SCHOOL NOTES.

The Headmaster has gone on leave, and will be absent for the year. Mr. J. Lee Pulling is acting as Headmaster. Mr. Robson intends to visit both England and America on his travels. He takes with him the good wishes of the School and its friends, for an enjoyable holiday, for a happy reunion with his family, and for a safe return in their company.

On the evening of April 27 the staff entertained Mr. Robson at dinner at the University Club.

* * * * *

M. N. Kelly was proxime accessit to the winner of the General Proficiency Prize in the Leaving Certificate Examination. He was awarded the Cooper Scholarship for classics, and also a Public Exhibition at the University.

During the Christmas holidays, a sub-committee of masters was occupied in arranging for the re-furnishing of the Common Room. This has been partly accomplished by subscriptions from the staff and ready financial assistance from the Council. Already there has been a generous gift of an arm-chair by "An Old Boy" and a handsome marble clock by Mr. J. Lee Pulling. The pictures on the wall have been provided on loan through the kindness of Dr. and Mrs. Bradley, Mr. J. C. Pope, Mr. R. Strath, and Mr. J. F. E. Monckton; these will be changed from time to time. Two book-shelves form a partial screen between the work-a-day part of the room and a rest-room which is in process of being comfortably furnished in the manner of a Club Lounge. The Council are re-decorating the walls during the May holidays. The comfort of masters has been greatly enhanced by these arrangements, and Old Boys will find that their entertainment when they visit the Common Room will be amid more fitting surroundings.

Two new masters have joined us this term. Mr. A. R. Rupp, B.A., Sydney, comes to us from The Armidale School. Mr. I. M. Edwards,

B.A., Sydney, is a Rhodes Scholar, and was formerly at Camden Grammar School and Manly. Both gentlemen are in residence: Mr. Rupp in Hodges House, Mr. Edwards in School House.

Mr. G. P. Campbell has qualified for the degree of Master of Arts in the School of Modern History. Mr. Campbell was awarded first-class honours for his thesis, and a University Medal, maxima cum laude.

Advice has been received by the Council from the Union Trustee Company to the effect that the late William Hay, of Inverloch, Harden, who died in the latter part of 1937, has left a will, in accordance with which certain legacies will, in due course, come to the School. The money is so bequeathed that it will come to the School only after the expiration of certain life interests in the estate. All who are interested in the School will be gratified to learn of still another instance in which an Old Boy has had kindly thought for it. William Hay attended the School from January, 1907, to the end of 1911, and will be well remembered by those of his generation. He became a Prefect and rowed with the Eight in 1911. He afterwards proceeded to the University, and entered the faculty of engineering. He enlisted before graduating, and served with distinction in the Great War. His life after the War was spent on the land.

On May 4th, the forty-ninth birthday of the School, Dr. St. Vincent Welch, President of the Old Boys' Union, addressed the School. A most interesting address, full of reminiscences and traditions of our early days.

On the same day, the following were admitted to office as Sub-Prefects: : J. R. Banyard, A. B. Barton, R. J. Colwell, J. D. Dally, J. W. Lipscomb, J. H. Marshall, R. E. Stiffe, P. C. Willsford.

The Torch-Bearer offers hearty congratulations to Serjeant-Major Davidson on the completion of 'twenty-five years' service at the School; and feels sure that these good wishes will be echoed by many hundreds of readers, near and far.

CHAPEL NOTES.

The preacher at the Open Sunday Service on 8th May was the Rev. W. F. Pyke Rector of St. John's, Gordon, and a member of the School Council.

* * * * *

On February 23rd, at 2 p.m., in the School Chapel, a service was held in memory of the late Mr. H. H. Dixon. The lesson was read by the Headmaster, and an address was given by Mr. C. E. Burgess, a Master of the School.

* * * * *

Addresses were given in Chapel on 5th and 6th May by Mr. Saxby, representative of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

* * * * *

On Monday evening in Holy Week, a special service consisting of anthems and readings by the Choir was well attended. The theme of the service was "The Passion of Our Redeemer." The Rev. Canon A. H. Garnsey, Warden of St. Paul's College, University of Sydney, gave the address.

HERBERT HUTCHINSON DIXON.

It is with deep regret that we record the death of the second Master of the School, Mr. H. H. Dixon, B.A.

