Australia and England, that one may look to the fully-trained boy of the type to which I refer to show the qualities required, if he is given adequate opportunity. If these and similar views are noted, and if they receive veneration and support, the situation is likely to remedy itself. On this topic it is difficult to generalise without a little obscurity; but I am compelled to resist the temptation to treat it at greater length. It is unnecessary, perhaps, to say that few schools, if any, are anxious to keep a pupil longer than his own interests warrant. We feel, however, that we can do more for the community than circumstances at present allow.

One does not like to draw attention continually to the financial needs of the School. They are, nevertheless, as pressing as ever; indeed, they are becoming yearly more urgent. We must make up our minds to a very serious effort towards the development of the School. The need of a school hall has been so often mentioned that I hesitate to bring it forward again, particularly since the present day emphasises it most clearly. I trust that it may be only a very short time before we have a definite preparatory section of the School in full working order in separate but conveniently close premises. Above all, I hope that an adequate permanent scheme for the superannuation of masters may be in existence in the near future. In my last report I remarked that there exists a notion that the fees charged are sufficiently large to allow an ample measure of profit for developmental purposes. Since then I have encountered repeated confirmation of the existence of this mistaken belief. It is probably worth while to give figures which should effectually dispel any idea that we are able to accumulate a large credit balance. The annual fees are rather less than £35 per boy. The 540 boys in the School need for efficient handling twenty-six masters and a bursar, an average of one salary per twenty boys. Thus less than £700 is available per master. It should be obvious that, when working expenses are deducted, a credit balance can only be shown by the exercise of most rigid economy and no small measure of ingenuity. There are only two alternative solutions of the difficulty, namely, the accumulation of endowment by gifts, or the increase of the fees. The latter alternative is one which I am anxious to avoid unless it becomes absolutely necessary. The former solution is one for which it is not unreasonable to hope. We are a very young School, and have very few Old Boys of more than fifteen or twenty years' standing. Those of longest standing are far from the age of retirement.. In due course we shall reach the adult stage in this respect, and I am sure that we may then look forward to having a large body of the public both able and anxious to help us in the work which we are endeavouring to carry out. Thanks to the prominence which this subject of educational endowment has received in the Press and elsewhere, the needs and the aims of schools are being realised more fully. We are grateful to all who have assisted in bringing about this wider realisation. It has probably been noticed that recent legislation has recognised the position by relieving from probate duties bequests for educational purposes. This is a very considerable advance, and the effect of it should be felt in due course.

The School library is now steadily growing under the very able and keen guidance of one of the Staff. It is a credit to the School, and is likely to reach a high standard in a few years' time. It is being well provided with works of reference and with books for general reading. The most encouraging feature is that considerable use is made of it by the boys. We are now finding that the accommodation is too small, and look forward hopefully to some means of expanding it in the near future. I am not competent to judge whether boys read as much nowadays as formerly. It is frequently urged that they do not, but that they find less exacting amusements, such as moving pictures and wireless telephony. Both of these distractions have been much discussed, and opinions concerning them are varied. I have a great regard for wireless as a hobby for boys, and as an educative factor, but I think its usefulness ceases when it degenerates into merely an idle pastime. Similarly I think that moving pictures can be a useful influence if their quality is good, if they occupy their correct time and place, and if they do not provide an excuse for idling about the streets at night-time. My experience is that almost all parents take good care that these conditions are satisfied. Whatever may be the result of comparison with the past, however, it is certainly true that boys do not read enough, and that they are not sufficiently influenced in the direction of sound general reading. In our English work we are making a definite effort to supply this influence in an indirect way. Good books are better educators in certain directions than the best of schoolmasters, and, furthermore, are the foundation of lasting pleasures. Nowadays one notices with regret the number of boys who reach quite an advanced age without having heard of Ballantyne, Henty, and Stevenson, and with little appetites for the many delights which await them on the bookshelves. If parent and schoolmaster could combine to secure an improvement in this direction a wider outlook and a greater breadth of mental resource would certainly follow.

At the end of this year Mr. Davies intends to relinquish active teaching. After a recreative holiday, he is to rejoin us, and to resume the charge of the Chapel and of the records of the School. He has nobly earned absolute freedom from work, but we are delighted that we are still to have him with us daily. He has not spared himself in any way during the last thirty-five years, and has been associated with everything to which the name of "Shore" has been attached. We wish him a very happy holiday, and assure him of a most hearty welcome upon his return.

In conclusion, I wish to gratefully acknowledge our obligation to those who have contributed so much to the success of the School during the year; to the Ladies' Committee and others who made the Fête so successful; to the ladies and gentlemen who have so generously contributed to our sports fund, and to our prize fund; and to all those who have both directly and indirectly given us their support.

Last, but not least, I acknowledge the loyal and unselfish support of the Staff. Throughout the year there has been about the School an atmosphere of good-fellowship which has made work a pleasure.

