THE ARCHBISHOP.

Although the School has yet had no opportunity of meeting its Most Reverend Father-in-God, the Archbishop of Sydney, some of us individually have met His Grace, and others have heard him preach and received his blessing in the Cathedral and elsewhere. As this is the first issue of "The Torch-Bearer" since the Archbishop was enthroned, we take the opportunity of conveying to His Grace our respectful duty and a hearty welcome.

Dr. Mowll's appearance and career in the Ministry are known to most of us. It seems particularly fitting that one called to rule over a great overseas diocese of the Church of England should have acquired experience not only in the academic quiet of an English University, but also on the prairies of Canada, and amidst the turbulent conditions of Western China. We feel sure that the School looks forward to the first occasion when its Archbishop and the Chairman of its Council shall stand before its members in Chapel or in Hall.

SCHOOL NOTES.

It gives us great pleasure to record the success of some Old Boys in their academic careers. T. J. Dunbabin is the first Old Boy to win a First Class in Greats at Oxford. Greats is the name given to the final examination in the school of classical literature, antiquity, history and philosophy; and a First Class is a most notable achievement.

At the University of Sydney, three very fine successes were obtained. In medicine, S. P. Bellmaine took First Class Honours and the University Medal. In mathematics, R. E. Makinson took First Class Honours and the University Medal. In engineering, K. N. E. Bradfield took First Class Honours, and was proxime accessit for the University Medal. And J. Isbister was first in his class in first year medicine.

Another success which deserves prominence in our records is that of a present boy, D. F. Shetliffe. At the age of seventeen, Shetliffe won at Adelaide the Open High Jump Championship of Australia, with a jump of six feet and half an inch. This broke the existing records for South Australia, both junior and open.

These performances, academic and athletic, are not the result of impetuous or spasmodic effort. They come only to those who devote years of patient application to the end in view: The School has reason to be proud of these her sons.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

There have been several changes on the staff this term. Messrs. L. S. Richards and L. B. Wenzholz left at the end of last year, and Messrs. I. F. Jones and E. Mander Jones returned from England. An Old Boy, Mr. E. L. Dixon, B.A. (Sydney), joined the staff, but unfortunately both he and Mr. Davey fell victims to ill-health. To carry on their work, Mr. E. Robinson did duty awhile; and we also have with us Mr. C. H. Grace, B.A. (Sydney), an Old Boy of The King's School.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

It is interesting to note that at one period of the term there were six Old Boys on the staff.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

The "Torch-Bearer" takes its first opportunity of offering congratulations to Messrs. I. F. Jones, H. Broinowski, and W. Sawkins upon their marriages. Mrs. Broinowski's brothers are Old Boys of the School.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

It is regrettable that we deprived J. E. G. Channon of his sub-prefectship in our last issue. The mistake escaped several careful proof-readings, but was pointed out to the Editor ten times on the morning of publication. There is a vacancy for a strong, persevering proof-reader on the staff of "The Torch-Bearer." In the meanwhile we take every care but no responsibility, as for instance with wrongly added scores.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of Christmas greetings from the Brotherhood of the Good Shepherd at Dubbo. The School has been friendly with the Brothers for some time. We wish them well.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

As we said in our last number, Pinwherry has been partly pulled down and rebuilt in an enlarged form. The School Council and their architect are to be congratulated on a reconstitution which shows great prudence and consideration; while the masters and boys must surely be sensible of their good fortune. The place is a veritable palace. A tour of the premises filled the "Torch-Bearer" representative with memories of immaculate linoleum stretching down spacious corridors, of dormitories open to all the sun and air of creation, of bathrooms—they seem to have one in every corner of the house—a gleam with tiles and polished metal, of cupboards where the untidiest boy in the School—it is unthinkable that he can be in Robson House—would find it impossible to be untidy. In a word, new lamps for old, and a very good job made of it, too.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

The School enrolment continues to give satisfaction. The year opened with 662 on the roll.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

Some time ago we printed an article by an Old Boy, Lynton R. Dadswell, which described the Melbourne War Memorial, and more particularly the sculptured panels therein which he himself executed. Since then, Dadswell has advanced in the practice of his art, and we have great pleasure in reprinting the following note from the "Sydney Morning Herald" of January 19, 1934:—

WYNNE ART PRIZE.

The Wynne Art Prize for 1933 has been awarded to Mr. Lynton Dadswell for a sculptured group entitled "Youth." The conditions of the award provide that the prize may be given for a landscape painting or a sculpture. Mr. Dadswell's group is an intricate piece of work, and he appears to have succeeded admirably in achieving his aim. It is apparent that he has now attained a mastery of the craft of sculpture from which he might move forward to the achievement of work showing greater imagination. The value of the Wynne prize this year is £45.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

During the term a donation of £10/10/- was sent on behalf of the Council and boys of the School to the Launceston Church Grammar School, Tasmania, as a contribution to the fund for the erection of a School Chapel. The Chapel is now being erected, and will contain in wood carving the arms of this School. An appropriate bond will thus be created between the two Schools. It is worth bearing in mind that similar gifts were made to this School years ago by The King's School, the Sydney Church of England Girls' Grammar School, and the Melbourne Church of England Grammar School. The altar cross in our Chapel is the gift of The King's School. The gift has been suitably and gratefully acknowledged.

CHAPEL NOTES.

The first Old Boy to be enrolled at the foundation of the School, Dr. H. W. Kendall, passed away during the term. There was a service in the School Chapel conducted by Canon Langley, assisted by the School Chaplain. The Headmaster read the lesson.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

There was also a service in the Chapel on the occasion of the death of Richard Allworth Thresher, a pupil of the School from 1930-1934. The service was conducted by Rev. L. A. Sutton, M.A., assisted by the Chaplain. The Headmaster gave a short address, and read the lesson.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

The preacher at the Open Sunday Service this term was the Rev. Dr. P. A. Micklem, D.D., Rector of S. James' Church, Sydney.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

On Ascension Day there was a voluntary Sung Eucharist during the first School period. The Chapel was well filled with masters and boys. The sermon was preached by Rev. L. A. Sutton, M.A., Chaplain of The King's School. The School Chaplain was the Celebrant, assisted by Rev. I. D. Armitage, an Old Boy. The music was Merbecke; and a feature of the service was the hymn, "Hail thee, festival day," sung by cantors and congregation.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

At the voluntary service on Anzac Day, the address was given by an Old Boy, Colonel G. H. Crawford, officer commanding the Sydney University Regiment.

.o. .o. .o. .o.

Dr. John Bateman, who has been in charge of the Old Cairo Mission for over twenty years, visited the School, and gave an account of Medical Missionary work in Egypt.

"THE CRUCIFIXION."

On Tuesday in Holy Week the School Choir, consisting of boys, masters and Old Boys, gave a performance of "The Crucifixion," by Sir John Stainer. The Chapel was filled by boys and their friends. The performance, considering that the Choir had only two full practices of over a quarter of an hour, the rest of the work being done in odd minutes at lunch time, was most meritorious, and forms a notable stage in the musical history of the School. Apart from the musical aspect, it was an evidence that the Royal Agricultural Show is not the only reason for a five-day recess in mid-term.

Stainer's "Crucifixion" is not great music : it very faithfully represents the taste of mid-Victorians. But it is easy, melodious, devotional. It belongs to that Oxford Movement which lifted the Church of England out of the sloth and indifference into which it fell under the Hanoverians. And it has brought home to many audiences—as it did in School Chapel this term—the message of the first Good Friday.

The bulk of the solo work was taken by Mr. Gordon Turnbull (bass) and Mr. S. C. Begbie (tenor). Shorter solos were sung by Mr. J. C. Pope. Some of the Choir work lacked confidence, some of the leads being decidedly weak ; but on the whole, the attack was good, the balance excellent, and the tone full and round. The climax on the word "Crucify!" was excellently made. Very effective, too, were the Words from the Cross, sung by unaccompanied tenors and basses.

It is a thing much to be regretted that there were not any tenors and basses in the Choir from among the senior boys of the School. There must surely be, in a School of 660 boys up to 19 years of age, some few at least who can read simple music of one line, or who could easily learn to do so. Any boys who have experience of choir singing, or who know their notes, and who would like to take a place in the School Choir, should see Mr. Walmsley early in the second term.

IN MEMORIAM.*THE LATE Dr. H. W. KENDALL.

Herbert William Kendall passed away on 21st March, to the very deep regret of his friends within and without the School. He was the first boy whose name was entered on the School roll in 1889. He had a conspicuously successful School and University career. He was a Prefect, and a member of the First Eleven, the First Fifteen, and the First Crew. At the University he rowed in the 'Varsity Eight for several years. He graduated in medicine, and practised for many years, first in the vicinity of the University and later at Enmore.

He retained throughout his life a very close personal interest in the School, and was among our most enthusiastic Old Boys. He seldom missed Old Boy gatherings, and was always friendly, cheery and considerate, ready with a fund of kindly anecdote concerning the early days of the School. His professional career reflected his character: among his patients were many poor people, who have grateful remembrances of his services to them.

His funeral took place on 22nd March, after a service in the School Chapel. The large attendance of Old Boys, medical men, and personal friends testified to Dr. Kendall's wide popularity.

RICHARD ALLWORTH THRESHER.

With deep regret we record the death, on April 18, of Richard Thresher, of U.IV.A. Form. He passed away after a brief illness following an operation for appendicitis. The funeral took place on April 20, after a service in the School Chapel.

He came to the School in 1931, entering the second form in the Preparatory School. He showed considerable promise in his work, and was moving up the School steadily and regularly. He was keenly interested in School activities, and shared to the full the jolly companionship of School life. His schoolfellows will remember him with affection. We extend our deep sympathy to his parents and family.

LIBRARY NOTES.

There has been vast activity of a valuable sort in the Library this term. The energy displayed by the sub-librarians (two of them this year, competing in the service of the common weal) and their committee has amazed even a librarian who thought himself an energetic sub-librarian in his day.

The work of dividing the books more usefully into sectional libraries and the re-cataloguing involved in this—which seemed interminable last term—is now almost over. In consequence, the Library is far more useful.

As a result of the activity of the Library staff, we hope that other valuable activity within the Library walls, and in the life of the School generally, is on the increase. Without the second, the first loses its purpose. The re-arrangement of books and the purchase of many new ones for the various sectional libraries should have made more knowledge more easily available; and the acquisition of new periodicals should have made it more interestingly available. The very restrictions—the limitations upon eligibility for use of the Library, and the removal of some of the old favourites among the periodicals—are designed to increase the Library's usefulness by limiting its scope.

It is impossible to mention all the additions to stock this term. The periodicals have been increased by "The Listener" (an English weekly deserving the attention of all the thoughtful interested in politics, economics, history, science, art, or almost anything), "Art in Australia," "The National Geographic Magazine" (still to come), and "Die Brüche" (a German-Australian magazine). We hope to make periodicals more useful by allowing them to be taken away during the week-end (by approved people, and protected by suitable covers). The Modern History, Modern Languages, Physics, Chemistry, English, Economics and Geography sections have been added to, and more books for these and other sections are still to be bought. In addition, many books of general interest, such as Van Loon's "The Story of Mankind" and "The Home of Mankind"; the Australian novel, "A House is Built"; "The Intelligent Man's Way to Prevent War," and "Christianity and the Crisis" have been acquired.

All this for the better instruction and lasting delight of the School!

SPEECH DAY, 1933.

It is unfortunate that the most crowded assembly of the year should, by the nature of things, be held in the hottest season, mais que voulez-vous, c'est la guerre. To a partial extent recent history repeated itself. Amplifiers had been hung about out of doors; and some wise souls settled down under the trees, prepared to be sorry for the poor things sweltering in the Hall. Then came the southerly, the storm, the scattering, the picking up of skirts and the flight to the verandah. And the inhabitants of the Hall said, "I told you so!" or words to that effect. But it was not the storm of yester year. Things never are, as our elders tell us.

Archdeacon Charlton took the chair, and made some brief but wise remarks. That must be corrected: brief and wise; for both in Shakespeare and on Speech Days brevity is the soul of wit. His Excellency the Governor presented the prizes, and said that he had already been to the School so often that he felt like an Old Boy, and would have to present a chair some day. A very distinguished guest was present in the person of Sir Hubert Murray, Governor of Papua, and brother to that other famous Australian, Professor Gilbert Murray of Oxford.

Here follow the Headmaster's report, and the list of prizewinners.

THE HEADMASTERS' REPORT, 1933.

Once more the School has the privilege of welcoming His Excellency the Governor at its Speech Day. We deeply appreciate the honour of his presence, and are fully sensible of the encouragement which his interest gives to the life of the School.

Early this year His Grace the Archbishop of Sydney passed away while taking a holiday in New Zealand. The Church and the community generally have paid many tributes to him. He lived somewhat unobtrusively, rather shrinking from the light of publicity than seeking it. His influence was perhaps the more telling for this reason; for, whenever any occasion demanded a clear expression of his opinion, he always expressed himself with force and dignity, and with such deep conviction as to leave no doubt of his sincerity. He won the lasting affection of those who came into personal contact with him; he possessed a natural charm of personality, an easy dignity of bearing, and a rare simplicity and geniality in conversation. By his death the School suffered a loss, the full extent of which is appreciated, perhaps, by few. For 23 years His Grace was President of the School Council. His occupation of that office was no mere formality; his contribution to the government of the School was made with characteristic tact and unobtrusiveness, but was very great indeed. Such confidence was felt in his wisdom and in his judgment of practical affairs that his advice and opinion were earnestly sought. A quiet word here, a definite opinion there, have often served to maintain equilibrium in the affairs of the School. I myself have always felt that I could turn to him and be sure of sound and helpful advice. He seldom missed the opportunity of attending important functions of the School; he usually attended the School Chapel twice in each year, and invariably delivered a thoughtful, simple and appropriate message in his address. Perhaps it is not so well known that he was deeply interested in the everyday affairs of the School. He was among the first to offer congratulations upon success, and, as is more rare, on less happy occasions he did not forget to offer sympathy and encouragement. It is no mere form of words to say that we have lost a wise leader, and a firm and sympathetic personal friend.

I now have the honour to present a report upon the activities of the School during the past year. It has been a satisfactory year of steady progress and activity. The numbers recovered to some extent from the previous year. We have, in fact, had as many day boys as we care to have. The number of boarders is still well below our full complement, but we can scarcely expect to return yet to the enrolment of 1930. The average enrolment for the year was 630, as compared with 600 in 1932. The figures for the last eight years may be interesting. They are: 1926, 593; 1927, 604; 1928, 635; 1929, 655; 1930, 661; 1931, 615; 1932, 600; 1933, 630. It is difficult to forecast the position for 1934, but it is likely that the number will increase slightly, and that the increase in the number of boarders will be maintained.