Towards the end of the Christmas holidays he broke down in health and was taken to hospital. On the 21st of February he died. The funeral took place on the 22nd, and was attended by almost the entire staff of the School and several of the boys, while the rest of the School looked after itself in the classrooms. On the 23rd a Memorial Service was held in the School Chapel, which was attended by a very large number of Old Boys, as well as by Mr. Dixon's numerous friends and by his relatives.

To estimate the work Mr. Dixon did for the School is impossible. To say that he was beloved and respected is inadequate. Generation after generation of boys grown and growing into men bear witness to his sterling worth and influence. Of him it may be truly said that he handed on the torch of life.

Requiem aeternam dona ei, Domine, et lux perpetua luceat ei.

* * * * *

The following is the text of the address given at the Memorial Service by Mr. C. E. Burgess :—

“We are met here to-day to think for a while of a good man whose work has just come to a close. Herbert Hutchinson Dixon served this School for thirty-six years, and now in the faith and fear of God he has gone to his rest.

“Some of you never knew him, but most of us knew him well. In the course of thirty-six years his pupils numbered thousands. Some of them are masters with us to-day, and others are the fathers of sons who sat in his classes up to the end of last year. I said that his work had come to a close, but in another and very real sense it will go on for longer than we can reckon ; for the path of the just is a shining light, and we all owe a debt to him, greater than we can tell.

“Herbert Hutchinson Dixon was a just man, one who feared God and kept His commandments. He was a kindly gentleman and a good friend. He was a scholar, a man of wide reading, a lover of sport and of music, and one of his chief pleasures was that of which Bacon wrote : ‘God Almighty first planted a garden ; and indeed it is the purest of human pleasures.’

"He came here first, a graduate of Sydney University, for a few months when Mr. Hodges was Headmaster. He served at Toowoomba Grammar School under Mr. Purves, who afterwards was Headmaster here ; and also at The Armidale School. In 1902 he joined the staff here. For about the last ten years he was Housemaster of Robson House, and some time before that he became second Master of the School.

"For a long time he was the master in charge of football, and coached the 1st XV. Many remember him as a vigorous table tennis player.

"When the War came he joined the Army and became an infantry officer. Later he became a brigade staff officer, his duty being the care for the precautions against poison gas.

"He never married, but was one of a large family of brothers and sisters. Several of his nephews came to the School, and through them he became 'Uncle Bert' to hundreds. To those of Robson House, to Upper Fourth A for years, to many a new boy and new master, he was a kindly, just and wise old 'uncle,' with the privilege, prescriptive to uncles, of suffering fools gladly till their folly exceeded bounds. Then he knew well how to act.

"A few years ago he acted for a term as Headmaster, and many of us remember the wise courtesy with which he performed that duty. As second Master his work lay in a maze of time-tables, examination arrangements, mark-lists, and other minute but necessary tasks, calling for endless care and the patience of Job. I have sometimes wondered how it was possible for a man to do all that and keep an even temper, when forms went into the wrong rooms and masters took wrong papers.

"When I came here twelve years ago, I met him first as he was coming out of Chapel. Looking back, I feel that the occasion and place were significant of the man. I believe that it was his deep sense of the Unseen, and his unassuming piety, that made him the gentle and courteous person whom we knew. His sense of duty was strong and unflinching. He held firmly and conservatively to principles he had proved. And one of my early recollections of him is his insistence on the need for preserving the high standards of culture which a new country is apt to lack or undervalue.

"A good man is gone from among us, and we shall miss him, but we shall not be the only ones. During the past two days numerous messages of sorrow have arrived at the School, sent by various Old Boys, Old Boy groups, and from other schools. To his relatives we offer our sympathy and condolence. May God grant him eternal rest !"

Supplement to "The Torch-Bearer"—May 1, 1938.

THE NEW BLOCK.

As we said in our last issue, everything west of the Library has been pulled down. Now a two-storey block of classrooms covers much the same ground, with a cloister leading right up to the door of the main building. A projecting wing runs parallel to the Graythwaite fence. From the upper corridor one walks along the top of the cloister to the main building first floor entrance. The new block is built of rough-faced red brick, with facings of synthetic granite, and is a very comely sight.

The rooms are ten in number, and are thus allocated. There is a Prefects' room; two rooms are used by the Preparatory School; the rest are subject rooms used by Fifth and Sixth Forms. The subjects rooms belong to English, Latin, Modern Languages, Mathematics and Physics, Modern History, Ancient History, Economics. In the subject rooms are housed the different sections of the Library appropriate to the subjects. One result of this arrangement has been a great increase of general reading.