Sir William Cullen then presented the prizes.

The Vicar-General then spoke briefly, concluding with wishes and suggestions for the happiness of the holidays.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL RESTORATION FUND.

During the month of February a collection was taken throughout the School in aid of the St. Paul's Cathedral Restoration Fund. A good response was made to the appeal. £32/4/10 was raised by the boys, and a separate collection among the staff brought in £4/1/6. The contribution was acknowledged in the Herald on February 28th.

In the following letter the Archbishop expresses his appreciation of the School's efforts in this matter:—

Diocesan Church House,
George St., Sydney,
March 5th, 1925.

My dear Mr. Robson,

I am very pleased to observe the splendid contribution made by the School last week for the St. Paul's Cathedral Restoration Fund. I think that it shows great generosity to raise the sum of £36/6/4 for such an object, but the object is a great one, and the Empire spirit that the School has always shown receives a further illustration in their efforts to preserve that great Cathedral which is in a very real sense the centre of the Empire's spiritual life.

I would be glad if you would be good enough to take some opportunity of letting the School know how deeply I appreciate their action.

With kind regards,

Yours very sincerely,

JOHN CHARLES SYDNEY.

CHAPEL NOTES.

Addresses have been given since our last issue by the Revs. L. S. Dudley, H. P. Fewtrell, R. E. Freeth, the Acting Chaplain, the Headmaster. The remaining addresses for the term will be given by Mr. J. L. Pulling, Mr. J. R. O. Harris, Rev. D. Davies, the Rev. H. P. Fewtrell, the Headmaster (Anzac Day).

The following baptisms have been celebrated:—Doreen Joyce Davidson and Joan Bradbridge Studdy.

Open Sunday will be on May 3rd. The preacher will be the Rev. W. G. Hilliard, Rector of St. John's, Ashfield.

The committee beg to acknowledge, with many thanks, the following donations to the East Window Fund:—His Honor Judge Backhouse, £10/10/-; Mr. James Edward Twynam Cunningham, £3; Mr. Edward Mead Bagot, £3/3/-; Joan Bradbridge Studdy £1. The amount now in the Savings Bank credited to this fund stands at £314/5/6.

On Friday, March 20, a service in memory of J. Meillon, who had died during the previous night, was taken by the Rev. D. Davies.

Confirmation will be given on Thursday, October 22nd. Classes will start early next term.

THE LIBRARY.

The system of issuing and recording books mentioned in the last number of Torch-Bearer is installed in the more used sections, though history, travel and biography are not completely equipped with cards. This system is meeting with the hoped-for success, and is incidentally an excellent record of the circulation. The fines for over-due books amount to something like five shillings—a figure never before attained in the annals of this institution. There again thanks are owed to this system of carding.

The committee is all new to the work this year, only one veteran member being among its number. D. A. Jose has succeeded Bertie as sub-librarian, and the time-honoured statement that the committee has done good work is still true.

The various sections of fiction have been most increased this term, some seventy odd books being added. The following are the additions made in all sections this term:—Section A. (juvenile fiction), 9 volumes by G. A. Henty; Section B (general fiction), 3 volumes of Wodehouse, 6 volumes of Wells, 4 volumes of Leacock, "Merton of the Movies," by H. L. Wilson, "Sard Harker" by John Masefield, "Human Pedagogue" by R. C. Jennings, "Middle of the Road" by Philip Gibbs, "Old Offenders" by Hornung.

Section D (poetry and critical), "Art of Writing" and "Art of Reading" by Quiller-Couch, "Hassan" by J. E. Flecker, "Golden Treasury of Modern Lyrics" selected by L. Binyon.

Section F (classical fiction), Complete works of Robert Louis Stevenson in 35 volumes.

Section G (biographical), "Robert Louis Stevenson" in 2 volumes, by J. A. Steuart; "Adventures in Journalism," by Philip Gibbs; "Gods of Modern Grub Street," by Adcock and Hoppe.

Section H (historical), "Ships and Ways of Other Days," by Keble Chatterton; "History of Europe," in 20 volumes, by Alison; "History of England," in 21 volumes, by Hume and Smollett. (These two last were presented by )

Section R (reference), "The Chemists' Year Book" (1924); "Britain and the British Seas," by Mackinder; "Chambers' Encyclopædia," volumes III. to V; "The National Geographic" and "Discovery" magazines for 1924 have been bound; "The Times Atlas."

✓ The nineteenth century magazines are increased by six volumes of the "English Illustrated Magazine."

Twelve new books of fiction and eight of other sections have just been added, but details are not yet available.

It has been mentioned in nearly every report on the library published in this magazine, that in some schools it is a tradition that each boy, on leaving, presents some book to the school library. Add this tradition to our collection and help our library.

We have also to thank Captain A. W. Jose for his donation of three books, L. Harding for two books, and Mrs. Moore for her handsome gift of "The World's Best Literature" and other books.

DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE.