This is scarcely the time to look for big improvements in buildings. Nevertheless the remodelling of Robson House has been undertaken, and will be completed before next term. It has been no light task to arrange for the carrying out of this work while the School is open; the boarders of the House have suffered their inconveniences cheerfully, but they will have the reward of greater comfort in the future. When complete, the House will be much more conveniently arranged, and the accommodation will be improved considerably in every respect. The boys' quarters, the Housemaster's rooms, and the matron's department will be clearly separated, but mutually convenient. The two main dormitories will be greatly enlarged and well placed, and the bath accommodation will be increased; on the ground floor there will be two large and airy rooms for recreation and preparation. The remodelling of the School House is still ahead of us, and it is a difficult task, as so many factors have to be taken into account. Considerable progress has been made towards a solution, and there is every hope that, in spite of difficulties, the work will proceed next year. One is naturally impatient to see rapid progress in the buildings of the School; on the other hand, one cannot but feel satisfied with the general rate of progress during the past ten years. In 1924 the North Sydney property consisted merely of the Chapel, the School House and class rooms, and the ground behind them. Since then the three big properties which we know as Robson, Hodges, and Purves Houses have been added, and the dining hall block built. If we can maintain a similar rate of progress during the next ten years, several dreams will be realised. We still long to find a generous benefactor who will share our dreams with us, and will help towards their realisation.

There is no definite addition to be reported in the Memorial Playing Fields at Northbridge. They are, however, in better condition than they have ever been. Our facilities for games have been increased by the construction of two tennis courts on the ground behind the gymnasium, with a standard miniature range alongside them. These have been provided almost entirely from Tuck Shop funds.

The health of the School has been very satisfactory indeed. Early this year the Sanatorium was repaired, and the main ward was turned into a very pleasant and suitable room. Since then it has been necessary to use it only on two separate occasions, once for a single case of measles, and once for the nursing of a case of pneumonia. The latter case yielded, fortunately, very rapidly to expert nursing. There were a few cases of the prevailing influenza at various times, but seldom, if ever, have the boarders been so free from such troublesome epidemics as measles, mumps and the like. Great vigilance is exercised by Housemasters and staff, and by the School medical officer, and we have to thank them for the efficient working of the medical system.

I am always at a loss to convey in my report any satisfactory information concerning the progress in School work. The results of the Public Examinations are the only results which can be expressed in figures. They convey very little idea of the work which goes on throughout the whole School, and indeed this cannot be reduced to a precise expression. In 1932, 49 boys passed the Leaving Certificate Examination, and 77 passed the Intermediate Certificate Examination. These figures represent results which are quite up to the School's average in recent years. Eight first class honours were obtained and seventeen second class; nine boys obtained University Exhibitions. The best pass was that of J. Isbister, who secured first class honours in the two Mathematical papers and in Chemistry, and second class honours in English. The best subject this year was English, in which three firsts and six seconds were secured. The Intermediate results were satisfactory in standard; the number of good passes were much the same as usual, if anything a little greater.

The general work has proceeded steadily. In some respects there is an improvement, although it is difficult to record it in precise terms; in other respects, there is no falling away in standard. The distinction scheme has been carried on, and has again yielded some good results. It gives an incentive to wider reading in the literary subjects, and produces a class of work in mathematics which it would be difficult to stimulate without such a scheme.

Last year I ventured to make some remarks concerning the machinery of education within the State, and expressed the opinion that there must shortly be some modification of it. Since that time much has happened, and I believe that reform is very much closer. In the middle of the year the Honourable the Minister for Education assembled a committee to report upon certain educational questions, including those which have given us some concern. The discussions within this Committee have proceeded during the last few months, and are nearing the stage of a final report. As I am a member of the Committee, I do not feel free to indicate what may be recommended. I feel sure, however, that the outcome will be that there will be a clearer understanding between the three great bodies which are interested in secondary education, namely, the University, the Department, and the many schools outside the Departmental organisation. I entertain the earnest hope that provision may be made for a permanent Council, with the object of keeping these three bodies constantly in touch. Nothing but good can come from such an arrangement. However, if such a Council is formed, I trust that its members will be appointed, not primarily as representatives of particular interests, but rather for the contributions which they may be able to make towards the solution of the pressing problems of secondary education.

On several occasions in the past I have expressed the opinion that there are marked defects in our system of Public Examinations. I believe that the Intermediate Certificate Examination is unsuitable in its present form, and that it is an unnecessary interruption of the sequence of work of those who are going right through the secondary course. I believe that the Leaving Certificate also has very serious defects: it requires too many subjects to be taken, with the result that the final year's work of a good honours candidate is too crowded; also its papers have to test a wide range of candidates, from the one who is worthy of a good "A" pass down to the one who seeks merely a lower standard pass for matriculation purposes.

I have always believed that these defects would be removed if we were to adopt a system based upon the principles underlying the examinations which are conducted in England. In that country there are various examining bodies, but the examinations which they conduct are arranged upon a common plan. For those who are covering a full secondary course, there are a School Certificate and a Higher Certificate. The former marks the completion of a general secondary course; it is taken at a stage roughly corresponding with the end of our Fifth Form work. After obtaining the School Certificate, a pupil is free to pursue a more limited course, which gives him more freedom to develop the work in which he has greater interest and facility. The conditions of the Higher Certificate are so framed that they encourage a high standard of interest and achievement, while at the same time safeguarding the pupil from the narrowing effect of undue specialisation. The system provides appropriate tests for pupils of widely varying types and abilities, and permits to schools a degree of freedom which we can only envy.

During this year there has arrived from England a most important and interesting document. It is a report by a panel of very competent investigators appointed to enquire into the various School Certificate Examinations held in England. It is interesting to note that the investigators have been faced with many problems similar to those which have been frequently discussed here. There is no dissatisfaction with the principle of the School Certificate; indeed, the recommendations of the investigators are made in many cases with the object of removing from it defects similar to those which I have attributed to the Leaving Certificate. They emphasise that the School Certificate Examination should be essentially a qualifying examination; that "much of the difficulty in securing and the same paper serve diverse and inconsistent ends." They recommend that honours and distinctions should not be awarded at this examination, and clearly imply that they should be confined to the Higher Certificate. They discuss the suggestion, which is made in England as in Australia, that conditions of matriculation may have an effect reaching far down the educational ladder, and offer a remedy which would be equally applicable here if we had a similar system. It would take too long to trace the many important matters to which reference is made in the report. For example, there is detailed discussion of many individual subjects, and many suggestions are made not only for improvement in the syllabus, but also for improvement in the spirit and method of examination. It is most interesting to note the general similarity between the English problems and those which exercise our minds, and to observe the progress which is being made there towards their solution.

Once more the record in games has been very good. We are at the top in the sport in which hitherto we have been least successful. Curiously enough, even sadly, the law of averages has applied, for we are at the bottom in the sport in which hitherto we have been most successful. In short, we were first equal in football, a very close second in the boat race, second in athletics, a close third in shooting, and last in cricket.

The football team deserves more than usual praise. We had not won the Football Competition since 1909; that year had been marked in figures of gold in the history of the School. As the years passed the gold appeared to shine more brightly, and we had developed a reverence for those giants of a bygone age. Occasionally we had reached second place, but never had we been able to reach the topmost rung of the ladder. The team and its coach deserve our congratulations, and we extend them also to St. Joseph's, with whom we share the premier-ship. At the same time we do not forget the teams of recent years, which have always played with resolution, and have kept the spirit of the game keen within the School. Mr. Fisher is the chief hero of the victory; it represents for him the result of long and careful planning. The spirit of the team reflected his vigour and enthusiasm. No mean contribution has been made also by coaches of junior teams, in whom we are most fortunate. The second fifteen shared first place with two other schools, and the junior teams generally had unusual success.

In the early part of the rowing season we regarded our prospects with some misgiving, as so few boys remained from previous crews. However, the crew made up in spirit for its lack of weight and experience, and rowed a very good race. They actually led over the majority of the course, and were only beaten in the last hundred yards. The second crew occupied second place, and the third crew third place. Incidentally, it will have been noticed that a proposal was made this year that the race should be transferred to the Nepean. I am opposed to the transfer, and I hope that the proposal will not soon be revived.

The cricket team has been unable to secure any great success during the year. It was quite a sound team, though it had no outstanding performers. The batting seldom realised our hopes; however, the team has worked with most creditable persistence. The fielding was maintained at a high standard throughout the season, and the team made its highest score in the last match. This shows that the spirit of keenness was never relaxed. The second eleven was third in its competition, and the junior teams have again had marked success.

The athletic sports were very keenly contested. In view of the fact that we had no absolute champions in the flat events, we did well to secure a good second place. The team was a sound one. Once more the mile team distinguished itself. The junior team occupied third place. There was a most marked keenness in training. A considerable number competed for places in the representative team, and so benefited by the experience and the coaching.

The shooting team won the N.R.A. Shield, but, though beaten only by the narrowest margin, occupied third place in the Premiership. When the "Buchanan" match commenced, we were leading. In this event the team exceeded the score with which it won the corresponding event last year, but on this occasion its score was good enough only for fourth place. This fact will illustrate the continued advance in the standard of shooting. A team from the Corps again won the right to represent the State in the "Earl Roberts" match, and came sixth among the Cadet Corps of the Empire.

In May of this year the School had the privilege of entertaining the members of the Headmasters' Conference of Australia, on the occasion of their first full meeting. The meeting marked the definite fulfilment of a project which has been in the minds of certain Headmasters for some years past. The Conference follows closely in aim and constitution the Headmasters' Conference in England. That body was formed in 1869, at a meeting convened by the late Rev. Edward Thring, the famous Headmaster of Uppingham. It has met almost annually since that date, and has had considerable influence upon educational development. Indeed, there is little doubt that the conscious development which has taken place during the last half century in the outlook upon public school education in its broad sense has been due to the opportunities which the Conference has afforded. It has seldom sought to exert any power, but has provided a pool of ideas and a regular meeting-ground for Headmasters. In England it has definitely created a sense of partnership in a common cause among the schools of standing.

A number of Australian Headmasters have from time to time been accorded membership of the English Conference. They have had the benefit of constant touch with English colleagues, and have visualised a similar movement in this country. It has not been easy to bring it about; distances are so great, and there was the fear that it might involve just another meeting which would achieve little. However, the success of the first full Conference was so great that the trouble has been well worth while. Of the 32 members, 29 attended, representative of all States except Tasmania. Three came from Perth, and one flew from Charters Towers. Thanks to the Council and the School staff, the scale of entertainment was worthy of an occasion which may fairly be claimed as historic.

The range of subjects was wide, and the discussion very free and full. I wish that I had time to read to you the inaugural address of Dr. Littlejohn, the chairman. It was an admirable description of the aims which form a common tie between the schools which were represented; and it was brimful of the kindly and genial turn of phrase which made him so good a chairman. It is a grief to us all that he passed away in October. If the Conference served no other purpose, it at least gave us an opportunity of knowing better the qualities which made him so great a Headmaster. Indeed, the chief value of the meeting was that it brought together not only within the Conference room, but outside it also, those who are constantly meeting the same problems. We passed many resolutions, some few effective, others merely pious hopes; but I believe that in our informal meetings we found a new strength in the common effort to cement the tradition which the public schools seek to build up in the country.

I am glad to record that the correspondence which has taken place between the Council and the College of Heralds has been concluded by a grant of arms to the School. The formal document conveying the grant has been framed, and stands upon the wall of the Hall. The coat of arms is the exclusive property of the Council, and may not be copied without permission. It is a matter of satisfaction that the grant has been made to the Council; the School is among the very few in Australia which have the right to bear arms.

The Cadet Corps has completed another year's successful work. During Mr. Bagot's absence, Mr. Burrell has been in command of the Corps. I am sure that we are all very grateful to him for the painstaking and efficient manner in which he has carried on this important work. The organisation, training and administrative work are considerable, particularly since they are in addition to ordinary school duties. The standard of work has been good, and the interest has been well maintained. Once again the drill squad won the "Kirby" Shield at the Gymkhana in April. There has been keen competition for appointment to non-commissioned rank, and to Cadet commissions. I hope that some of the boys who have been trained at School in the Corps will undertake the responsibility of service in the Volunteer Forces after they leave School. A number of our Old Boys are serving at present, but there is room for more of them. I must be forgiven if I repeat the sense of remarks which I have made before, upon the value of the Corps to the School. It is a very definite instrument of education; it is upon this ground chiefly that I again bring it to the notice of parents, and ask for their hearty support. Each year it becomes more clear that the Corps provides an opportunity for many to gain a sense of achievement in the exercise of responsibility. At the beginning of next year we shall be seeking recruits to fill the places of those who will have left. I appeal most strongly to parents to give us their support.

The various other general activities of the School are proceeding satisfactorily. The Natural History Society has moved ahead; its members have had several field excursions, and have exhibited their spoils and collections in a very interesting exhibition. "The Thing" has again held successful meetings, though it has had to make way during the last few months for the demands of important examination work. The Debating Team also has done most useful work; it did not have quite such marked success this year in the inter-school series of debates, but its members nevertheless reached a sound standard, and deserved well. The Boys' Club at Miller's Point also makes sound progress, under Mr. Backhouse's guidance. The Scout Group has advanced decidedly in efficiency. We are most fortunate in having the services of a number of experienced and enthusiastic Scoutmasters on the staff, and have again had much help from that very devoted Scouter, Mr. Milton Boyce. With the aid of the Group Committee, the Scouts have floored the venerable old gymnasium, and have transformed its interior in a most remarkable manner. I much admire the spirit of the work of the Scouts, and think highly of the contribution which they are making to the life of the School.

During the last few years we have been endeavouring to take some interest in the careers of boys who are about to leave School, and in a quite considerable number of cases we have been successful, not only in guiding boys towards appropriate avenues, but also in securing suitable positions for them. I shall be only too glad if we can expand our activities in this direction in future. I have been asked occasionally whether we can develop a service like that which has been adopted in certain English schools. I have some knowledge of what has been done there, and it is not much more in fact than we are doing quietly. It must be borne in mind also that in the wealthier English schools the number of masters is very much greater than the number which we can afford, and that it is therefore easier to allot a master to this special task. Nevertheless, Mr. Davey has offered his interest and services in this important work, and a start has been made to organise something which may develop into a useful system. I shall be only too glad if parents will realise that our interest does not cease when we hear that a boy is about to leave, and if they will consult us whenever they think we may be able to help.

Indeed, I suspect that it is not fully realised that we welcome contact with parents, and are glad not only to consult with them concerning the welfare of their own boys, but also to have their interest and co-operation in the general administration of the School. From time to time one discovers misunderstandings or misapprehensions, which are very easily cleared up in the course of conversation. Even occasionally one encounters, as with all schools, vague suggestions concerning the School—as often as not with no foundation in fact—which would not exist if there were an understanding, which is so easily reached. More important still, perhaps, I suggest that it is a good thing that parents and friends of the School should have a clear understanding of the aims and ideals of the class of education which we seek to represent. It is a noble tradition of education, not pursued by chance, but with a conscious aim, and a definite foundation—a development from decades of experience. I give my assurance that we shall welcome the opportunity of co-operation and greater mutual understanding.