The new rooms are large, well lit, comfortably furnished. Various floor coverings are in use. Some rooms have polished boards, some have rubber, and others have linoleum. Some rooms have desks, others have double tables, and others again have single tables. The chairs are comfortable and sensibly designed.

Every room has a selection of pictures: Medici reproductions, woodcuts, etchings and watercolours.

Really it is a block of classrooms that any school might be proud of, One longs for the day when the planned reconstruction shall be carried a stage further.

In addition to the new block, a change has been made on the verandah above the Labs. The three rooms are now two, used both as form rooms and also as science demonstration rooms. The whole of the main block has been repainted within.

The old Room A is now the Bursar's Office.

ANZAC DAY, 1938.

An Address given in Chapel by Mr. I. F. Jones.

It was a strange trick of fortune which staged in a remote corner of Europe one of the most significant events in Australian history. The Dardanelles campaign was undertaken to strike at Germany through the weakest of her allies, to take the Central Powers in flank, and to open the Straits for the assistance of Russia. The Fleet failed, and an army was sent to co-operate with it. This army, of which the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps formed part, landed on the Gallipoli Peninsula on the 25th of April, 1915. Since then, twenty-three years have passed, a time in which a whole generation has grown to manhood. It may be worth recalling what was done on that day.

At half-past one in the morning, as the moon was sinking, five miles from land, men climbed down from the ships into their boats. Towed by the battleships, and followed by the destroyers, carrying more men, they came inshore to a distance of two miles and a half. From here the picket boats drew them in further towards the intended landing place; but darkness and the strong current carried them up the beach a mile north of the intended point to a rugged part of the coast, backed by steep cliffs; split with gullies, and covered with scrub. At the day broke, the forty-eight boats were rowed the last fifty yards to the beach. There were some shots from the shore. As the boats grounded, the soldiers got ashore in a headlong rush and scrambled and pushed inland. The men from the destroyers soon followed, and the advance was carried inland a mile; one party even got far enough to see the Straits. By eight o'clock there were 8000 men ashore. At first there had been only one company of Turks to oppose them; but by ten o'clock in the morning Mustafa Kemal had arrayed 5000 men against them, and by four o'clock in the afternoon both sides had lost, killed and wounded, about 2000 men. By six o'clock 15,000 men were ashore; a position a mile and a half long by a mile deep was being held by men of all battalions mixed up together, and the beach was thronged by a leadership crowd looking for their units. That night they dug themselves in. Months of fighting followed, but little was gained, and in December and January the whole army was brought away.

Now the Gallipoli expedition was a failure, and the fighting, though severe, was not to be compared with the ordeals that these men and those who came later to the war endured in France. Why then has it meant so much? I would like to recall something of the mental atmosphere of the time. The cause, as we saw it then, was honourable; the country was united in feeling; few people uttered or felt misgivings. National consciousness had been steadily growing since the foundation of the Commonwealth, not fourteen years before. The agitation for Federation, the discussion of Commonwealth politics, had made men thoroughly aware of their Australian citizenship. Australians have always been interested in politics, and never more than in the first years of the Commonwealth. This was not the first war that Australians had taken part in. There had been the Sudan campaign, but many people had regarded that as an impulsive adventure; there had been the Boer War; but Australian life was very little affected by the Boer War. But the Great War, though Australian policy had had no share in its making, seemed very much more our business, and in the end it left none of us untouched. To begin with, it was a different sort of war: it was not police operations against savages; it was not using half a million men to smash fifty thousand farmers; it was a death grapple of giants, a conflict of the mightiest nations in the world. So it was with an already sensitive national self-consciousness that Australians saw their men taking part in a war that involved the whole world. In the New Guinea campaign, overwhelming numbers had easily swept away the resistance of a few black policemen; but on Gallipoli, Australians faced for the first time an enemy known in history as stubborn and formidable soldiers, and directed by leaders of more than ordinary competence. Now, far more British than Australians took part in the landing at Gallipoli, and the landings at Helles and the southern beaches were more hotly contested and bloodier in their issue than the landing at Anzac; but it was the Australians who caught the world's eye. Poets and correspondents spoke of their stature, their freedom of movement, their alertness and individuality of mind. The world became aware of a new nation. The high reputation won at Gallipoli the Australian soldier continued to increase in the next three years of the war. Their early high spirits vanished, but their determined vigour carried them through appalling losses to amazing feats of arms. At the end of the war a distinguished French general remarked that, for its size, Australia was potentially the most formidable military nation in the world. That reputation was won by an army of incorrigible civilians; their battle discipline was of the highest, but they were inclined to disdain the shibboleths of the professional soldier in matters of dress and deportment, and to maintain an independence of personal habit. There were few men who had less of the military cast of thought. With their civil clothes they assumed at once the civil habit of mind.