At the end of the third term of last year, two dramatic performances were given in the School Hall. The limited accommodation was overtaxed on the Friday night; on the Saturday night the audience was rather smaller, but still not inadequate, in spite of counter attractions and rain.

Two short comedies were presented, "Elegant Edward," by Gertrude Jennings, and "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," by W. W. Jacobs and Charles Rock.

The first of these comedies dealt with a rather complicated double burglary. Mr. Treherne's flat is broken into by a burglar of the conventional type—played convincingly by R. T. Inch. This burglar is surprised by another intruder of gentlemanly appearance, who passes himself off as the owner of the flat. He lets the first man go and is proceeding to his own investigations when he is interrupted by the entrance of Mrs. Treherne—played by Miss Helen Pulling. Her suspicions are excited, and an amusing duel of wits takes place, which has not been settled when the police arrive, bringing with them the first thief in custody. The evidence of the second man brings about the dismissal of the first, and the second man retires with the jewels which he has removed behind the back of Mrs. Treherne while she has been speaking with the police. The robbery is discovered and leads to general consternation, but after the police retire the thief returns the jewels, finding they are only imitation.

The gentleman cracksman was played by B. M. Hickson; G. Commins made a stalwart and officious police sergeant; and C. R. Capel was volubly single-minded and thick-headed as the constable.

The subject of the second play was a practical joke played on a number of commercial travellers by one of their number—a joke which nearly has a fatal conclusion.

The idea of the joke originates in a story told by Penfold, the oldest member of the party (played by Mr. Pulling). The other members of the party show varying reactions to the story, and one of them, Hirst, undertakes to frighten them by an impersonation. He prepares his ground so well that he finally takes them off their guard, and narrowly escapes being shot by the sceptical doctor, Leek.

The parts of the commercial travellers, Somers, Malcolm and Beldon, were taken by Mr. R. M. Sturt, A. G. Small and R. J. Kierath. Mr. Jones took the part of Hirst. P. W. Kelso played the doctor, and H. D. Ainsworth was very effective in the part of the waiter.

The lines were well known, and there was little need for the services of the prompter. The only untoward incidents occurred at the first performance, and were fortunately accepted by the audience as part of the play.

The shortness of the play led to the producers seeking outside help. Mr. Turnbull's band provided the overtures and entr'actes. To Mrs. Clark and Miss Bradley, who sang for us on both occasions, we must express our thanks.

The stage and lighting we owed to the ingenuity of Mr. Hall, the carpenter, who turned a few laths and a little hessian into quite a convincing interior.

The charge made for admission was very low, and as the expenses were larger than was anticipated, no profit could be shown.

A LETTER FROM PAPUA.

The following letter has been received from James Misitom, a mission boy in Papua, who is supported by the School:—

TRANSLATION.

(Originally written in Mukawa.)

St. Chad's House,
March 29, 1925.

My dear Friends,

I am still at Erero, and I am well. I shall tell you, these people at Erero are still all heathens; there are only three Christians, but by-and-bye there shall be others.

This Erero Station is very nice, if you could see it you would say it was very beautiful too. There are many kinds of flowers and bushes growing all round the station, and so it looks like one big garden, very full.

The name of our little Church here is St. Chad's, and it, too, is very good.

We have now a new school, we all built it, and it is very large. Before, we only had a small school—too small for 142 boys and girls. Then some sat inside and three classes of infants sat outside, and when big rains came they had to go home.

These Eroro people every day beat their drums and call "Orada, Orada" in very loud voices, to greet their friends as they walk into their villages. It is their heathen way, and belongs to their heathen taro worship.

A new station now has begun, called Dobodura, inside the bush a long way from the sea, and Mr. Hall goes there very often to have "taparoro" (service) with them. They are all heathens, but they are now building the school, and a little house for Mr. Hall, and another for their own teachers, who are to go to them.

We are four teachers here at Eroro, and Mrs. Hall teaches us and goes to school too.

Good-bye, my friends.

I am your friend,

JAMES MISITOM.

Your letter I have written.

ROWING.

Christmas camp this year was held in fine weather, some twenty-four attending. From these, Cowlshaw, Hipsley, Litchfield i., Capel, Bell, Plaskitt, Linton and Middleton were selected for the eight, and on his return Hoare was included in these. Booth, Clayton, Litchfield iii., and Scott formed the nucleus of the first four, while the second four was not constituted till later in the term.

Subsequent changes led to the dropping of Linton and Middleton from the eight and the inclusion of Hoare and Litchfield iii. in their places. The first four became Hudson (str.), Claton (3), Booth (2), Middleton (bow); and the second four: Phillips (str.), Croft (3), Harkness ii. (2), Harricks (bow). Seated in this manner, the crews went into training camp at Glades-ville on April 6th. Up to the time of writing, good weather and water has been the rule, and the crews have made considerable progress.

By the time this article appears in print, the race and its excitements will be history, so we propose to leave details to the issue in next term.