This year the dates of the examinations were arranged very much more satisfactorily than in recent years. The Intermediate Certificate was completed only a fortnight ago, and we therefore were able to avoid the great disadvantage under which we have hitherto worked with these forms. The Leaving Certificate pass examinations were completed a month before the end of term, and the Honour examinations were held later. This is a good plan for the Honours candidates; while we have such an unsatisfactory examination as the present Leaving Certificate, it is probably the best plan. However, the result was that those who had no Honour papers were left unemployed for the last month of term. A series of lectures was arranged for these boys on a purely voluntary basis. A satisfactory number attended, and the response was, on the whole, gratifying. The subjects were concerned with Public Administration and Business Organisation, and were handled by Mr. Sams and Mr. Davey respectively. I am grateful to these masters for the interest and trouble which they expended at short notice on the task. It is, indeed, a pity that there is little opportunity for the development of an annual course in similar matters of important general information; the regular programme seems to be too full to permit their introduction except at an odd time.

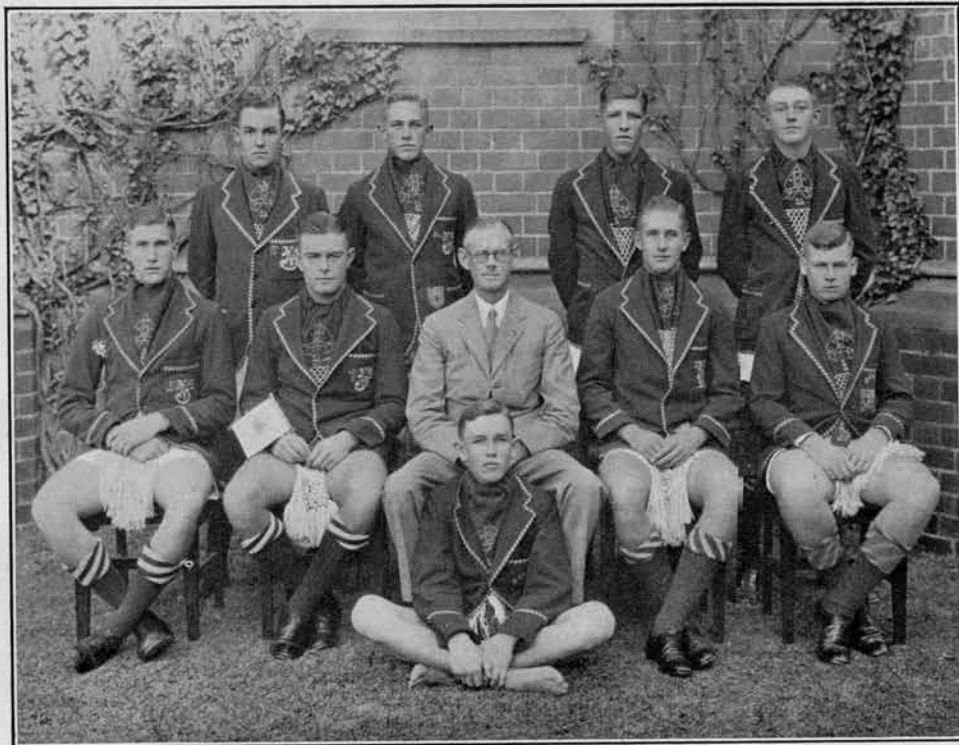

There have been a few changes in the staff during the year. The Rev. C. T. Debenham left us in May, after several years of energetic and useful work in many School activities. Mr. Bagot suffered from a persistent illness during the first two terms, but has now happily recovered. Mr. I. F. Jones was granted leave for the third term of the year; he is now in England, but will rejoin us before the start of next term. Mr. H. Wilshire filled a temporary position for the first two terms. This vacancy lapsed with the appointment of Mr. J. C. Nield in October. Mr. Nield is an Old Boy of the School, and a graduate of Sydney and Oxford. Mr. L. S. Richards and Mr. L. B. Wenzholz have occupied temporary positions for the last two terms. I regret very much that there will be no place upon the staff next year for these two gentlemen; they have given very loyal and efficient service to the School. Mr. Mander-Jones is to rejoin us in January next. He has spent the last two and a half years in England, gaining further useful experience. For two years he was in residence at University College, Oxford, where he graduated in July last, and during the last term he has been a member of the staff of Christ's Hospital.

The Chapel services have been arranged in much the same way as in previous years. The Choir has been once more very enthusiastic, and has maintained a high standard. Mr. Walmsley's enthusiasm is infectious, and he has been fully supported by other members of the staff. We continue to celebrate Anzac Day and Armistice Day by a service in Chapel—surely the most appropriate way of perpetuating the sacred associations of these anniversaries. At the Open Sundays the preachers were the Chaplain, the Rev. L. A. Pearce, and the Right Reverend the Bishop-Administrator of the Diocese. The Open Service in third term was held in the evening, and was broadcast in order that Old Boys and others in the country might have the opportunity of renewing their association with the Chapel. Among the appreciative messages which we have had concerning this service was one from Noumea, from the parents of a present boy.

Little by little we are adding to the adornment of the Chapel. During the Christmas vacation the panelling will be completed near the vestry. We have also been promised a window to commemorate those three fine Old Boys who passed away last year—Harry Braddon, George Hamilton, and Leslie Holden. There is a permanent fund in existence for the beautification of the Chapel; may I commend it to any who wish to do something of permanent value for the School?

The Old Boys' Union is in a highly satisfactory state of progress. Its membership continues to increase year by year. The usual functions have been held. The Annual Tea, at which the School entertains the Old Boys, was held in September, and was attended by about 200. The scheme which was adopted a few years ago for the celebration of Foundation Day in February has not proved very successful. At that time the School is not, as a rule, in full working order, and it is difficult also to avoid a clash with other important fixtures. The Union is considering the holding of a similar function in May next year, on a day as close as possible to the true anniversary of the Foundation. The Old Boys' Club is also doing good work. I again recommend to boys who are about to leave that they should make a point of joining the Club, particularly those who are in the city. There can be no doubt of the value to a young man in the city of a place which he can regard as his own, in which he can be assured of meeting his friends, and in which the associations with which he is familiar are preserved.

We have good reports of the progress of Old Boys at the University. The School has recently been extremely well represented in the Honours List, and several who won marked distinction at School are adding to their laurels in various faculties. Of these successes I shall mention only one, and that because it is an unusual distinction of peculiar interest to the School. Six years ago, T. J. Dunbabin secured the "Burke" Prize and the first place in the Leaving Certificate. This year he graduated at Oxford, with first class honours in "Greats." Not only is he the first Old Boy to secure a first in Oxford's most typical school, but he is also the first man from New South Wales to secure this distinction for many years past.

I cannot miss this opportunity of reminding Old Boys and parents, and those who are about to leave, that a scheme was inaugurated last year permitting the presentation of dining-room chairs and class-room desks. We have received a good number, and are grateful for the gifts. You see some of the chairs before you. I want the scheme to be even more successful. It seems to me that it is a very nice sentiment that one should wish to make a small gift to one's school on leaving. The chairs or desks provide a simple way of doing this, at an appropriately small cost. We value them chiefly for the sentiment which they represent, and for the contribution to the general atmosphere of the School. They bear the name of the donor and the years of his attendance, so creating a visible link between Old Boys and their School, and between present and past boys. I do wish to commend the scheme to you on this ground. I suggest to you, for example, to imagine this hall entirely furnished in this way with chairs. It would be in itself quite a stirring sight. Perhaps I may be forgiven if I am impatient to see the hope realised.

It now remains for me to thank very cordially those who have helped so much to make the year pass smoothly; first, the boys, in all sincerity; there have been many occasions to which they have risen—in fact, it is a happy thought that whenever the boys of this School are asked to rise to an occasion they seldom fail to do so; then the staff, whose loyalty and willing co-operation have been as great as ever—I need say no more; and finally the Council, whose interest in the School and whose care for its welfare I freely and gratefully acknowledge.

MILLER'S POINT BOYS' CLUB.

The Club is in full swing again. From 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. the junior members have the right of way. There are twenty-five juniors. These boys are very keen; they like competitions, and are awarded small prizes, such as pencils. The popular competitions are shooting with an air gun, skipping, and ping-pong. Draughts, dominoes, and other games are played by a few. The rope ladder, and springboard with vaulting-horse, are also in constant use. It takes at least six helpers from the School to supervise these games.

The senior members have their turn from 8 to 9 p.m. The most popular game is soccer: in this game 'Shore and Miller's Point are intermingled.

The Miller's Point boys are loyal to 'Shore, and were barracking for the School at the Boat Race.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY NOTES.

At the beginning of the term we found ourselves numbering only four. Some members had left, some had joined the Corps, and some had temporarily forsaken us owing to the pressure of the Intermediate. Members are now up to over twenty, and applications for membership for this year must now be refused. Those wishing to join next year are advised to apply at the end of the third term.

There has been one whole day excursion this term, to Fuller's Bridge, and we hope by the end of the term to have been on one other expedition, this time for marine collecting.

The main object of this year's work will be the establishment of a School Museum, with collections of various insects and other fauna for reference purposes. An advance is being made this year, for we are not confining our attentions to insects. Already we have collected several lizards, and after the marine excursion we hope to have added many queer creatures from the rock pools. Some members are also making a collection of pressed flowers. Prizes will be offered this year in the Exhibition for the best contribution to the Museum, the best photograph on any subject connected with Natural History, and perhaps also the best essay on the life-history of an insect.

The Society thanks Miss Mackey for a gift of coral and shells from Lord Howe Island, and several people for the gift of books for the Museum Library.

There will be three lectures next term. Mr. H. Willings, who has been working for some time with the C.S.I.R., Canberra, has promised us a talk on "White Ants."

We are sorry to hear that a very great friend of the Society, Dr. G. A. Waterhouse, has been ill. We wish him a speedy recovery.

"THE THING."

At the first meeting of "The Thing," the officers for 1934 were elected, viz. : President, Mr. C. E. Burgess; Vice-President, Mr. P. Radford; Treasurer, Mr. I. F. Jones; Assistant Treasurer, J. N. Sevier; Old Boys' Representative on Committee, J. D. Steed. At a subsequent meeting, E. F. Mewton was elected Secretary. Mr. I. F. Jones gave an interesting account of his travels in France, Italy, Greece, Palestine and Egypt.

At the next meeting Mr. Radford gave a talk on Germany, and especially on Ober-Ammergau during the time of the Passion Play. Pictures were shown by the epidiascope.

The third meeting of the term was addressed by Miss Gladys Owen, who took for the title of her address, "Some Rambling Remarks on Art." This was most stimulating, and led to a discussion on modern art, in which several members and visitors took part.

Arrangements were made for a fourth meeting, but the lecturer chosen was not available, and a rush of important School fixtures prevented the selection of a later date in the term.

"The Thing" is now in the third year of its existence, and those who took part in its foundation wish to point out that its continued prosperity depends upon the interest taken by members in its proceedings. Upon the whole, the work done by the Society has been both enjoyable and profitable. It is very pleasant to see the way that the Old-Boy members continue their attendance at and interest in the meetings; and interesting to record that, at one time during the term, no less than five members of "The Thing" were in London.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

As part of the celebrations of Foundation Day, a match was fired at Chatswood Rifle Range against an Old Boys' team. Details will be published next term.

Other shooting activities are dealt with under Cadet Notes.

It is proposed to enter teams and individuals in the M.F.R.C.U. annual matches at Long Bay Range early in June.

Reference is made in Cadet Notes to the new Miniature Range, which was constructed at the end of last year. It is a very good range, and is expected to be of great benefit to shooting generally.

CADET NOTES.

At the commencement of term, Major E. M. Bagot was able to resume command as O.C. Captain E. Mander-Jones, who returned from England in January, took over the position of second in command. Lieutenant Burrell is adjutant, and Captain Mander-Jones and Lieutenant Broinowski are in charge of "A" and "B" Coys. respectively. There are three Cadet officers back this year—Cadet-Lieutenants W. H. Travers, W. G. Thomas, and J. R. Burrell.

GYMKHANA.

This year, the 14th Annual Gymkhana (Navy, Army and Air Force) was held at the Show Ground on Anzac Day, April 25th. The Corps was represented in squad drill, shooting and athletic events. The places gained were as follows:—

DRILL COMPETITION—(KIRBY SHIELD).

	Inspec- tion. Possible (100)	Marching. (100)	Squad Drill. (100)	Arms Drill. (100)	Total. (400)
S.C.E.G.S. . . . .	75	70	100	100	345
Knox College . . . . .	90	85	85	75	335
Cranbrook School . . . . .	80	80	80	80	320
The Scots College, 315.
Sydney Grammar School, 250.

ATHLETICS.

100 Yards (Final) . . . . .	2nd
440 Yards . . . . .	3rd
High Jump . . . . .	1st (5 ft. 5 ins.)
440 Yards Relay . . . . .	1st (Kandos Cup)
Points : S.C.E.G.S. (16), 1st; N.C. (13), 2nd; T.S.C. (8), 3rd.

MINIATURE SHOOTING—(VICARS' CUP).

S.C.E.G.S. . . . .	429 points	1st
S.G.S. . . . .	413 points	2nd
N.C. . . . .	389 points	3rd

Great keenness was the outstanding feature in training for these competitions. A large number of Cadets offered themselves for selection in all events, doing much to raise the standard of achievement. The enthusiasm of the selected members was remarkable, and they frequently sacrificed their spare time and their leisure so as to perfect their work. The training of the drill squad this year was carried out by Cadet-Lieut. W. H. Travers and Sjt.-Major F. J. Davidson. The work of Cadet-Lieut. Travers in the competition itself was highly commendable; his precision was excellent, and he made the most of his squad's capabilities.

It is interesting to note that the squad gained 100 per cent. for both Squad Drill and Rifle Exercises.

Cadet-Lieutenant Thomas and Cadet M. Duddy were responsible for the training of the miniature rifle shooting team. L/Cpl. D. F. Shetliffe was captain of the athletic team.

MINIATURE RANGE.

At the end of last year a new range was erected behind the gymnasium. Careful consideration was given to its design, and the School now possesses a first-class range, which is constantly in use for application practices, snap shooting, and sand table exercises.

RIFLE SHOOTING AND L.G. TRAINING.

"A" Coy. fired the rifle and L.G. courses at Long Bay Range on May 8. The results will appear next term.

No. 3 Pl. completed a miniature range course.

"A" Team fired a miniature range match against T.A.S. and S.G.S. The results were not to hand in time for publication.

TRAINING.

On the first three Tuesdays of the term, a refresher course for Cadets wishing to take the examination for first appointment to non-commissioned rank was held.

The work this term has followed on the usual lines. "B" Coy., comprising recruits, has been occupied in learning the groundwork of squad drill and rifle training. "A" Coy's work was that of the second year, and included Lewis gun training, a thorough revision of rifle training, and a little tactical exercise at Ball's Head. No. 1 Pl. was occupied permanently in the Drill Competition programme.

N.C.O. CLASSES.

During the week preceding the commencement of term, Major Vasey, Brigade Major of 8th Inf. Bde., conducted a school of instruction for the benefit of those about to be examined for their first appointment as N.C.O.'s. The training was carried out by the A.I.C., and about 24 Cadets attended. This was followed by the refresher course of three parades' duration. After the examination, further training was carried on with the purpose of preparing some 26 N.C.O.'s for the examination for promotion to the rank of serjeant.

Rifle training instruction was given to those N.C.O.'s who did not intend to stand for the Serjeants' Examination.

EXAMINATIONS.