Now, if these remarks are only going to arouse warlike ambitions, or if we are going to pride ourselves on the deeds of other men, although of our own blood, and sit satisfied in a glow of second-hand emotion, we had better forget our history and stop celebrating days like this. There are men who proclaim the positive value of war ; they declare the glory of soldierly comradeship, the splendour of victory, the tonic effect on the national spirit. Blessed are the war-makers : seek strife and ensue it. We will reject this gospel. Fifty-nine thousand dead men stand between us and its acceptance. But the true condemnation of war lies not in its waste of blood and treasure, but in its denial of these values, which men must hold if they are to live together. The inculcation of ferocity, the suppression of truth, the dissemination of lies become commonplace. Truth is the first casualty in war. And chivalry ?—the little books which teach you the technique of fighting don't mention it. The soldier, however, is commonly a better man than his preceptors would wish him to be. In the hardest of schools he learns respect for, even a kind of sympathy with, a brave enemy ; but the community in general learns only hate and fear. Wars are begun with enthusiasm, waged in bitterness, and ended in weariness : and even a good cause will not prevent an emotionally exhausted nation from making an ungenerous peace—a peace which itself will be a begetter of wars. In modern war all sides lose. Most of Europe to-day enjoys less liberty and less security than in 1914.

Yet, abhorring war, we do right to honour the men whose service we commemorate. It is a paradox of human nature that a man's most precious possession is his individual life, and yet he feels most happy if he can sink his individuality in the service of some cause which transcends his personal life. To most men the service of their country is the highest form in which such a cause presents itself. Patriotism by itself is not a virtue : it becomes a virtue in the way it expresses itself. A patriotism which consists of saluting the flag, of standing to attention at the National Anthem, of uncritical acceptance of a country's institutions, is merely a kind of idol-worship, and an unthinking readiness to go to war for it is a kind of Juggernaut self-immolation. Yet love of country is a generous and natural feeling, and readiness to die for it is the final test of that feeling.

It is a defect of our minds, or perhaps of our training, that the obvious associations of patriotism are flags and uniforms and death in battle. The path of the patriot in peace is less obvious than in war. The unifying emotion which leads men to unselfish service on the large scale is absent ; we are either dependent on others for bread or engaged in an unlovely game of beggar-my-neighbour. The men who were comrades in war become competing individuals in peace. A nation whose violence we detest, whose national philosophy we consider grotesque, for all its atrocities and absurdities can inspire numbers of its young men to an enthusiasm for national service. We were equal to the Germans in war ; we should be able, as freer men, to surpass them in peace. We have a land to keep, to restore to fruitfulness, wealth to preserve, to increase, to share ; cities to rebuild ; the duty of securing a decent life for our people ; a tradition of freedom to maintain and extend. If men must die for their country, they should have a country worth dying for. No country yet has deserved the sacrifices it so freely gets.

Yet constructive patriotism in time of peace might save us from the sacrificial patriotism of war. It is not a patriot's business to hate Germans or Russians or Japanese, or to talk about inevitable wars. If we believe in peace we should stop wars before they begin. At least we need not give our support to provocative policies, and may insist that differences which do arise should be discussed in a cool and conciliatory manner. If we do not, it is our own fault, and we must take the consequences. Yet war may come on us unsought, and, in such case, to those who value our way of life the alternative to resistance is not submission, but martyrdom.

The men we honour to-day were brave men. Mr. Lloyd George once remarked that he thought little of courage, for he could buy as much of it as he wanted for a shilling a day. But to despise courage is like despising the air we breathe, which we get for nothing. It is the commonest of human virtues ; it is the fundamental virtue ; the other virtues grow sickly without it ; moral courage can hardly exist without a basis of physical courage. Everyone feels this in his bones, and every man wishes to put his courage to the test ; he cannot be at peace with himself until he is proved. Our daily lives rarely expose us to mortal danger. Danger has to be sought, and we feel rightly that we have no business to put our lives in peril for trivial reasons. It is part of the dangerous fascination of war that it does present such opportunities. Pestilence, shipwreck, famine, earthquake, find heroes in plenty among common men. But the cataclysms of nature are impersonal: the tidal wave, the lava flow are not aimed at any victim. The soldier offers himself not only to the tempest of flying iron and the shattering upheavals of high explosives, but to the concentrated and directed force of human malice. To confront this terror demands all the resources of the human spirit. The men who met these terrors were ordinary men. But they faced their fear and passed beyond it.