We wish to thank Mr. Dixon, through these columns, for cases of apples, which are most acceptable; and Litchfield ii., Capel and Booth for frequent use of their cars for transportation purposes to and from Gladesville. This latter luxury is becoming yearly a greater necessity from the point of view both of time saving and the unsuitability of Berry's Bay and its surroundings for light or practice boat work.

TENNIS.

We have completed a successful term's tennis, both in the number of inter-school matches won and especially in the growing interest in the game.

At the commencement of the year the loss of our best players of last year was keenly felt, and without Bishop, Fowler, Byers and Campbell, our first two teams were left considerably weakened. Bishop was an indefatigable worker, and his energy and keenness did much to promote the game. We wish him success in his new sphere at the University, both in his studies and in his sport.

Towards the end of last year, Shore participated in an informal competition, with Grammar, St. Joseph's and Newington, and with Grammar in a junior match. In the first match in the senior competition, the School easily defeated St. Joseph's, while Newington scored a surprise win over Grammar. In the finals, Shore defeated Newington by ten matches to six. Our junior team also won their match against Grammar by the narrow margin of nine matches to seven. The full results are appended below.

During this term inter-school matches were arranged against Cranbrook (3) and Grammar (1), of which we won two, one against the former and one against the latter.

Provision was also made during the term for form matches, severalship.

forms taking advantage of this.

The House Championship was commenced this term, in which Barry House leads, followed by Robson, Hodges, School—in that order. House matches are now a regular fixture.

On Saturday, April 4, a most enjoyable game was played between the School and the Old Boys, at the residence of Mr. Fairfax, at Double Bay. Our first four scored a win by a narrow margin, the sets being equal; but our second team was too good for its opponents. The Old Boys were represented by Messrs. Williams, Bishop, Crane, Gosling, A. Smith, Turnbull, Dixon and R. Cadwallader. We take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Fairfax and the Old Boys for the warm hospitality they extended to us.

At the close of the match Mrs. Fairfax announced her desire to donate a cup, to be known as the Fairwater Cup, to be competed for annually between Grammar and Shore. Mrs. Fairfax's offer was gratefully accepted. The first match will take place next term. It was also agreed to play an Old Boys' match regularly every term.

Next term the School championship will be played, in which provision will be made for a senior and junior singles and doubles champion-

SWIMMING CARNIVAL.

This year the 23rd annual Swimming Carnival was held at the Domain Baths on Monday, March 16th.
The change was appreciated by everyone, and contributed in no small measure to the success of the carnival; also by chartering a special steamer much inconvenience was avoided and more enjoyment given.

Our thanks are due to Messrs. W.
T. Kerr for his services as timekeeper, E. E. Salmon and H. Walker for providing displays of life-saving and diving—the latter of which caused much amusement.

The committee wishes to place on record their appreciation of the efficient manner in which the officials carried out their duties.

The following is a list of events

CRICKET.

The final match v. Sydney Grammar School, played on the Sydney Cricket Ground and won by an innings and 185 runs.

The seventh round of the 1924 competition finished by leaving Sydney Grammar School and ourselves level, and a play-off was necessary to decide the premiership. The match was commenced on Friday, December 5th and continued well into the third day. The Cricket Ground was not available on the Monday, so that the match had to be concluded on Hampden Oval.

Salmon won the toss and the School batted on a perfect wicket. S. M. Smith and F. W. Merewether opened the innings, but were soon separated, Smith being bowled by Cox when the total was 9. F. Tyrrell joined Merewether and the partnership added 157 for the second wicket, when Merewether was out l.b.w. to Cox for 77. His innings had been invaluable and did much to wear down the attack.

Shortly after lunch, Salmon was well caught in slips. He did not appear at home, and was tempted to go at the off-theory. P. H. Allen joined Tyrrell, who had played his best innings of the season. At 144 he was caught in slips, and the total was 4 wickets for 281. His innings had not only been of the greatest use to his side, but showed a versatility of strokes and at times some very powerful driving. Allen continued to bat well, but wickets fell rather quietly, and eight were down for 340 when T. M. Scott and H. Hattersley became associated in the finest partnership of the match. Hattersley pelted the bowling and the two added 50 in 19 minutes. Scott batted well for 32. E. Merrett joined Hattersley, who was now giving a display of batting seldom seen in school cricket. 78 runs were added for the last wicket, of which Merrett had scored 11. Hattersley was not out 106 made in 50 minutes and the innings closed for 435.

Cox, 7 wickets for 107, bowled very finely indeed for Sydney Grammar School, and was always dangerous. He maintained an excellent length throughout the whole 31 overs he bowled.