An examination of candidates for first appointment to the rank of Corporal was held on March 6, and for promotion to the rank of Serjeant on May 1. The number of candidates examined was 70 and 26 respectively. Assistance, for which the Corps is very grateful, was rendered in the examination for Corporal by ex-Cadet-Lieuts. I. G. Esplin, D. R. Rickard, J. E. Ellis, C.S.M., E. J. Eastaugh, S.L.R., and ex-C.S.M. P. C. Taylor; and in the examination for Serjeants by Lieuts. J. G. Crowther, S.U.R., E. V. Pockley, S.U.R., ex-Lieut. K. E. Richardson, and Lieut. A. H. Mack, S.U.R.

Next term examinations will be held for first appointment to the rank of Cadet Lieutenant and for promotion to the rank of Warrant Officer.

NUMBER OF PARADES.

3 N.C.O. Training, 2 Examination, 7 Training, 1 Rifle and L.G. Course on Range.

STRENGTH.

7 Officers, S.M., 43 N.C.O.'s, 137 other ranks. Total, 187.

73 Cadets left School last year.

90 Recruits joined this term.

SCOUTS.

After a wet ending to its Mid-summer Camp, the School Troop soon settled down to its club-room work. Several members of the Troop are looking forward to going to Melbourne to the Pan-Pacific Jamboree at the end of the year.

Several outings have been held, and a Camp at Camden over Easter was a happy, if a wet one, for a dozen Scouts.

We were sorry to lose, fortunately only temporarily, the services of Mr. Boyce, and are fortunate enough to have as enthusiastic helpers Mr. Gilfillan and Mr. Redman, who have helped us at camps before.

Colonel Moseley and Mrs. Tindall have made us gifts in the shape of key and sounder and a ping-pong table; and B. P. Jay has presented the Troop with a fine ship's bell, which will be taken to Camp, and which is a useful ornament for the club-room at home.

SUMMIT OF MOUNT EGMONT, NEW ZEALAND.

Round Taranaki's snowy peak a gale
Blows cold; one's very blood is chilled, whilst off'
Dense clouds are driven by the keen wind aloft,
Below, and all around: See now, the veil
That shrouds in haze the mountain top doth pale;
It clears, and there, upon the bosom soft
Of clouds lies Ruapehu. Gently waft
The winds their breath o'er his grey head, not frail,
Though old. Descend this present glittering snow,
And cross the weary scoria with the eye;
Pass o'er the forest's verdant peace to where
The mighty Tasman lies asleep below,
And far away where azure sea meets sky
'Tis felt the mermaids comb their dripping hair.

A CRUISE TO THE GREAT BARRIER REEF.

By N. O. H.

Amidst the high pitch of enthusiasm which is generated at the beginning of every holiday, full of expectations we left Sydney by s.s. "Karoola" on Thursday, January 18. After an unpleasant night spent in a stuffy cabin, we made for the dining saloon; but only five members of the party had breakfast, for the other eight were overcome with—, well you know what, and they were in their cabins below.

After breakfast next morning, the non-convalescent members of the party paid a visit to the bow of the "Karoola." As usual, Mr. Porpoise and family were there frolicking and darting before the ceaseless plough of the bow. The greater part of this day was spent in deck sports and swimming.

Early on Sunday morn we entered the Reef. Once inside the Reef, the colouring effect of the water was perceived to have changed from the dark ocean blue to that of a light bluish green. Numerous flying fish began to collect at the bow, and the atmosphere seemed to have a pleasant feeling in it. By now the heat was being felt, for we were in the Tropic of Capricorn. At 10 o'clock on Sunday morning we reached Scawfell Island. That morning Divine Service was held on board.

After lunch we were transported by aid of lifeboats to visit the island. No sooner had the boats touched the shore than the boys were climbing up into the lofty heights of the coconut palms which embroidered the beach. Many nuts were obtained, and part of the island reconnoitred. The various insects of the island are rich in colours, and I am certain that if any members of the School Natural History Society had been present they would have been all the better for a rare collection of spiders, bugs, ants, etc. Five of the boys were so pleased with the palm-fringed isle that they completely lost their civilised senses, clothes, etc., and put on the attire of savages. Uttering blood-curdling yells, they gave an exhibition of a cannibalistic war dance. The luring influences of the tropics were spreading abroad already! After a most refreshing swim, we were transferred to the "Karooa." The ship lay at anchor overnight, and numerous fish were caught, the largest weighing just on 16 lbs. [not another fish story!].

Next day attempts were made to land on West Molle Island, but bad weather conditions hampered all attempts. Things looked black at the time, for the weather seemed too rough to land anywhere at all. At last anchor was dropped in a sheltered bay of Long Island. This island is inhabited by a family of white people. On the cultivated land of the island they grow the various kinds of tropical fruits, including paw-paws, mangoes, and bananas. Snakes also inhabit the island, the carpet snake being the most unsociable, as he has a regular habit of stealing the poultry. One beach of the island consists entirely of smooth rounded pebbles, all colours and shapes.

On Tuesday we were favoured with a fine, sunny day. This day was to be the happiest of all. Anchor was dropped at North-West Island, a typical example of a real coral island. Its foreshores were appropriately surmounted by a beach of snow white sand, which declined into a sky blue lagoon, outskirted by an outlying coral reef. On the way into shore an enormous shark was seen cruising at leisure. Myriads of sea birds swooped about the boats as they neared the shore. The birds were of two species, mutton birds and noddies, all of which nest in the interior of the island, using the many neighbouring island lagoons as their fishing grounds. Numerous turtle tracks leading from the lagoon to the interior aligned the beach. After a protracted search, we came across a batch of over one hundred turtle eggs. The eggs, in shape and colour, resemble ping-pong balls; they make a relishing meal. The eager visitor is likely to be disappointed with his first view of the famous reefs if the tide is full [as it was during the greater part of our stay]. It is when the tide goes out that the beauty and charm of the living coral gardens are laid bare to view. After a most enjoyable day spent on the isle we returned to the ship, each person laden with spoil from the island, mainly shells, turtle eggs, coral, and other treasures of the reefs.

With the ever-changing glories of colour in sea, sky and land; the invigorating exercise in the tonic air; the beauties of the tropic night, and the anticipation of to-morrow's joys that are to commence with the breaking of day, the Barrier Reef opens up new vistas of creation. Then the journey home. The booming organ pipes of the surf are muffled by distance as the islands recede astern. The passengers fall silent, each with his mind recalling the happy days spent on the reefs—a mind which will serve him with a fund of happy reminiscences.

Antananarivo,
February 29, 1934.

(The Editor, "Torch-Bearer.")

Dear Sir,

Perhaps you will be surprised and even delighted to know that the "Torch-Bearer" extends its influences as far as Antananarivo. You are surprised, Mr. Editor? Well, so was I!

I have been on a big game hunting expedition in the east of Africa. What a sport! What a pastime! What honour to be held in the highest esteem—a Big Game Hunter! The east of Africa is not an excellent place for a big game hunter to hunt big game, but at any rate it was quite suitable for my wants.

While I was in Antananarivo, I happened to be in the lounge of an hotel. (Yes, they have hotels in Antananarivo!) Here, judge to my surprise, dear Mr. Editor, I picked up the magazine of my old School. I snatched it up and eagerly read it from cover to cover. This inspired in me a kind of home-sickness, and I immediately felt the desire of writing to the "T.B.," and—well here, Mr. Editor, is my letter.

I shall attempt to describe to you some of my big game hunts, my adventures in the African jungle, and the thrills I have experienced. You know, Mr. Editor, the lions of the jungle are not like the lions of the zoo. What! You are amazed? So was I! You, of course, know what the lions of the zoo are like. Out here in Africa one never sees a zoo lion—one sees a jungle lion. My first sight of a lion terrified me so much that—however, I shall reserve that adventure for another letter.

I now intend to tell of an adventure which, amazing and incredible as it may seem to those who have never been big game hunting, is, however, perfectly true. One day, after proceeding along a track cut in the tangled undergrowth, with the blazing mid-day heat beating down, I came to a clearing. Now you must know, Mr. Editor, that clearings are so rare in the African jungle that whenever anyone comes upon one his suspicion is immediately aroused. I was therefore put on my guard, nor was my caution without reason. Scarcely had I gone a third of the way over the clearing, when I heard a rustle in the undergrowth on my right. I turned. A lion had come out into the clearing. Before I could aim or even load my gun, the lion sprang. What could I do? I ask you, Mr. Editor, to put yourself in my place, and then make your suggestions. You cannot criticise my actions, therefore, when I say I threw myself to the ground and lay flat on my face. The lion went over my head, and, carried by its momentum, went crashing into the undergrowth on the other side of the clearing.

I sprang to my feet, grasped my rifle and quickly loaded it. The lion, being a jungle lion, would be back any moment: I must be prepared for it. I waited for several minutes, but no lion re-appeared. I decided to investigate this matter, for in all my career of big game hunting I had never known such a case.

Going forward carefully, I peered through the undergrowth, and saw to my surprise—for such a thing has never been paralleled in the history of the jungle—another clearing, almost within ten feet of the first, but completely hidden from it.

And the lion! What had become of the lion, dear Mr. Editor? There was the lion, with a perplexed look on his face, bounding round the clearing practising low jumps.

I am, yours sincerely, Mr. Editor,

AN OLD BOY.

[We have looked up this Old Boy in the Register; and while continuing to respect the anonymity of his honoured surname, have no scruple in disclosing his other names, which are Ananias von Munchausen.—Ed. "T.B."]

AUNTS AND OTHER RELATIONS.

(A. L. Yuille.)

Relations may be divided into two species: those who are rich and those who are not. The former we never see; the latter are always with us. Both are more popular after death.

The first species is of a very touchy nature, and, at the slightest pretext, the little something which we were waiting for will go to the second cousin, who resides in South America. (In this case the relative becomes decidedly less popular after death.)

The disposition of the second class is greatly different. It is usually rough and hearty, and refuses to accept the most blatant hint. Thus it will inhabit our home week after week, until the atmosphere becomes so frigid, that the visitation ceases.

It must not be thought, however, that all relatives are of the type mentioned above. Some go to Church twice every Sunday, and organise Sunday School fêtes. We can generally put up with these when they stay with us; but when the head of the house cuts his hand with the carving knife, it is a grim sight for the family to witness the struggle which goes on within him before he can withhold from blasphemy.

In conclusion, we might state that the demise of close relatives provides a fruitful source of opportunities for office-boys to witness football matches and other sporting engagements. The usefulness of such relations far outlives their first death; in fact, some seem to have as many lives as the proverbial cat.

SONNET.

'Tis pleasant 'side a gurgling brook to dream,
Couched on a grassy bank 'neath shading ferns.
The mind, though bathed in Lethe, still discerns
Faintly the endless chatter of the stream.
It with the wanderings of one's brain doth seem
To flow along, whilst oft from lonely hems
A cry is heard amid the twists and turns
Of the subconscious mind; and figures teem,
And in a flying second act their parts,
Though to him sleeping it may be like years;
Sometimes their faces hideous are, and hearts
Drop blood; but then the ear such music hears
That phantoms all flee blushing when it starts--
Soft music wafted from the distant spheres.

BALLAD OF THE BOAT RACE.

The rain at far Yaralla
 Drips from the weeping trees;
 The cold and saddened river
 Still writhes beneath the breeze :
 In its tormented waters
 Still floats the lost straw hat;
 The race is lost and over,
 The wine of life is flat.

Ah! dull and drear was Wednesday,
 When sailed the watching fleets;
 But underneath a smiling sky
 They battled in the Heats.
 The fates of fours were long to tell—
 The eager printer waits :
 My song shall ring with greater themes :
 I mean, of course, the Eights.

In vain the hosts of Newington
 Shall grit their aching gums;
 Loyola's proudest galleon
 Superb, but vainly comes.
 In vain with cries of "College!"
 St. Joseph's echo rings :
 One hundred years of proud descent
 Shall not avail for King's.

Four companies of mariners
 Are left their strength to try
 In shaky shells of cedar-wood
 The rival oar to ply;
 Full loud the morning trumpets
 Discordantly proclaim
 The diverse heroes of their hearts
 Foredoomed to certain fame.

Now David Jones and Farmer's
 Shut the exhausted door;
 Strong men at ribbon counters
 Sink to the welcome floor.
 The badge and button vendor
 Gets clergyman's sore throat;
 The Concord car attendant
 Puts on the official coat.

And now to Burwood station
 Speeds the impatient train;
 The plunging, panting motor boat
 Cleaves Parramatta's main.
 On Cabarita's pastures

They spread the picnic rug;
 From darkest Glebe and Pyrmont
 Creeps forth the noisome tug.

And out from earth's remotest bounds
 Swells forth the clamorous tide :
 From Manly and from Matraville,
 From Rockdale and from Ryde,
 From Bondi's boundless beaches
 Retreats the unpeopled sea;
 And there were those who left the glades
 Of peaceful Warrawee.

The gluttoned ferries drift and swing
 Adown athwart the course :
 Their happy, howling complements
 Have shouted themselves hoarse.
 The angle of the "Burrabra"
 Nears forty-five degrees;
 The captain on the envied bridge
 Pleads upon prayerful knees.

But hark! above the roaring din
 There thuds the starting gun;
 Superb in one long even rush
 The second four has won.
 On through the first four's agonies
 The crowd impatient waits,
 Till at long last the rising gulls
 Signal the starting eights.

See our once-splintered argosy
 Now breast the angry tide :
 With tingle and with glue-pot
 George Towns has patched her side.
 How gallantly her company
 The vessel forward bring,
 When envious eddy's fateful force
 Shatters a poppet string.

Alas! what disappointment dire
 The egg of hope will hatch;
 Even the world's most skilful oar
 The cumbering crab may catch.
 And such a bitter meed of woe
 Was never known before :
 That strings should snap and crabs be caught,
 And one should lose an oar.

But such a gallant feat of arms
 As this was never known:
 To row a boat four hundred yards
 By influence alone!

The steamer whistle sadly moaned;
 A leading Old Boy wept;
 Homeward in tram and train and car,
 To hide our grief we crept.

THOUGHT.

(J. E. G. Channon.)

O Thought, thou cunning thief of quiet sleep,
 Why dost thou plague me in my weary brain—
 Weary, yet working, till a sullen pain
 Gnaws at my eyes, and still my senses leap?
 The stars are mocking me as deep on deep
 I plumb the sea of thought, yet never gain
 The bottom, so that all would seem in vain,
 And sleepless eyes the only prize I reap.
 What good do we derive from probing thought?
 Are we more happy than the men untaught
 To question all our tales of Heav'n and Hell?
 Nay, we are happiest when we question naught
 In childhood, when we trust in elfin dell,
 And all those tales that mothers love to tell.

SECOND THOUGHTS.

(J. E. G. Channon.)

Cattle are care-free as they roam the plain,
 Or chew the cud and sink in dreamless sleep;
 So is the imitation-sodden sheep,
 Who takes no thought for either sun or rain.
 But who could think that it is mental gain
 To be content with faith, and never peep
 Into the truth of things, and only reap
 The emptiness of those who live in vain?
 The earth is ever rolling on through space;
 And so forever must our spirits roll,
 And never cease the ever-faster race
 Whose prize is truth. For this we pay the toll
 Of waking thought, which only is the way
 To scatter superstition's cloud from day.