What man has done man can do. Each brave man makes it easier for the next man to be brave. We need all the courage we can get. I believe that stories of valour will continue to put heart into men when national boundaries may be found only in curious old maps, and war has become a revolting and impossible barbarity.

We honour and commend the example of these brave and self-sacrificing men in the service of their country. The service of one's country is a high service, but it is not the highest. It is neither of King nor Commonwealth that we say, "Whose service is perfect freedom."

SPEECH DAY, 1937.

Speech Day was held on Thursday, December 16th. The ceremony was held in an enormous tent. His Grace the Archbishop presided, and the prizes were given away by His Excellency the Governor. As it was his first visit to the School, Lord Wakehurst asked the Headmaster to declare a half-holiday. This took place on March 25.

The Headmaster's Report was printed in booklet form and circulated to friends of the School, so, contrary to our usual practice, we do not print it in this issue.

The following is the list of prizewinners:—

The following Old Boys have promised to pay to the School on May 4th each year, by means of a Tenth Legion Banker's Order, the sum of £1:—Welch, H. L. St. V.; Tiley, C. S.; Fisher, A. D.; Boyce, R. C. M.; Curlewis, A. H.; Massie, R. J. A.; Moseley, A. H.; Voss, Kerrod; Roberts, D. H.; Morgan, A. D.; Heath, L. B.; Deane, N. Y.; Roberts, C. K.; Selby, B. A.; Selby, D. M.; Selby, E. J.; Falk, N.; Robson, L. C.; Clarke, W. B.; Hipsley, R. B.; Tywman, E.; Carter, W.; Lemaire, L. H.; Esplin, T. D.; Prell, H. F.; Prell, S.; Williams, C. M.; Bushell, W. J.; Eedy, A. N.; Hume, I. (three years in advance); Cadwallader, J.; Fisher, A. W.; Sinclair, R. R.; Dods, L.; Murrell, J. L.; O'Reilly, A. C.

THE OCTET.

After a good many practices of the various parts individually, the Club has begun to meet for full rehearsals, and some very pleasant times have been spent in this way.

A group of nine songs from the "Fellowship Song Book" is being prepared, and should be ready for performance by next term.

After this, we look forward to working up selections from "The Mikado" and "The Gondoliers," for which more voices will have to be enlisted.

Owing to the great number of ordinary School activities, it takes a long time to reach anything like perfection.

DEBATING.

This term has been busy with internal practice, supervised by Mr. Edwards and Mr. Eldershaw; and with an interesting informal Old Boys' fixture, which brought amongst us two members of last year's winning team for our better instruction.

Two competition debates will be held at the School early next term, and should be worthy of good attendances, practices having already revealed a promising array of orators or speakers. The Committee consists of Helsham, Dickson and Pritchett.

THE TORCH CLUB, WOOLLOOMOOLOO.

The Club has begun its new season with a swing. Roller skating is proving to be a favourite pastime. The Club members are teaching one another to skate, and doing so very successfully.

New members of the School added to the Torch Club Sub-Committee are Bradfield, Digby, Heath and McMaster.

The large canvas cover of the new push ball proved to be so big that the contents of more than two mattresses were needed to fill it.

The attendance of Woolloomooloo boys augurs well for the success of the Club this year.

For the information of members of the School, the Club meets at St. Peter's Church Hall, Forbes Street, near William Street, every Friday night at 7 o'clock, except during holidays. Visitors are always welcome.

THE ART CLUB.

The work for this term has been of a quiet nature in preparation for the Annual Exhibition next term. A number of very fine pictures have been displayed on the Club notice board, including "The Man with the Glove," by Franz Hals; "Going to Work," by J. F. Millet; "The Infant Samuel," by Sir Joshua Reynolds; "The Scoffers," by Frank Brangwyn; and a fine poster by Norman Wilkinson.