Sydney Grammar School began their first innings at 11 o'clock on Saturday. The sky was overcast and the weather threatening. Davidson and Evans carried the score to 43, when both were out without addition to the score. This partnership lasted for over an hour, and was only broken after numerous changes in the bowling. Douglas (39) and Storey (55 not out) both batted very well. Merrett and Allen both bowled remarkably well, the former 6 for 46 off 14 overs, and the latter 3 for 20 off 11 overs. The fielding was keen, and very few runs were given away. The innings closed for 171. A follow-on was necessary. Rain began to fall shortly after three o'clock, and there was very little further play for the day. S.G.S. had lost one wicket for 31. Heavy rain fell on Saturday night and Sunday, and the wicket was very sticky on Monday at Hampden Oval. Play, however, commenced to time, but the innings closed just before lunch time for 129. Douglas (33) and Hull (22) both batted well. Allen was responsible for most of the wickets, with 4 for 33 off 17 overs.

The School thus became premiers for 1924.

This year there are to be two rounds in the cricket competition, and no play-off if teams finish level.

Seven of last year's team came back, and the first round has now been completed. The School is leading in the competition after winning six out of seven matches. The team has scored 2,314 runs at an average of 39, while 1,321 runs have been scored against us at an average of 18.8.

The outstanding feature of the team has been the batting of B. M. Salmon, who scored 85, 385, 39 and 126 for the four matches he played, giving an average of 158.75. His score of 385 is the second largest in the School's history, and his record in school cricket has never been equalled in this School before, and by very few in Australia. His loss to the School is, of course, incalculable, and it is fitting that such a great all-round player should have captained the team that won the competition that has not been ours for eighteen years, since the days of Roy Minnett and R. J. A. Massie.

Not only has Salmon played brilliantly in school cricket, but he has scored freely for the N.S.W. 2nd XI., obtaining the average for the season 1924-25. He has also represented the State in the Sheffield Shield matches. The runs scored against the team in the last three games indicate the loss in bowling and fielding alone. He bears away with him the School's best wishes for an even more brilliant career in the future than has been his at school. His record since he became a member of the School XI. is here appended:—

Hundreds—106, 115, 125, 120, 160 (not out), 120, 110 (not out), 125, 208, 223, 225, 386.

Inngs.	Not out.	H. score.	Total.	Average.
73	8	386	4138	63.6

In competition matches:—
38	3	386	2602	74.34

54 wickets at an average of 16.4 in competition matches.

Colours—1920, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25.

Capt. of Cricket—1923, 24, 25.

Combined G.P.S. 1st XI.—1921, 22, 23, 24

Captain G.P.S. 1st XI.—1923, 24.

N.S.W. 2nd XI.—1924-25. v. N.S.W. 1st XI., not out 95; Queensland, 68, 94, 13, 27 not out; v. Northern Rivers, 18 retired; v. Newcastle, 51; v. Victoria, 23, 53 not out.

N.S.W. 1st XI.—12th man, v. South Australia; v. Victoria, 31, 9.

Selected 12th man for N.S.W. v. England.

The team's bowling has been weak, but the batting very strong. Mackellar and Murdoch have both batted very well indeed. Although batting in good form at the nets, Tyrrell has not had much luck, but has made up for his lack of runs by fine fielding at cover-point.

The only match that was lost was lost in the field. Against St. Joseph's, more catches were dropped than would have dismissed two teams. This was the only occasion that the fielding was below standard. Mackellar (Salmon's successor as captain) has again been very sound behind the stumps, and at times very brilliant. The younger members of the team have done well and shown promise for next year.

COMPETITION MATCHES.

First round of the competition matches for 1925:—

v. Newington College.—Played at North-bridge, No. 2 ground, on Saturday, February 21st, and won by 55 runs on the 1st innings.

Newington won the toss and batted first on a wicket that flew at times. Among the early batsmen, Lawes played well for 22. With nine wickets down for 87, Willard (50) and Helps (not out 12) carried the score to 156, compiled in three hours.

The School (211) passed the visitors' score with six wickets in hand. B. M. Salmon (85) batted very well, scoring freely on the leg side where a leg field was set for him. Tyrrell (36) and Mackellar (29) also batted well. Both sides, and Newington in particular, fielded well. For both teams the wickets were fairly evenly distributed.

v. Sydney High School.—Played at Northbridge on Saturday, February 28th, and won by 726 runs on the first innings.

Salmon won the toss and took Cadwal-lader in with him to bat on a wicket which later in the day was keeping low. This was a day of big partnerships and hard hitting; 314 were added for the fourth wicket, and 134 for the third and 102 for the fifth. 619 runs were scored on the first day for the loss of four wickets; of these B. M. Salmon had made 333, and was still not out. W. G. Foulsham played well for 125, while Mackellar's 50 was made by very fine cricket. Hattersley (50) punished the bowling, but was unable to add to his total on Monday, when the match was continued. The wicket was now very bad, and scoring was difficult. Allen (48) played very well in unsatisfactory conditions, and P. Salmon's 33 were made by sound cricket. B. M. Salmon was out for 385, practically a faultless innings, which included 43 fours. He was finally a victim to a ball that never left the ground at all. The innings closed at 804, the School's largest total to date.