ATHLETICS AND PUBLICITY.

By Toad of Toad Hall.

This is an age of publicity, so they tell us. For three halfpence one may buy a newspaper containing a most interesting lot of advertisements and quite a decent quantity of peptonized news, much of which has evidently filtered through a "failed-intermediate" mind. By turning a knob on your radiophone you may not only learn new and interesting ways of pronouncing words, but also (or vero etiam) may learn great basic things about permanent waving, or about the bargains awaiting you at Tom Tiddler's Stately Pleasure Dome. These things are a part of our life.

But we use this publicity in such a peculiar way, and with an emphasis most unaccountable in its incidence. What, we may ask, are the Press and the Radio for, if it be not for whacking up to fever-heat the interest of the public in things that really matter? In the matters of furnishing the home, cleaning the teeth, or voting for the less objectionable of two political candidates, publicity deals very fairly with us. But there is too much glaring disproportion.

For instance, although one acknowledges with gratitude the debt to publicity which alone has exalted Australia to be the most musical country in the world, nevertheless the orgy of advertisement, adulation and petty gossip that attended the recent world tour of the Australian Grand Opera Company was surely an instance of publicity run wild. Some of us who read all through the seventeen-column account of their reception and first night performance at the Scala Theatre at Milan felt that it is perhaps possible to have too much of a good thing. And the correspondence in the newspapers of the world as to whether or not Ambrosius ("Brozzy") Smith, the left-handed tenor from Bowral, sang flat in the second act of Tristan, when called by his partner Isolde; and the passage of words betwixt them twain and the conductor after the performance, was surely calculated to bring serious music into contempt. Again, the attacks made upon the Board of Control of the Australian Musical Federation over the selection of the string quartette for the Olympic Festival were fomented by too great a publicity to a degree little short of rabid. But of course we must temper this criticism with praise for the work done by publicity in promoting interest in the Great Public Kindergartens' Crooning Competition. It is things like that which have done much to make us croon-minded, or, as old-fashioned people call it, cultured.

But it is when we compare the amount of publicity lavished upon music, an activity quite harmless in itself, and indeed enjoyable in moderation, with the amount of notice taken by the Press and Radio of athletic sport, that we see the glaring disproportion. Recently a team of Australian cricketers on their way to play a series of matches in England was not only selected in secret, and announced with a hole and corner obscurity, but was actually allowed to steal out of the country it was representing, in the furtive manner that Hollywood has taught us, in stocking feet and on tip-toe.

Much the same condition of public apathy obtains in regard to the activities of the athletics of the Great Public Schools. Those of us who are actively associated with any of these schools know that an event of great interest to boys and their friends is the annual Regatta on the Parramatta River, in May or thereabouts. Apart from the value of rowing and all that it implies, several interests in life are concerned, ranging from printers to dentists, from ribbon manufacturers to salvors of floating straw hats. Yet how coldly this great annual event is treated by the two chief engines of publicity, the Press and the Radio! Now surely a little publicity would not come amiss in connection with the Regatta. How interesting and even inspiring it would have been to see every-day photographs of the boats, the oars, the seats, the knives and forks used in the rowing sheds; to have heard over the nightly air the daily menus, the pulse and temperature records, the homework, the aspirations, the loves and longings of the crews; how cox of ——'s keeps white mice, and whether the 'Shore crew wear braces and/or belts!

And it is not only rowing. Next term there will be football. Must our sport be allowed to languish in obscurity? Are we going to allow competitions to degenerate into mere games and pastimes? Perish the thought!

G.P.S. CRICKET JOTTINGS.

(Article No. 1.)

By Jawbone.

To-day, Coach Walmsley gave his team a full course—ten minutes each. His team have responded well to this call for endurance, for several of the batsmen were seen to connect with the ball, and Pokes even pushed one clean out of the net; but the fieldsmen saw it in time, and carried it back to the bowler intact. At the conclusion of the practice, the ball was taken back to the pavilion little the worse for the experience. As a result, it is practically certain that 'Shore will win the Cricket Premiership.

Uneasiness was the prevailing note in Grammar cricket circles towards the close of to-day's practice. From the position on the bank, it was clear that drops of perspiration had broken out upon the fast bowler's forehead; but Mentor Soden was equal to the occasion. Before any real panic could ensue, he tactfully suggested that the whole thing might quite possibly be due to the heat and violent exercise, and was not necessarily fatal. Constant treatment with Vitamin B. would restore him! This shrewd move renders the playing of the actual matches a mere matter of form, as Grammar are practically certain to win the Cricket Premiership.

Reports from Stanmore are most satisfactory, following on their recent drastic change of method. Instead of practising before tea, as has hitherto been the rule, the entire Eleven now turns out after afternoon school. In addition to this, their captain was seen to bend down openly to do up his bootlace, thus tightening up the only slackness in the team, and rendering the winning of the Cricket Premiership practically certain.

Attention to detail marked, as usual, the effort of King's at this afternoon's work. The whole team indulged in smart walking exercise—as far as the practice wicket; after this, their 'keeper rubbed eucalyptus on his gloves. Coach Meyer informed me in a confidential chat (exclusive to the "Torch-Bearer") that the eucalyptus would get on the ball, and thus prevent influenza from ravaging the team. If this worked out properly, it was practically certain that King's would win the Cricket Premiership.

At the conclusion of practice at Bellevue Hill, Funnell, the giant speed-merchant, was seen to carry his bat—into the pavilion. This augurs well for a colossal score in the near future, and makes it practically certain that Scots will win the Cricket Premiership.

See next term's issue of "The Torch-Bearer" for Article 2 of this series. "Jawbone" will give reasons why it is practically certain that—

ST. JOSEPH'S
HIGH
IGNATIUS'
ARMIDALE

will win the Cricket Premiership.

(Sorry, Mr. Editor, I forgot I was not writing up the Regatta!)

SWIMMING SPORTS.

The thirty-third Annual Swimming Carnival was held on April 6th at The Spit Baths. We were fortunate in having suitable weather, and everything went off splendidly despite the misplaced corks.

The Open Championship was won by R. A. Swift, with a total of 15 points. Swift won the 100 yards, 220 yards, and 440 yards Championships. The under 16 Cup went to Bradhurst, who won the 50 and 100 yards under 16 events.

The All Schools' Relay was a great race, with Grammar finishing first, and Scots beating 'Shore by a touch for second place.

Results of the events are as follow:—

- 25 Yards Novice Preparatory Championship.—1st, B. Connolly; 2nd, W. Merrett.
- 25 Yards Handicap (under 11).—1st, J. Oliver; 2nd, D. Robertson.
- 50 Yards Preparatory Championship.—1st, M. Forsyth; 2nd, J. Gilfillan.
- 50 Yards Handicap (Open).—1st, J. McIlroy; 2nd, W. Mercer.
- 100 Yards Championship (under 16).—1st, H. Bradhurst; 2nd, P. McMichael.
- 50 Yards Championship (under 14).—1st, H. Muston; 2nd, R. Symes.
- 50 Yards Championship (Open).—1st, G. Wansey; 2nd, B. Capper.
- 50 Yards Championship (under 13).—1st, J. McCarthy; 2nd, K. Cameron.
- 50 Yards Championship (under 16).—1st, H. Bradhurst; 2nd, J. McIlroy.
- 50 Yards Handicap (under 13).—1st, J. Saunders; 2nd, J. Marshall.
- 100 Yards Championship (Open).—1st, R. Swift; 2nd, G. Wansey.
- Diving (Open).—1st, B. Swire; 2nd, H. Bradhurst.
- Diving (under 16).—1st, H. Beale; 2nd, H. Clayton.
- House Team Relay (under 14).—1st, School; 2nd, Robson; 3rd, Barry.
- 33 Yards Handicap (under 12).—1st, J. Oliver; 2nd, P. C. Wright.
- 220 Yards Championship (under 16).—1st, L. Tilbury; 2nd, J. Williams.
- 100 Yards Old Boys' Handicap.—1st, C. Macnaughtan; 2nd, H. T. Tonkin.
- 220 Yards Championship (Open).—1st, R. Swift; 2nd, P. McMichael.
- 50 Yards Handicap (under 16).—1st, A. Lane; 2nd, G. Whitney.
- 100 Yards Handicap (Open).—1st, B. Capper; 2nd, P. Wallman.
- House Teams' Relay (under 16).—1st, Hodges; 2nd, Robson; 3rd, School.
- Novelty Event.—1st, G. Whitney.
- 50 Yards Handicap (under 14).—1st, P. Playfair; 2nd, R. Kerr.
- Preparatory School Relay.—1st, Linton; 2nd, Baker; 3rd, Davies.
- House Team Relay (Open).—1st, School; 2nd, Hodges; 3rd, Barry.
- 50 Yards Breaststroke Championship (Open).—1st, T. Tonkin; 2nd, R. Cummins.
- 50 Yards Breaststroke Championship (Open).—1st, J. Unsworth; 2nd, P. McMichael.
- 440 Yards Championship (Open).—1st, R. Swift; 2nd, J. E. Williams.

ROWING NOTES.

The 1934 rowing season has passed. We have not regained the Championship, but have had a very happy and successful season. From the time of the Christmas Camp onward things have gone with a swing. There has been no serious illness to interfere with training, and—with the very notable exception of the accident to the racing eight—no serious mishap. During the early stages of training all crews did a great deal of long work, and there is no doubt that their good condition and combination showed the effect of it.

It was found possible to select the eight fairly early, as several of last year's crew were available. Hence they had a good chance to settle down into a sound crew. The men had individual peculiarities—as every thoughtful oarsman has—but they were suited to one another quite well and worked in excellent harmony—in temperament as well as in the physical sense. In the early stages of training they paddled really well on occasions, and in their later rowing they kept most of their paddling qualities. There were times when they slipped back and caused misgiving: however, on no occasion did they give a bad display, and on many occasions they were really a good crew. It seems fairly reasonable to claim that they were quite the fastest crew we have had. The claim cannot, of course, be substantiated, as there is no reliable means of comparison. However, a fortnight before the race they rowed the course in 7.46, and a week later, in the practice boat, did 7.42. We have ample records of training rows by previous crews, but none of them have such times to their credit. If their work was sometimes rougher and less steady than that of other crews, they had, on the other hand, a much better timed beginning, a more powerful hold of the water, and a more reliable and firm finish. In practice rows against College crews, they proved to be in a definitely higher class, and, in fact, they answered every test quite as well as any crew we have had. Burrell is one of the best captains, and a really sound leader as a stroke. Thomas filled the difficult seven seat in a way beyond all reasonable expectation, and at times his rowing was quite first-class. Middleton and Marshall, both new to rowing, developed very rapidly and should go far. The others were all sound as well as vigorous.

The fours were not easy to select: the difficulty was rather in arranging suitable combinations than in obtaining suitable men. The first four did not combine well until the latter end of the training period, but when they did hit their combination they developed rapidly. They were light and very willing, but not physically able to develop a full length in the time available. They failed only by a narrow margin to qualify for the final : they were at the time improving so rapidly that, had they qualified, they would have given a good account of themselves. The second four was a rugged crew, but had the essentials of sound length, leg work, and rhythm. They combined well in spite of individual peculiarities, and developed into one of the fastest fours we have had. Their times in practice rows were splendid, and their racing performances were such as to confirm the high expectation which we had.

An unfortunate accident happened to the racing eight on April 12. The crew was returning home in a rainstorm after nightfall with the lights of the launch on it, when one of the Mediterranean prawning fleet which infests the river chugged across its bows. Apparently lights are not carried on fishing craft in the Aegean, and the occupants were following the custom of their ancestors. The bow of the boat was splintered in a manner distressing to behold, two's rigger was bent double, his oar carried away, and the crew barely managed to reach the pontoon. Only the forward bulkhead kept the water out. Mr. George Towns and his staff carried out a really remarkable repair in very quick time; we are more than grateful to them for their expedition, for their marvelously good workmanship, and for the interest which they gave to the job. Almost a complete new bow was built on to the boat, covering ten feet of the forward end. Incidentally the crew's reaction to the mishap was wholly admirable.

As soon as the accident occurred to the Eight, several friends of the School offered to contribute towards the replacement of the boat if it should be necessary. Mr. H. V. Jaques in particular sent a cheque for £5/5/- towards the Club funds. We gratefully acknowledge their kindness.

We shall be in need of several boats next year, and shall be most glad of contributions towards them.

The heats were rowed in splendid weather. The eight had a very easy win : they are open to criticism for having taken more interest in the keen struggle for second place than in making the most of the race as a training row. S.G.S. won the other heat equally easily. The first four was just beaten out of second place, but rowed very creditably and with keen determination. The second four won easily.

The finals were rowed on April 21st. The second four won easily, and showed that it was by far the best crew under any conditions. For the eight the day was a most unsatisfactory one. The weather was appalling. A hard westerly blew in the morning, and became half a gale in the afternoon. It was such a day that we should have abandoned all thought of a practice row in the afternoon. The crew boated from the launch in the shelter of Uhr's Point, and drifted to the start. After great difficulty, a good start was made. We led round Putney, but were then headed by S.G.S. for a time. The other crews were by then well in the rear. We got into our stride past the gasworks, and had a useful lead when approaching Tennyson. Here we struck the full force of the wind and sea on the northern station. A wave washed the bowside, and seven crabbed—a quite unavoidable mishap. His poppet-string broke, and we lost two lengths. In the next quarter-mile we had regained a length and a half, when another billow engulfed the stroke side. At this point we were getting the waves with the backwash from the steamers. Two's oar was carried away out of his hands. However, the crew plugged on with determination and finished with six good oars and a broken thowl. Let us not be misunderstood. This is merely the story of our mishaps. Grammar had theirs also, but they made a better showing in the almost impossible conditions, and more power to them. They are our old rowing rivals and friends; and, if we had to lose, we at least know that the Championship is in a sound place.

A few important things must yet be added. This year's Regatta leaves a feeling of disquiet on two grounds. There was a serious accident on one of the launches, and several others were avoided by pure good luck. Really, something must be done to remove the anxiety which responsible people feel on Regatta Day. Some of the ferries were entirely beyond control: they might seriously have impeded the racing crews, and they might have created chaos among the smaller craft. After the eights' final there was the usual scramble for home. One shudders to think of what may happen if conditions are not changed: there is danger not merely to spectators, but also to the exhausted crews. No doubt the warning—a very grave one—will be heeded.

The publicity given to the Regatta and to school rowing generally is rapidly exceeding the bounds of dignity and decency. For days and weeks before the race certain sections of the Press publish what can only be described as silly nonsense; if the public really likes this sort of thing, one blushes for it. The Headmasters recently took steps to prevent the taking of photographs except of complete crews seated in the boats, but the steps taken were not in every case adequate against the enterprise of certain photographers. The crowning offence was the publication, against the expressed wish of the Headmasters, of caricatures of the individual members of the crews. It is difficult to see what can be done to prevent this type of publicity. The race is a very sound event : those who have gone through the training with a school crew know well, and others can readily estimate, the real purpose which lies behind. The training is well worth while, and its results are beyond question. The grave danger is that the spirit may be seriously damaged by sensation-mongers, and that the public may be given an entirely false idea of the view which the schools take of games. It is permissible to say that this question is being carefully considered.