The High School's fielding was good. The wicket never gave them a chance to make runs, and out of their total of 78 Johnston made 31; he batted well.

v. St. Ignatius' College.—Played at Northbridge on Saturday, March 7th, and won by 171 runs on the first innings.

The School won the toss and batted first on a good wicket. B. M. Salmon and Mackellar took the score to 91 before Salmon was caught in the slips for 39. Mackellar continued to play excellent cricket, with shots all round the wicket. He was finally bowled for 115, and the innings closed for 272. The running between wickets was very bad, and three were lost through poor judgment and failure to back up. St. Ignatius' bowling was accurate and the fielding good.

For Riverview, K. Hughes played well for 40, and McEvoy was not out 25. The wickets were well divided.

v. The King's School.—Played at Northbridge on Saturday, March 14th, and won by five wickets and 104 runs. The King's School won the toss and opened their innings with G. Hogg and Whytt on a good wicket. Fortune did not favour the early batsmen, and three were down for 27, of which J. Hogg had made 25. He was well caught on the leg side, behind the wicket, by Mackellar. Lampport and Egan took the score to 72 before Egan was caught. Lampport (33) was stubborn, but played a valuable innings. Rouse (24) went at the bowling, and looked dangerous, but fell into a trap set by Salmon. The innings closed for 120. Allen and B. M. Salmon were the most successful bowlers, with four wickets each.

Salmon and Mackellar opened the School's innings, but were very quickly separated, Mackellar being well caught by Egan at square leg from a powerful pull. Tyrrell also went early, and two were down for 14. Salmon and Cadwallader then settled down to stonewall, and slowly made the required runs. After passing the King's School, both livened up and both batted very well, Cadwallader for 70 and Salmon for 126. This was Salmon's last match, and this century was a fitting conclusion to his brilliant career in school cricket.

Light rain fell for a time early in the afternoon, which later made the wicket difficult. The King's bowling was very accurate. Jones (3 for 21) was the most successful, but J. Hogg bowled very well indeed, keeping an excellent length and turning sharply from the off.

v. The Scots' College.—Played at Bellevue Hill, on Saturday, March 21st, and won by 6 wickets and 2 runs.

Scots won the toss and had first use of a good wicket. Peters played very well for his 108 out of the total of 214. At one stage it looked as if the home team would make a big total, but the last five men added 15 only.

The School bowling was weak, and the side badly missed B. M. Salmon. Alexander (4 for 63) and Goddard (3 for 21) were the only effective bowlers. This was Goddard's first game with the team.

Mackellar and Murdoch opened the innings for the School, and took the score to 61 before being separated. Murdoch batted very well for 62, and with Tyrrell (79 not out) added 65 for the second wicket. The score was passed with six wickets in hand.

v. Sydney Grammar School.—Played at the Weigall Memorial Ground on Saturday, March 28th, and Monday, the 30th.

Mackellar won the toss and took Murdoch to the wickets with him to bat on an excellent wicket. They were unseparated by lunch time, when the score stood at 154 for no wickets. Shortly after lunch Murdoch was given out, caught behind for 55. After a nervous start, he proved himself a very sound opening batsman. Tyrrell was bowled by Cox and Mackellar and Cadwallader carried the score to 244 for three wickets, when the former was caught behind off Daly for 146. Although he had been missed by the wicket-keeper earlier in the day, he played a very fine innings, at first in wearing down the bowling, and later showing a great versatility of strokes, scoring finely all round the ground. Allen (run out 52) played his best innings of the term, and with Wilkinson (36) played some of the brightest cricket of the match. The innings lasted all day and closed for 381. Cox, Daly and Storey all bowled well for Sydney Grammar School.

The game was continued on Monday, when S.G.S. also batted nearly all day. Leslie and Evans opened the innings and settled down to wear the bowling out. Douglas and Hull used the same tactics, and all made runs. Chegwyn (96) and Cox (50) both played very fine innings, and at one stage the score showed five wickets for 279. Sydney Grammar School seemed to have a good chance of making the required runs, but then five wickets fell for 20 runs. Hattersley (3 for 16) was by far the School's most successful bowler, and the win was largely due to his bowling.

v. St. Joseph's College.—Played at Hunter's Hill on Saturday, April 4th, and lost by 147 runs on the first innings.

St. Joseph's won the toss and batted on a good wicket. This game was lost in the field, and numerous catches went begging. Cullen (127) had several lives, but went at the bowling and batted in attractive style. He is a very vigorous batsman, who makes the best use of his time at the wickets. Reid (61) played a useful innings and was hard to get out. The total of 353 should not have been beyond the School's powers, but the form which had been so weak in the field persisted in the batting. Mackellar batted very well for 48, and Murdoch was showing his best form when he was run out for 26. Cadwallader was solid for 22, and Hattersley played well for 34, when he was called upon to play an uncharacteristic innings.

2nd XI.

Of the seven matches played, all were won but the T.K.S. game. The team showed much improvement in fielding, and this all-important factor had much to do with the success. The batting was generally good, quite a number of the team rapidly improving and showing much promise. Sheaffe did particularly well the last few games, with scores of 132, 56 and 33. On several occasions the tail wagged strongly. Pitt i., Begbie ii., and Mackenzie bowled well, at times brilliantly. Length is still the main point in bowling, which all must be able to maintain to be really successful. Allerton kept wickets well, and came on splendidly with the bat. Williamson again discharged the duties of captain with his usual energy and keenness. It should be noted that Pitt i. and Begbie ii. each obtained the "hat-trick" in the St. Ignatius match, while centuries were made by Sheaffe and Wilkinson.

Dr. E. A. Woodward, Grafton.

R. B. Worden, 36 Prince Alfred Street, Mosman.

The Rev. H. McWilliam has been appointed curate-in-charge of the provisional district of Lawson, with Woodford and Linden.

S. W. Crane has resigned as secretary of the O.B.U. owing to going to England, etc., on a prolonged visit, and N. R. Conroy has been appointed secretary. Letters addressed to the O.B.U. Club will find him.

The Old Boys' dinner will be held at Sargent's Restaurant, Market Street, on Friday, July 3, during the Sheep Show.

Dr. E. A. Woodward has left Emmaville, and is now practising his profession at Grafton.

Congratulations to the following on finishing their medical course:—
A. A. Heath, W. N. Little, P. B. Voss, and H. F. Wilson.

Jaeger on being bracketed equal.

The Rev. D. Davies will be away in the country for some months from the middle of April. At the end of May he will be going to Moree, where he will remain a month or six weeks. During his absence from Sydney the work of the Hon. Treasurer will be taken by D'Arcy F. Roberts, Esq., of the Perpetual Trustee Co. Mr. Davies' private address is "Wentua," 28 Morton Street, Wollstonecraft. Letters for the Hon. Sec. should be addressed: S. W. Crane, Esq., c/o A. B. S. White, Esq., 117 Pitt Street, Sydney.

E. E. Garland has left the firm of Messrs. Potts and Garland, solicitors, at Narrabri, and has joined that of Mr. Walter G. Parish, Hunter House, 26 Hunter Street, Sydney.

Our sincerest sympathy is tendered to the parents and family of the following:—Thomas John Glover, who died on February 28. Glover was chief electrician to the "Sun" Newspaper Co.; to the family of Kenwyn Aberdour Elmslie, who died on March 4 from an illness contracted in camp during the war period when in training for oversea service with the A.I.F.; and the family of Joseph Meillon, who died on March 20 from appendicitis and pneumonia; and to Dr. Geo. Hamilton on the death of his wife on February 7.

On April 4th, a team of eight Old Boys played tennis against a team from the School, our first four winning and our second four losing.

G. A. N. Woodcock writes thus:—
 "In spite of the accusation of being the world's worst magazine, I always find them full of interest, and read them clean through. Things are going well with me, and the prospects of the company are brighter than ever. It is especially nice to know that the Peters' process, which is doing so well on practically all the cane sugar countries of the world, was discovered and developed in Australia, on the Richmond River, to be exact. We are at present at Cuba, and have been, since the end of November, enjoying delightful weather instead of the ice and snow and chilly times that New York is suffering under. I don't know how long we shall stay, or where we go from here, but no doubt it will be somewhere interesting. Please give my kindest regards to all my old friends among the masters. It is hard to realise that it is just 20 years since I left the School."

Woodcock's remark, i.e., "the worst magazine," is endorsed by a good number of Old Boys in letters to the writer. They say they are always looking forward to the new issue, and devour it from cover to cover.

G. A. N. Woodcock's duties entail a good deal of travelling, as this extract from one of his letters shows:—

I had a week here (Flushing, N.Y.) on our return from England, and then had to go to Porto Rico and Santo Domingo on an inspection trip to see some installations we are making in both places. Having returned last Monday from Porto Rico, I leave to-morrow for Louisiana, and continue to Cuba. My wife accompanies me this time, and we will be glad to dodge the cold winter of these parts.

N. R. Conroy has been elected Honorary Secretary of the Old Boys' Union in lieu of S. W. Crane, who has left for England. Please address any O.B.U. communications to the Old Boys Club, "Cromer," 51 Phillip Street, Sydney.

Old Boys who are interested in yachting will be pleased to hear of Don Taylor's success as helmsman of the Governor-General's "Corella," which with "E.O.J." was the most successful of the twenty-one foot restricted class yachts. The three Goddard brothers are in "E.O.J.'s" crew, and two of them went down to Hobart for the Australian championship.

Congratulations to J. N. Gregory on his success in the last series of test matches.

B. C. Corlette has been appointed Headmaster of Tudor House, Moss Vale, and R. Palmer is in charge of the Church of England Preparatory School at Manly.