Finally we have to give hearty thanks to all those who helped us by gifts, and by their very welcome companionship and interest. It would be invidious to thank individuals : there were among them parents of present boys, parents of past rowers, members of former crews and others. There is growing round the shed a wholly delightful atmosphere which we seek to preserve : we should like all our recent visitors to know that they will be very welcome indeed in future years, even when their interest in our doings is less personal.

CHRISTMAS CAMP, 1934.

By J. E. B.

Twenty-seven boys, who had been holidaying in all corners of the State, gathered together to commence training on January 27th. This was a larger number than had previously been included, but the extra material available rendered this course desirable; though somewhat cramped, as regards eating and sleeping space.

Mr. Mander-Jones returned from England during the first week of Camp, and commenced coaching at the beginning of the second week. Mr. Burrell managed all fours until his arrival. When rowing singlets were donned for the first row, it was interesting to see where the holidays had been spent—sunburnt arms and neck denoting the country, and the even coat of tan a sign that the surf had not called in vain.

The eight quickly settled down into training, and long rows, in which Parramatta was a goal on frequent occasions, were the main feature. Working on the theory that "miles make champions," provided that the principles of rowing are being imbibed continuously, these long paddles, sometimes in the company of rival school crews, did much to weld the old and new members of the crew into an even combination.

Our annual swimming carnival was held at the Glee Club against a strong team from Sydney Grammar School, from just across the road. After an exciting race, in which first one and then the other school took the lead, our rivals ran out winners by about two yards.

The "initiation ceremony" was a great success. The old hands conducted the programme with great gusto, and handled the newcomers with "care" and consideration, and left nothing to chance in the sphere of local colour. After signing the "visitors' book" and being decorated by artists skilled in the application of cosmetics, they were conducted to the dais, where they rendered their numbers to the accompaniment of a striking orchestral effect.

The gramophone once more performed after a borrowed motor, speaker and turntable had been installed. The Camp always seems to be able to provide the box, if nothing else. A collection of records was amassed, but suffered many blows of "outrageous fortune" later in the season.

Mrs. Callaghan once more had charge of the kitchen department, ably "assisted" by the various duty fours. The tradition of rice pudding was well maintained, and full justice was done to the food generally. Thomas assisted by acting as Commissioner of Stores, and saw to it that we were not starved.

In conclusion, Camp ended after a fortnight of almost perfect weather, and with the three crews very nearly settled, with coaches and crews looking forward to a successful season.

TENNIS.

After a most successful season, the School tournament of 1933 was brought to a close in December. Wood won the Singles Championship, and, with Hudson, annexed the Doubles Championship.

The following are the results of the finals of the 1933 tournament:—

Singles Championship.—Wood beat Merewether, 6-0, 6-4.

Doubles Championship.—Wood and Hudson beat Marks and Anderson. 6-1, 6-2.

Junior Singles Championship.—Stokes beat Merewether, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Junior Doubles Championship.—Merewether and Hudson beat Ross and Hilbert, 6-3, 6-4.

Singles Handicap.—Potter beat McKell.

Junior Singles Handicap.—Ross beat Hilbert.

As in previous years, we began 1934 with the School tournament, which attracted a record number of entries. Amongst the names missing were Anderson, Marks and Duddy, who left last year, after giving yeoman service to the School Club. We wish them a happy future in the game. A few matches in the tournament have been played, but activities were suspended to enable us to practice for the G.P.S. tournament. The senior team, which consisted of Wood (captain), McKellar, Merewether, Bourke, Stokes and Richards, was selected early to insure good team work in the doubles and to obtain confidence in the singles. After careful preparation, in which Mr. J. O. Anderson assisted, the team reached good form before the tournament. We wish to thank Messrs. Best and Gee, manufacturers of Superstroke racquets, for placing the services of Mr. Anderson at our disposal.

On Monday, April 23, we eliminated T.K.S. after a hard struggle, in which the play of McKellar in both singles and doubles contributed greatly to our success. Wood failed to impress in the singles, but played very well in the doubles. Merewether shone in doubles, but failed to reach his best form in singles. Bourke, Stokes and Richards played well in both branches. Scores:—

THE KING'S SCHOOL v. S.C.E.G.S.

Singles.—Bartlett (T.K.S.) v. McKellar (S.C.E.G.S.), 5-7, 2-6; Brown v. Wood, 6-3, 6-4; Body v. Merewether, 9-7, 6-3; Barker v. Stokes, 5-7, 4-6; Murray-Prior v. Bourke, 1-6, 1-6; Wentworth v. Richards, 2-6, 4-6.

Doubles.—Brown and Body (T.K.S.) v. Wood and Stokes (S.C.E.G.S.), 6-4, 6-4; v. McKellar and Merewether, 7-5, 2-6; Bartlett and Wentworth v. Wood and Stokes, 4-6, 3-6; v. McKellar and Merewether, 3-6, 6-2; Murray-Prior and Barker v. Bourke and Richards, 2-6, 1-6, 6-3, 6-8.

S.C.E.G.S. won by 15 sets 103 games to 9 sets 103 games.

In the other half of the draw, Newington College was successful in beating Sydney Grammar School by a substantial margin in the final match. The School played Newington on Tuesday, April 24, and won by 14 sets to 6. Wood showed much improved form in the singles. McKellar again showed a sound knowledge of singles and doubles tactics. Merewether, Bourke, Stokes and Richards maintained their good form throughout the match, in which the standard of play was uniformly high. Scores:—

S.C.E.G.S. v. NEWINGTON COLLEGE.

Singles.—L. McKellar (S.C.E.G.S.) v. B. Elton (N.C.), 6-3, 4-6; J. Merewether v. F. Tubou, 1-6, 9-11; R. Bourke v. P. Adams, 6-3, 3-6; D. Wood v. G. Le Couteur, 6-2, 6-1; N. Stokes v. W. Ward, 6-2, 6-1; J. Richards v. R. Anderson, 6-3, 6-4.

Doubles.—J. Merewether and L. McKellar (S.C.E.G.S.) v. F. Tubou and E. Elton (N.C.), 6-3, 8-10; v. P. Adams and G. Le Couteur, 6-2, 3-2 (unfinished); D. Wood and N. Stokes v. P. Adams and G. Le Couteur, 6-1, 3-6; v. F. Tubou and B. Elton, 6-6 (unfinished); R. Bourke and J. Richards v. W. Ward and R. Anderson, 6-3, 6-4.

S.C.E.G.S. won by 14 sets 121 games to 6 sets 83 games.

Fortune again favoured us in the junior division, in which the School placed two teams, Junior "A" and Junior "B." Junior "A" team consisted of Swirles (captain), Fisher, Walkom, Neil iii., McKell and Henning; whilst Robinson (captain), Tilbury, Kerr, Little, Trebeck and Johnston represented us in the Junior "B." Unfortunately the "B" team were eliminated early, but the "A" team, after defeating S.H.S. "B" team and Newington College, in turn reached the final round. Sydney High School "A" team in the meantime had qualified for the final by defeating 'Shore "B" and T.K.S.

In the final match we were successful after a great struggle. Throughout the series our team played very well in both singles and doubles. Henning showed out in the deciding set of doubles.

The following are the scores:—

JUNIOR SEMI-FINALS.—S.C.E.G.S. "A" TEAM v. N.C.

Singles.—McKell (S.C.E.G.S.) v. Le Couteur (N.C.), 6-4; Swirles v. Heath, 6-8; Walkom v. Creak, 6-3; Fisher v. Boyer, 7-5; Henning v. Dennett, 6-3; Neil v. Broadhurst, 6-1.

"Supplement to "The Torch-Bearer."—May 1, 1934.

S.C.E.G.S. 2nd FOUR, 1934 (WINNERS).

Back row : G. G. Hyles (2), S. St. V. Welch (bow).
Front row : R. A. Pedlingham (stroke), E. Mander-Jones, Esc. (Coach), J. G. Marsh (3).
In front : C. S. Spain (cox).

Doubles.—Swirles and Henning (S.C.E.G.S.) v. Le Couteur and Heath (N.C.), 1-6; Walkom and Neil v. Creak and Boyer, 6-4; Fisher and McKell v. Dennett and Broadhurst, 8-6.

S.C.E.G.S. won by 8 sets 52 games to 2 sets 40 games.

FINAL.—S.C.E.G.S. "A" TEAM v. S.H.S. "A" TEAM.

Singles.—McKell (S.C.E.G.S.) v. McKay (S.H.S.), 3-6; Swirles v. Costello, 1-6; Walkom v. Sherring, 6-3; Fisher v. Mackie, 6-4; Henning v. Farran, 6-4; Neil v. Spires, 6-4.

Doubles.—Swirles and Henning (S.C.E.G.S.) v. McKay and Costello (S.H.S.), 3-6; Walkom and Neil v. Sherring and Mackie, 7-9; Fisher and McKell v. Farran and Spires, 6-0, 6-2; Swirles and Henning v. Sherring and Mackie, 6-4; Walkom and Neil v. McKay and Costello, 2-5.

S.C.E.G.S. won by 7 sets 58 games to 5 sets 54 games.

At the conclusion of the G.P.S. tournament, McKellar, Wood, Bourke and Merewether were selected as members of the team to represent the Great Public Schools against the interstate players.

On Anzac Day, the Masters played the School team. The match aroused considerable enthusiasm amongst the spectators. Messrs. Eldershaw and Fisher paved the way to victory by winning their first set at 7-5. At first the issue was in doubt, but later the Masters scented victory, which was denied them by the intervention of rain. The Masters' team consisted of Messrs. Eldershaw, Fisher, Pascoe, Grigg, Begbie and Nield; whilst Wood, McKellar, Henning, Stokes, Bourke and Richards represented the School.

FOOTBALL.

Six members of last year's successful team are back, three in the forwards and three three-quarters. Travers, Swift and Hyles are the forwards, and Wansey, Tonkin and Hudson will form the remainder of a solid nucleus for the XV. W. H. Travers was elected to the captaincy, Wansey to the vice-captaincy, and Swift third member of the Committee. Travers was vice-captain last year to Vincent (who is now playing for Drummoyne first grade), whilst Wansey and Swift have had three years in the team, both being All Schools' representatives also. The other nine members of the XV. will come from some particularly good second fifteneers. Cottee, Land, Hutchinson, Dey, Irving, Scholer, Lang, Seago and Creagh are in the running, and one or two new boys look likely customers. In fact, on paper the team should be as solid in defence as last year, and brighter in attack. These portents make us quite hopeful.

The other teams, even to the fifteenths, promise to be up to standard, though forwards seem to predominate. The Junior "A" (under 15) teams, however, seem to be well served, their backs being particularly promising. If all the teams can maintain last year's tackling standard, it will be a good start.

Results of matches played this term:—

- 1st XV. : v. N.S.H.S., 44-0; v. Armidale, 34-9.
 2nd XV. : v. N.S.H.S., 22-0; v. Trinity Grammar 1st XV., 33-5.

CRICKET.

A new system of conducting the Competition has come into force this year. The schools meet each other once only in matches extending over two consecutive Saturdays. The points, too, vary from past years, especially in the case of an outright win, when the victorious side gets four more than for a win on the first innings only, and the loser none at all—a margin between them of ten points. It remains to be seen how the scheme will work out.

We began with but two members left from last year's team: the remaining places, however, were filled most satisfactorily from last term's 2nd XI. and two boys new to the School. As the weeks went by there was decided improvement all round: as experience was gained, so also came confidence, and with it the will to win. Beginning with two outright losses, we finished with two outright wins, thus coming fourth so far, our best position since 1931. The match with T.K.S. will be remembered for some time by those who saw its conclusion, when we scored 178 in 85 minutes, with six minutes left for play; so a loss on the first innings was converted into an outright win. Again, in the last match with S.G.S., 62 runs were needed to win; though the wicket was soft and the field slow, these runs were made in a bare 40 minutes. The lesson to be learnt from these results is obvious, viz., a bat should be used to hit a ball, and not, as we have so often seen, merely allowed to be hit by the ball. Often the best form of defence is offence: it is most likely to put the bowler off his length, demoralise the fieldsmen, and make the rest easy.

There is batting strength in the team to the eleventh man: this was shown in the last two matches, where the later batsmen swelled the score invaluable. Indeed, performances so far have not altogether truly indicated what various men are capable of. Irving began very well, and then had a lean spell. Collins and Davison have played several good innings; they promise to develop into excellent bats in the near future. Travers, by dogged perseverance, has made himself into quite a useful opening bat. Stokes is the type of batsman who can very quickly alter the trend of a game: he must overcome a few obvious faults, and somewhat curb his impetuosity. Bourke has not made the scores of which he is capable, mainly because of some indiscretion. Sutherland had little form at first, but in his last two innings showed vast improvement. Of the others, Busby especially has come on, and should become a really good bat before the end of the year. The bowling has mostly been done by Oldham, Busby and Angus, who have proved a more hostile trio than we have had for some time. Oldham, when he fights the ball and does not overdo his faster one, is always dangerous. Angus has a most useful over-spin which has brought him success; as a further means of deceiving the batsman, he might cultivate fighting. Busby has gone on bowling better all the term, and with great heart; he possesses a delightfully easy action with a natural turn of speed, and wisely does not attempt to bowl at a pace beyond him at present. Sutherland varied his pace—perhaps in one direction or the other a little too much at times—and his fast ball far too often lacked direction. With him it is largely a matter of hard work and a thinking cap; then he should do well.

It has become almost a tradition in the School to practice fielding, and, as usual, there has been no lack of keenness. The improvement was wonderful. Two or three are still slow to get on their toes or to recover a ball, and far more accuracy in returning is needed. Mention should be made of the excellent work done by Tonkin in the outfield; he moves very fast, covers much ground, and whips in accurate returns. Irving, Collins and Angus could always be relied on for keen, sometimes brilliant, fielding. At first Bourke was quite below his previous term's form; gradually he got most of it back. A keeper has a hard job calling for intense concentration: with more of the latter, Bourke will be first-class. Irving, gradually gaining experience and possessing naturally a quick perception, is proving a good captain of a side which has a team spirit comparable to the best of former years.

v. S.H.S.—Played at Northbridge, February 17 and 24, resulting in a loss by 9 wickets and 2 runs. Irving won the toss, and we went in to bat on a perfect wicket. Runs came fast, mainly owing to Stokes, who was aggressive. Travers played steadily for 35 minutes, when Macpherson got a straight one past him. Sutherland did not get going, but Stokes hit hard and contributed 60 out of the first 81 in 75 minutes, a splendid effort in his first Competition match. Irving and Bourke livened things up, both batting well and running smartly, indeed several times far too risky. They added 54 in 38 minutes. At lunch the score was 148 for 5 wickets, but on resuming we failed badly, and were all out in 40 minutes for an addition of only 25 runs. Bourke was unfortunately run out when going well. Grover bowled well, but the later batsmen flattered the bowling unduly.