At the final exams recently held, A. A. Heath, J. B. Oakeshott, H. R. Wilson and W. R. Wilson all passed; while in Law A. T. Edwards, A. N. Harding, N. G. Heron, F. Louat, N. D. McIntosh and P. F. Phillips were successful.

Old Boys in England will be interested to hear that the School has had the honour to be classed with the English Public Schools whose Old Boys are eligible for membership of the Public Schools Club of 61 Curzon Street, London, W1.

OLD BOYS' CLUB.

The second annual general meeting of the Club took place on Wednesday, March 18th, at 8 p.m. There was a very good attendance, and the following office-bearers were elected:—

President: Mr. Dudley Williams.

Vice-President: Mr. N. Y. Deane.

Hon. Secretary: Mr. G. C. Turnbull.

Hon. Treasurer: Mr. N. D. McIntosh.

Hon. Auditor: Mr. Norman Brooks.

Committee: Dr. G. A. Pockley, Dr. G. R. Hamilton, Messrs. D'Arcy Roberts, G. E. Browne, S. W. Crane, J. G. Hill, W. L. S. Harding and R. R. R. Hickson.

Since the meeting, Mr. S. W. Crane has resigned owing to his departure for England, and his place has been filled by Mr. A. K. Smith. Mr. Crane was one of the prime movers in forming the Club, and has done a great deal of work in connection with it. He has the members' best wishes for a very pleasant trip.

The Hon. Secretary read the annual report, and the Hon. Treasurer read the balance sheet, which were both adopted by the meeting.

Members are reminded that the monthly Club evening takes place on the first Tuesday night in every month.

The number of members who have joined this year has been very satisfactory, and Old Boys wishing to join, please get into touch with the Hon. Secretary, Gordon C. Turnbull, S.C.E.G.S. Old Boys' Club, "Cromer," 91 Phillip Street, Sydney.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

of the S.C.E.G.S. Old Boys' Club, for year ended 21st January, 1925, submitted to the members at the Second Annual General Meeting, held at the Club on 18th March, 1925.

Your Committee has pleasure in reporting a successful year, and as a result of the first year's operations it has confidence that the Club is now well established, and that the future can be regarded with reasonable confidence.

A great many of the Old Boys who promised to join the Club prior to its formation failed to carry out their undertaking, and consequently the Club actually commenced with 315 foundation members. Subsequently a further 94 members were elected, leaving at the end of the financial year a total of 409 members drawn from every period of the School's life. This number has, since the end of the year, been increased to 450.

Your committee elected as Hon. Life Members:—Rev. D. Davies, Messrs. A. D. Hall, C. H. Linton, L. A. Baker; and as hon. members: the Headmaster, Messrs. E. I. Robson, W. A. Purves, and all the present staff of the School. The Headmaster and Mr. Purves, however, have preferred to be financial members.

Your committee is very pleased that it was able to make Mr. Hall an hon. Life Member before his death. Mr. Hall was a master at the School for thirty-three years, and during that time he earned the esteem and affection of every boy who passed through his hands, and his memory will always be cherished amongst Old Boys of the School.

The Club has a lease of the present premises until 26th November, 1925, with an option of renewal for a further twelve months. The Club was opened with a reading room, card room, bathroom and office, but owing to the increase in membership the committee felt justified in securing an additional room, which has been furnished so that it can be used as a luncheon or card room, and for meetings of your committee, and the committee of the Old Boys' Union.

Your committee is kecaly alive to the necessity of securing larger premises as soon as the financial position of the Club warrants it. A billiard room is an urgent necessity, and the comfort of members would be materially increased if the club could afford to employ a permanent attendant.

A Club evening is held on the first Tuesday in every month, at which a light supper is provided. These evenings have been well attended, and it is hoped that they will continue to be supported by members.

A Club dance was held at Sargent's n 12th September, at which about 200 were present. Although it was a most successful dance, it was disappointing that more members did not endeavour to attend, as these functions must have the hearty co-operation of members to insure their success.

The past year has been occupied to a great extent in settling down, and the committee hopes that the Club activities will be very considerably extended this year.

Your committee wishes to place on record its appreciation of the good work Mr. Bagot has done for the Club by acting as its representative at the School, keeping the boys informed about the club, and taking the nominations of those who have decided to join the Club on leaving the School.

During the year, eleven meetings of the committee have been held, and the attendances have been as follows:—Mr. Dudley Williams, 10; Mr. Darcy Roberts, 10; Mr. L. C. Hutchinson, 10; Mr. N. D. McIntosh, 10; Mr. G. C. Turnbull, 10; Dr. G. H. Poekley, 9; Mr. W. J. S. Harding, 9; Mr. J. G. Hill, 8; Dr. G. E. Hamilton, 7; Mr. G. E. Browne, 7; Mr. S. W. Crane, 6; Mr. N. Y. Deane, 4.