S.H.S. began their innings with exactly three hours left for play. The first hour produced 39 runs. Irving rang the changes, and each bowler was fairly well on the spot. Oldham frequently beat the batsmen, only to see the ball just miss the stumps. Khan began to force the pace, and soon put one into Merewether's hands at cover. The score at the fall of the first wicket was 52: from this point wickets fell steadily, till 7 were down for 105. Angus bowled particularly well, and the fielding was good. At this stage Tinkler joined Grover, and a splendid stand was made. Grover hit hard, and, in spite of numerous bowling changes, the score was carried to 157 without further loss. Travers made a great effort at a hard catch, about the only possible chance that was given. The team fielded very keenly, a few mistakes being due to inexperience. Bourke had a day off behind the wickets, and sundries contributed a disastrous amount. At the close of play S.H.S. were 17 runs behind our total.

The wicket was slow and easy when the game continued. Our bowling was poor, and the fielding, particularly the returning, was quite below 1st XI. standard. The batsmen had little difficulty in passing our total, Tinkler being the first to go with the total at 187. The partnership had added 82, and, as it later on proved, was the main factor in S.H.S. winning. Christie helped Grover, who hit freely, taking advantage of the placing of the field, to give S.H.S. a lead of 59. Grover's innings was invaluable to his side.

We began our second innings at noon, and at lunch had lost three men for 24. Macpherson was bowling well, and continued to do so during most of our innings. The fielding was quite good and in marked contrast to ours, so that runs did not come easily. Several good catches were made. Irving played an excellent innings, quite the best of the match; while showing a sound defence, he was definitely after runs, and used his feet splendidly. Unfortunately only Angus managed to assist him to any extent. S.H.S. were set the very easy task of making 35 to win outright: this they did with the loss of one wicket, Maxwell being bowled by Busby.

v. S.J.C.—Played at Hunter's Hill, March 3 and 10, resulting in a loss by 10 wickets. Irving won the toss, and Travers and Stokes opened for us on a good wicket to the bowling of Carrick and Broderick. In the second over, Stokes hit across a straight one. Collins began well, and then did the same as Stokes. Irving then joined Travers, and play became very slow. After an hour the total was 31, when Travers was well caught and bowled: Sutherland had a life, and when he seemed to be settling down edged a ball on to his wicket. Bourke was in good form, but was eager to run for anything, soon paying the penalty due to lack of judgment. It was a bad start, and it was no better when Tonkin was out first ball owing to a weak stroke. At lunch the total was 90, after 140 minutes' batting. Davison was the only other batsman to get into double figures. Irving was unconquered, after batting 165 minutes for 42. This extremely slow display, so unlike him, was due to the effects of a cold. Broderick and Hudson on the whole maintained a good length. The outfield was very rough, with the grass long, which helped to slow up the rate of scoring; still this was not the only reason, for the batsmen were content to pat half volleys and many balls which should have been hit hard.

The earlier part of our opponents' innings was as dismal as ours. Oldham and Busby bowled to V. Carrick and Carberry accurately; neither batsmen appeared to want to score. Sutherland relieved Busby, and a little later Angus took the ball from Oldham. The fielding was keen, and showed a vast improvement. After play had been in progress almost an hour, Angus held a return from Carberry, the total being 32. The next batsman, De Navi, brightened up the game. Irving changed the bowling frequently, Bourke eventually taking Carrick nicely off Busby. Concannon came next, and the rate of scoring improved: both batsmen would have scored much faster but for the fielding. The bowling lacked hostility, and just before play closed for the day our total was left behind.

The second day's play began with Busby bowling Concannon in the first over with a beautiful ball. Runs came at even time, but in spite of various changes and several good overs no wicket for over an hour. Broderick was then run out as the result of brilliant fielding by Irving and an accurate return to Bourke. The batsmen then tried to force the pace, and De Navi soon mishit to Oldham at cover. S.J.C. declared their innings closed at 12.15 p.m., being 109 in the lead. Our fielding was very good. Travers and Stokes put on 20 by lunch, the former shaping splendidly. After the interval, however, the batting failed again. Travers was out immediately, and Stokes promptly followed, both making poor shots. Collins and Irving looked like staying, but Collins failed to get on to a ball properly and was caught. Bourke was over-cautious, and Tonkin batted nicely for a short time. Irving was cramped owing to the position, and did not get going. Davison did well again, and, with Oldham, made a gallant attempt, but in vain.

S.J.C. made the 8 runs required to win outright without loss.

v. T.K.S.—Played at Northbridge, March 17 and 24, resulting in a win by 3 wickets and 2 runs. T.K.S. were lucky enough to get first use of a wonderfully good wicket. In spite of this, at lunch their total was 110 for 6 wickets, due mainly to our bowlers being in good form. Busby bowled Buzacott with a splendid ball after 20 minutes. Irving managed the bowling well, and made prompt changes. Angus showed improved fighting, and was rewarded with four victims, the catching being good. However, Ross and Webster after lunch batted well, hitting loose balls well: except for Busby, for a time the bowlers could make no impression, while several fieldsmen were not as smart as before lunch, and some chances were not taken. The stand for the seventh wicket provided 109. Davison came on as seventh bowler, and immediately had Ross caught. Webster, who had helped Ross to swell the total, was out immediately afterwards. Wall was well run out by Stokes, and Busby took the last wicket with a good ball. He bowled consistently well in each turn he had the crease, and deserved better results. Angus sent up too many easy ones to hit; still he for the most part did good work. The fielding was too patchy: Collins and Irving were always good, but Bourke still lagged behind his form of last year.

Our batting order was considerably changed. Collins opened with Travers just after 4 o'clock. They both were batting well, till Travers played all across a straight one. Davison joined Collins, and probably the best cricket this term was seen. In half an hour 50 were put on, the bowling being made to look easy. Collins was out first, l.b.w. to Ross, after a good display of batting and running between the wickets. Irving treated the attack far too respectfully. Davison played well, showing still further improvement. Bourke mistimed, and did not last long. With five down for 102, the outlook had quite changed. Stokes and Tonkin, as the light was failing, played defensively. Just on time we had the bad luck to lose Stokes, after a very good knock. The day had been quite a cricket day, the fortunes of both sides see-sawing remarkably.

The second Saturday's play began with 113 runs required to equal T.K.S. first innings total: these runs we failed to get by 26. Tonkin only added 6 to his score, but the tail wagged very stubbornly. Sutherland batted very soundly for 42 not oute, but slowly. Busby played more freely than the others, and the last wicket added 37.

T.K.S. second innings began just before lunch, Busby and Oldham bowling very well and a wicket nearly falling. Soon after resuming, Stokes took a first-class catch in the slips off Oldham's bowling. Within ten minutes Oldham had two more wickets to his credit. Angus rested Busby, and Sutherland took Oldham's end. Irving made his changes judiciously. Ross and Hoets seemed to be settling down when Oldham got an excellent swinger past Hoets; and then Ross played Angus on to his wicket. Webster, profiting by a let-off, was the only other batsman to score. Oldham bowled splendidly in quite the best form he had so far shown, and Busby, too, sent up many excellent balls. The fieldsmen, though not always sure, were on their toes, and did much good work. Bourke gave glimpses of his best form, his stumping of Whiting being brilliant. The innings was closed at 4 o'clock; we were thus given a sporting chance.

Collins and Travers immediately attacked the bowling. After ten minutes, Collins was bowled by a good ball from Crouch. Davison joined Travers, and the rate of run-getting increased. Both went after the runs, and as it appeared possible that the required amount could be reached, they took justifiable risks. The partnership added 93 in 40 minutes, when Davison was run out. Half his runs came from boundaries, and altogether it was a splendid exhibition of forceful, safe batting. We still required 65 runs with 40 minutes left for play. Stokes followed, and took every risk. In thirteen minutes 33 runs were added, Stokes' share including three fours. Another 13 runs were added in seven minutes, and then Travers was out. His was indeed a superlative effort. He had been batting 71 minutes, and when he left we were in a winning position, for we had twenty minutes left to get 19 to win outright. These were obtained within six minutes of time. The excitement was very high, and because the batsmen probably did not realise there was reasonable time remaining, wickets were thrown away. The rate of scoring was very fast, the total of 178 being made in 85 minutes. T.K.S. played the game in a fine sporting spirit. Under the attack their bowling lost its length, and the fieldsmen became flurried.

v. S.G.S.—Played at Weigall Ground, April 7 and 14, resulting in a win by 8 wickets and 8 runs. Irving won the toss, and sent in our opponents to bat on a soft and very slow wicket, for there had been rain for some days. Neither Busby nor Oldham could get the length to suit the wicket for some time. Sutherland relieved Busby, and the first wicket fell after 25 minutes' play, Bourke holding a catch on the leg side. Oldham then took three wickets in close succession, Stokes moving quickly to hold catches close in at short leg. Hemsworth and Dettman withstood the attack, and Irving had to change his bowlers. Oldham, after a rest, enticed the batsmen to hit, and Tonkin proved himself a safe out-field. At lunch the score was 62 for 9 wickets, and the last man was run out the first ball afterwards. Oldham bowled quite well. The wicket hardly suited Busby. The fielding was very good.

Our innings began badly, two wickets falling for 8 runs. The pitch was not responsible, but the batsmen were out of touch, while Smith bowled well, his in-swingers worrying our men, who failed to use their feet to get into position. Davison played quite the best of the early batsmen, and made some good hard shots in an innings which was invaluable in our somewhat precarious position. Except Smith, the bowlers were sending up many balls which should have been hit hard, so it was unfortunate that Stokes was run out: he had just hit one over the boundary, and it was just this kind of free batting that was needed. Sutherland batted steadily, while Busby and Angus made a most useful stand for the ninth wicket: they hit hard and well. The innings lasted two hours, and gave us a handy lead of 55.

S.G.S. batsmen were content to play quietly, and play was most dull for the first 45 minutes of their second innings. The bowling was steady, and changes were made frequently. At last Cozens, in attempting to hit, skied a ball from Angus, and Irving held it. Irving went on at the southern end, and bowled Bertinshaw with his first ball. Oldham again bowled at the other end, and beat Smith, who had played very patiently. An appeal against the light was disallowed, and Irving got his second wicket. Another appeal was immediately made, and this time with success. Play stopped before 5.30 p.m., S.G.S. being still 15 runs behind with six wickets in hand.

When the game began again the second day the wicket was very soft, and was against the bowlers, who were not adapting themselves to the conditions. The first man to go was well caught by Angus, at deep square leg, and soon after, in attempting a short run, Hemsworth was run out. Keene, who was doing his side splendid service, with Dettman, added 39 for the seventh wicket; he touched a ball off his wicket the last over before the lunch adjournment, and Davison held the catch at first slip. On resuming, Busby and Oldham bowled, the batsmen hitting any loose balls hard, but not getting many past the fieldsmen. After 30 minutes Busby got both men with good balls, and then Angus smartly threw out the last wicket. The fielding throughout was, on the whole, quite good; and Bourke behind the stumps did much good work, but was a trifle uncertain. Oldham bowled 25 overs consistently, but not with much luck; and Busby did very well, considering the wicket did not suit him.

We required 62 runs to gain an outright win. Collins and Travers opened, and were aggressive, the former particularly so: he hooked everything, at all short hard, and by perfect timing reached the boundary five times with this shot. After a time Travers followed suit, and the score was 50 after 33 minutes, when Smith, with a great diving effort, caught him. Davison played a ball softly into Keene's hands at silly leg. Stokes followed, and the necessary runs were obtained without further loss in the very quick time of 40 minutes, Collins having played an excellent knock.

2nd XI.

The 2nd XI. played three Competition matches during the term. Against Grammar they won outright, against St. Joseph's they won on the first innings, and against The King's School they lost outright. Several other games were played, and in these the team performed well. All the players have shown great keenness, and the standard of play has improved considerably during the term.

In fielding, Creagh (slips), D. Robinson (anywhere), Minnett (outfield), and Merewether (cover) have been outstanding, while the others have supported them well. All have been triers. Wansey's wicketkeeping has improved considerably.

Creagh has been the best and most successful bowler. Morgan and J. Robinson have got wickets, but they will get many more if they learn to think more while bowling. Cooper has bowled well, but without very much luck. There are several other useful change bowlers in the team, whose opportunities this term have been limited.

The batting has been strong, but failed against King's on account of timidity. Lewis and Travers are the best batsmen on good wickets, but when difficult wickets are encountered Wansey is the most effective and determined man on the side. Creagh has been very useful when runs were specially needed, and Morgan, Minnett and J. Robinson have made good scores on several occasions. D. Robinson and Fisher show a great deal of promise, and both have proved themselves essential members of the side.

Travers has captained the side well, and his judgment has improved throughout the term.

Following are the results of Competition matches:—

- v. S.J.C.—S.C.E.G.S., 257 and 6 for 183, beat S.J.C., 145 and 6 (closed) for 301, by 112 runs on the first innings.
- v. T.K.S.—T.K.S., 142 and 120, beat S.C.E.G.S., 98 and 130, by 34 runs (outright).
- v. S.G.S.—S.C.E.G.S., 153 and 0-14, beat S.G.S., 74 and 91, by 10 wickets (outright).

3rd XI.

This team has been nothing like as successful as they were last year, and the reason is not far to seek: No team can afford to put catch after catch on the grass, however good the other departments of its game are. It is no encouragement to bowlers to find their efforts nullified by a weakness which can be remedied with a little hard work. The material is in the team, and third term should see a great improvement in the results.

Appended is a short report of the matches played:—

v. Old Boys.—Won. Old Boys, 130 (C. Williams 47, N. Trebeck 33, K. Dolden 14; Gill 3-27, Cooper 2-27). S.C.E.G.S., 230 (Bell 49, Pronk 41, Walton 38, McKell 22; D. Esplin 3-44, K. Dolden 2-16).

v. Mr. Martin's XI.—Lost. Mr. Martin's XI, 155 (Yuill 71, Michaelson 23; Gill 7-25). S.C.E.G.S., 115 (Alley 41, Gill 29, Sawkins 16; Lobbam 4-13, Martin 2-43).

v. C.B.C.W.—Drawn. C.B.C.W., 9-166 (Lyon 45, Craven 37, News 21, McKay 18; Cooper 5-52, Hyams 2-12). S.C.E.G.S., 7-99 (Bell 43, Pronk 25, McKell 16; Duggan 3-43, Preston 2-18).

v. S.J.C.—Lost. S.J.C., 250 (Moane 77, Butters 57, Gallagher 51, Dunning 36; Pope 5-24, McKell 3-36) and 4-150 (Simpson 46, Maudson 43, Butters 36; Bell 3-22). S.C.E.G.S., 174 (Smith 44, Walton 36, McKell 33; Snell 4-46, Murray 2-17) and 1-29 (Pronk 15, Lee 13; Denning 1-17).

"A" Colts—7th XI.

This team has played 6 matches, and has won 4, drawn 1, and lost 1. Some good bowling performances have been made, but the batting has been rather uncertain. Results:—

- v. S.J.C.—Colts, 108 (Way 39, Stokes 26); S.J.C., 104 (Finley 3-13, Way 3-30).
- v. S.J.C.—Colts, 51 (Anderson 22, Monckton 13); S.J.C., 45 (Stokes 5-9, Alexander 3-0).
- v. T.K.S.—Colts, 3-161 (Way 76 n.o., Hellicar 50 n.o., Anderson 20) and 2-101 (Stokes 53 n.o., Johnson 27 n.o.); T.K.S., 62 (Alexander 6-25).
- v. T.K.S.—Colts, 66 (St. Clair 22, Stokes 19); T.K.S., 50 (Way 9-20).
- v. S.G.S.—Colts, 6-73 (Monckton 29 n.o., Way 22); S.G.S., 5-86 (Stokes 3-11).
- v. S.G.S.—Colts, 50 (Finley 15); S.G.S., 75 (Alexander 5-15, Stokes 4-19).

"B" Colts—8th XI.

Match against Thomas House was lost; against Mowbray House, won; against Sydney Grammar School, lost; against The King's School, won; against Scots, won; two matches against S.G.S. were prevented by rain.

Walton iii., Walton iv. and Falk were particularly strong in defence, and yet able to hit out hard and well whenever the opportunity came. Pugh, with good scores to his credit, was perhaps the most aggressive batsman in the team. Cormack batted and bowled well in the two matches he played. Munro and Flashman showed good batting form against The King's School, scoring 23 and 20 respectively in quick time on a very slow ground. Mair and Thompson must cultivate more confidence and decision in their stroke-making. Of the bowlers, Goodhew and Way are the most promising, Way obtaining good pace and swing, and Goodhew breaking both ways sharply and varying his flight, and pace. Goodhew also shapes well as a bat. Barnes delivers a particularly fast ball, hot and dangerous, but must develop more control over his direction. Walton iii. wiped out four of King's tail-enders in two overs, and is indeed a very effective change bowler.

9th XI.

This team won matches against Christian Brothers, Cranbrook, and Trinity Grammar School. O. L. Edwards captained the team well. Gloor perhaps showed most promise, especially as a medium break bowler, being promoted to the 5th XI. Fox and Finch batted well, while Mawby was successful as a bowler. There were two useful practice matches with the 10th XI. besides.

10th XI.

This team won matches against Mowbray House and St. Aloysius College, but lost against S.G.S. in two matches, and also against Christian Brothers. Carment captained well. Among the successful batsmen were Clarkson, R. J. H. Smith, and Ludowici.

11th XI.

This team played only two matches, being robbed of several other games by bad weather. The team lost against St. Aloysius' College and our Preparatory 1st XI. Promising young players include Massey, Maxwell, H. O. Thomas, Hyams and L. N. Shaw. It is hoped that more matches will be played in the third term.

House Cricket.

Again it has been unfortunate that rain and wet weather have prevented play in the concluding rounds of the Competition. The results of this term's matches, which will be combined with those of Third Term, to decide finally the issue between the Houses, were as follows:—Robson House won 10 and drew 1 of the 16 matches played; School won 8 of the 14 matches played; Hodges 7 of the 16 played; and Barry House won 3 and drew 1 of their 12 matches played.

The best performances throughout the term were as follows:—

Team Scores.—Hodges 74 v. Robson; School 73 v. Hodges, and 66 v. Robson.

Preparatory School Cricket.

The beginning of the cricket season has been most satisfactory, although rain has interfered with the play in the Quarter matches, as well as the practices.

Results of matches played by the 1st XI. :—

v. Mosman.—Won, 119-46. Dunsmore, 29 and 5-9.

v. Scots.—Lost, 102-143. Millinjen, 22.

v. Manly.—Won, 4 for 33-7. Lambell, 47; Needham, 4-0.

v. Coogee.—Lost, 32-53. Needham, 6-9.

v. S.C.E.G.S. 10th XI.—Won, 78-75. Lambell, 36.

The lower teams played several matches, each being keenly contested. Quarter rounds were not completed.

OLD BOYS' NOTES.

The host of Old Boys to whom Adrian Curlewis is known will join in congratulating him on his election as President of the Surf Life Saving Association. The congratulations must, however, be tinged with the regret that the arduous duties of his presidency forced him to relinquish the position of Honorary Secretary of the Union, which he held for many years. As an Old Boys' representative on the School Council, however, he remains in the closest touch with the doings of the School and the Union.

R. W. Keegan was elected Honorary Secretary of the Union to fill the vacancy caused by A. H. Curlewis' resignation.

G. E. Browne has resumed practice as an Income Tax Adjuster at 76 Pitt Street, Sydney.

A welcome visitor to the Club in January was J. M. Loder, a foundation member of the Club. He was on a holiday from St. George, Queensland, where he is managing a property, and had not been in the Club for six years.

Dick Hipsley, who, since his graduation in Engineering at Sydney has been in England, has recently been touring the Continent, and is now in America on his way home. He is expected in Sydney in June.

Fred. Moses was in Sydney during Boat Race week.

Lieutenant-Colonel J. W. Crawford, an Old Boy commanding the Sydney University Regiment, delivered the address at the Anzac Service in the Chapel.

Legal.

R. W. Keegan, at the beginning of the year, had his name removed from the roll of solicitors, and was admitted as a barrister.

Brian Molloy, who spent the latter part of last year terrorising the western American States under a nom de guerre, was recently admitted to the Bar.

John Newton was recently admitted as a solicitor.

F. R. Wakelin has commenced practice as a chartered accountant at Stanton House, Pitt Street, Sydney.

J. L. Rawling has left Coree, and is now jackerooting at Woodpark, Jerilderie.

A. H. Campbell writes : "Tom McKenzie, of 'Rosehearty,' Longreach, was married in January last to Miss May Ahearn, of 'Thornton,' Muttaburra."

H. T. Siddins has drawn a block of land in the St. George district, and is now to be found at "Lower Plains," Noondoo Siding, S.W. Line, Queensland.

Doing his best to enliven England and the Continent is N. T. Lovell. "The Commercial Banking Co. Ltd., London, E.C.," will, he tells us, find him.

B. D. Button is to be congratulated not only for his organisation of a most successful G.P.S. Dinner in Coonamble on Regatta night, but also for his cricketing performances with the N.S.W. Western Graziers' Team which toured Tasmania in February and March this year. We are privately informed that he was sufficiently elated with his bowling figures—25 wickets at an average cost of 18—to bring back some Tasmanian hops, which he hopes to cross with kangaroos!

A most successful Old Boys' Luncheon was held in Melbourne at the end of last year. Amongst those present were Messrs. L. C. Robson, E. I. Robson, A. B. Adams, Barton Brown, Geoff. Deane, G. C. Hawker, S. R. Janes, Lindsay, I. V. Manton, I. A. Macdougall, Payne, J. M. Pitt, D. R. Sinclair, V. D. Watson, T. J. West and Lionel H. Lemaire. Old Boys in the southern capital owe a great deal to Mr. Lemaire's untiring work.

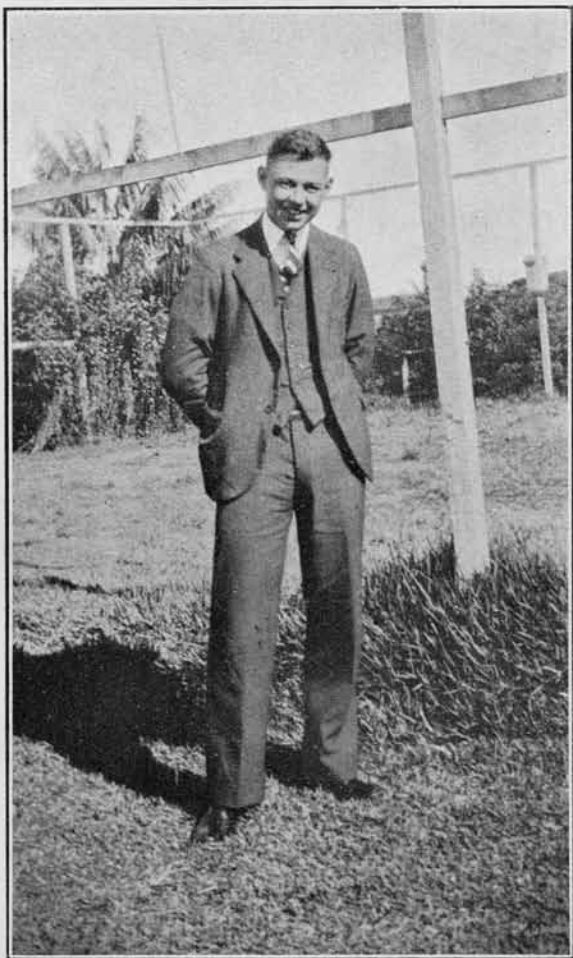

C. F. Buck has joined the Atlantic Union Oil Company, and is working the north and north-west districts of New South Wales from Tamworth.

Dr. Alan Shorter has just left for England, where he intends to carry out post-graduate work.

Dr. K. B. Voss, an old Pauline and former sub-warden, was last year elected a Fellow of Saint Paul's College.

John Hammond, associate to Mr. Justice Davidson, is at present touring England and the Continent.

Supplement to "The Torch-Bearer."—May 1, 1934.

D. F. Shetliffe, Open High Jump Champion of Australia, Adelaide, 1934.

—(Photc by D. A. Crombie.)

The G.P.S. Dinner held at Walgett on Boat Race night proved a great success. Old Boys of the School present were : F. W. Loder, F. R. Hodgson, J. F. Hodgson, R. W. Sheaffe, C. T. Keene, J. G. Archer, G. A. Mace and G. P. Blake. Toasts of (inter alia) "The Winners" and "The Runners-up" were drunk, Frank Hodgson replying on behalf of the School. The success of the function is in large measure attributable to the untiring efforts of Mr. Blake.

Characterised by equal enthusiasm and an equally long list of toasts was the G.P.S. Dinner on the same night at Coonamble. Amongst the thirty-eight present were the following Old Boys of the School:—Lt.-Col. C. M. Fetherstonhaugh, S. L. Barden, Dr. K. H. Broome, Y. W. J. Ormiston and B. D. Button. Among the office-bearers of the combined organisation elected that evening were:—President, Lt.-Col. C. M. Fetherstonhaugh; Hon. Secretary, B. D. Button; Committee, Dr. K. H. Broome.

E. E. Kingsmill, for some years a teller in the Commercial Banking Co. of Sydney, Ltd., Dubbo branch, has been promoted to manage the Bank's branch at Gundagai. Several presentations were made to him on his leaving for his new sphere.

The Cowlshaw brothers have done great work on their property, "Raymond Hill," on the Macquarie River, Dubbo, since taking up residence there, in establishing large areas of lucerne and going in extensively for fat lamb raising.

"Mike" Mitchelmore is still in the services of the Vacuum Oil Co. as their representative in the Dubbo district, and meets many Old Boys in his travels.

O. D. Meares, of "Broombie," Leadville, who has a fine mixed farming property, was recently seen in Dubbo in quest of sheep.

Hastie and J. A. A'Beckett, of Wellington, are both on the land, and are progressing satisfactorily after the depression time setback.

Pending receipt of full details from Ray Keirath re G.P.S. O.B.U. Reunion at Narromine on Boat Race night, suffice it to say that over forty Old Boys from the various schools enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Only similar stop press mention can be made in this issue of G.P.S. Dinners at Quirindi on Boat Race night, and at Moree on April 28th.

Dr. C. P. Gordon has left North Sydney, and commenced practice in Muswellbrook.

Dr. Ron. Bennett, who graduated in Medicine at Sydney recently, is now on the staff at Brisbane Hospital.

During the Christmas holidays, several Old Boys met at Shellharbour. There were Lance Manning of Narrabri, with Mrs. Fleming and family, Stanley Lufft, Mrs. Lufft and family, and C. A. Pennefather; and of recent years, Caldwell, R. D. Cohen and Neale.

Reg. Walker, during the course of a trip to the Old Country, addressed the members of the Rotary Club at Bournemouth at five minutes' notice. The local newspaper recorded that "he talked in a very interesting and entertaining fashion about his native Australia and various other parts of the world."

H. Rice, after staying in town for some time, has gone to Queanbeyan. While in Sydney he played with the N.S.W. Lawn Tennis Association's team of Old Boys against the Combined G.P.S. tennis team.

John Welch was down from Queensland for several weeks during March and April. Strange to relate, he spent some time up at Gladesville at the boatshed.

The Sheaffe twins, J. C. and W. R., of Booligal, were in town for the Easter Show.

The Captain of Boxing (R. A. Swift) has received from W. J. H. Campbell, of Liverpool, England, a letter telling of the boxing successes of G. B. H. Clark, of Pembroke College, Oxford. Clark won his blue for boxing as a welterweight in 1933, in a team which won the British Universities' and Hospitals' Championship, and also defeated Cambridge.

OLD BOYS' CLUB.

The annual meeting of members was held at the Club, Warwick Building, Hamilton Street, Sydney, on Thursday, March 8, 1934, there being present Mr. D'Arcy F. Roberts (in the chair) and 22 members. Apologies for absence were received from Col. A. W. Hyman and Messrs. G. M. Marsh, J. Cadwallader, M. M. Goddard and N. R. Conroy.

Mr. A. N. Harding, Hon. Secretary, read the annual report, which was adopted on the motion of the President, seconded by Mr. Braithwaite Clark. Mr. Gordon Turnbull added appreciation of the work of Messrs. Roberts and A. N. Harding on the Board of School Clubs Ltd.

Mr. H. J. Lewarne, Hon. Treasurer, submitted the income and expenditure account and balance sheet, which were adopted.

In accordance with notice previously given, the President moved an amendment to Article 10 of the Constitution, which was seconded by Mr. A. B. S. White, and carried, which has the effect of cancelling the entrance fee in respect of members joining before the next annual meeting.

Office-bearers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—

President : Mr. D'Arcy F. Roberts.

Vice-President : Mr. Gordon C. Turnbull.

Hon. Secretary : Mr. A. N. Harding.

Hon. Treasurer : Mr. H. J. Lewarne.

The following were nominated for the Committee:—Messrs. M. M. Goddard, T. T. Halstead, D. M. Dixon, J. Humphries, G. E. Browne, A. R. C. Hull, R. Ludowici, D. M. MacDermott, J. K. Shirley and E. S. White. Being over the required number of eight, a ballot was taken, which resulted in Messrs. G. E. Browne, W. J. S. Harding, A. R. C. Hull, R. Ludowici, D. M. MacDermott, J. K. Shirley, E. S. White and T. T. Halstead being elected.

The President announced that the Committee had that evening elected to honorary membership Sergeant-Major F. J. Davidson, in addition to the Masters at the School and the Bursar, Mr. F. V. Nicholson.

Mr. N. E. Brooks was re-elected Hon. Auditor.

On the motion of Dr. F. G. A. Pockley, seconded by Mr. A. B. S. White, it was unanimously resolved that this general meeting endorses its original determination, that under no circumstances will it agree to lose its identity as the S.C.E.G.S. Old Boys' Club with the object of passing over its membership to any Combined Club of G.P.S. or other schools.

Before the close of the meeting, Mr. A. B. S. White said he felt he was expressing the pleasure of all present when he welcomed the Rev. D. Davies, who was present at the meeting at the age of 76. Mr. White's remarks were received with acclamation.