Under Mr. Monckton's superintendence, the Art Club Exhibition last year was a great success, not only on account of the quality of the exhibits, but on account of the number of wholehearted attempts. The Club's work was certainly supported by the School last year in the number of attendants at the Exhibition, and we would sincerely like this year's Exhibition to be worthy of such a support. If it is to be a success, work on exhibits must be started as soon as possible. We would like to see some bigger and more ambitious entries this year rather than very small ones—don't be frightened to draw on a large scale!

The Preparatory School has been doing some very noteworthy work this term, and should have some fine exhibits ready next term. If the response from the Senior School is as good, we need have no fear of the Exhibition's failure.

The May holiday is an excellent time to try your hand at landscape work, however simple. All entries should be handed to Mr. Monckton or J. W. Lipscomb. May I repeat, in connection with the Exhibition, what I mentioned last year, "A school is for attempts."

ENTERTAINMENTS CLUB.

The first lunch-time concert occurred early this year, about three weeks after the beginning of term, and the aim has been to provide functions at fortnightly intervals, as far as possible. There have been four functions so far, all very well attended, and all very much appreciated by the audience. This, of course, has been very largely due to the fact that the first vocal recital was an extremely good one, and that the standard throughout the term did not drop. Our thanks for this are again due to Miss Frank Hirst, who has done so much for us over the past two years.

In planning a programme for the Entertainments Club the object has been to have a fairly even proportion of vocalists, pianists and violinists. Unfortunately, we were unable to get a violinist this term, but we had two vocalists, Mr. Raymond Beatty and Mr. Wilson Ewart; an organist, Mr. A. W. Denniss, who has lately been appointed Director of Music for eight or nine of the Victorian schools; and a pianoforte recital by Miss Enith Clarke. We are much indebted to these artists for giving us such entertaining and instructive concerts. There have been no actual lectures on music or anything of the sort. Each artist has given a short explanation of what was about to be played or sung, sometimes a few words about the composer; now and again some advice on how to listen to the piece. In this way it is hoped that some instruction in music, which must be of cultural value, will lead to further musical appreciation.

Later we hope to have Lionel Lawson, Lindley Evans, Miss Miriam Hyde, Dr. Keith Barry, Mr. Clem. Williams, and, of course, our own School Octet.

THE PAGEANT.

The School's share in the Sesqui-centenary celebrations was the production for the Chatswood Council of the pageant, "The Story of Australia." We were fortunate in having with us the majority of those who took part in the production of 1936, and those who were new to it soon learnt their business. Rehearsals had to be conducted before morning school, and sectional rehearsals were sometimes managed in the fourth period on Friday. The dress-rehearsal was held on the Monday before the first performance, and went very badly ; but, as we were allowed to run it through again on Tuesday morning, the participants became more familiar with the enlarged stage, and we were quite hopeful for a good performance.

After the last performance in 1936 the costumes were stored in School House, and the properties at the Preparatory School, but unfortunately a rather damp place was chosen, with the result that there had to be extensive re-making of hats. In numerous afternoons and several Saturdays of work in the Robson House garage all the properties were overhauled : the muskets were given a fresh coat of paint, thirteen sets of irons were made, swords were repaired, new pouches were made to replace a half-dozen that had rotted, shields were made with the State and Commonwealth coats-of-arms, banners were made for the sections, a new gold cradle was constructed, all the hats received a coat of black enamel paint. For various reasons, Williamson's were unable to help us quite as much with costumes as last time, but we dressed our officers from other sources, and a costume had to be made for Cook and Phillip.

The night of Tuesday, 15th March, was cold and windy. The performance that night was adequate and satisfying to those who had never seen it before. Thursday night was calm and warm ; there was a large audience ; the performers were much happier. The performance was excellent, and everything went without a hitch. Eureka was more like a battle probably than the real thing was. In general, the whole thing was better done than ever before. For one thing, it was done on a larger scale : we had more convicts, a large chain gang, more gold diggers, more in the final crowds. With so much of our equipment in existence we were able to use our funds to improve costumes and properties—we provided the marines with gaiters ; the self-government scene was improved by the display of the State coats-of-arms ; the industrial scene was enlivened by a vigorous riot ; we had Parkes in a patriarchal beard ; we had a better war scene, and a better final grouping. The setting was the same sort of thing that we used before. The Chatswood Council dug fifty-two holes in the Oval for its support. I believe the Gordon Cricket Club are sorrowing yet !

SCOUT TROOP.

The December Camp was a great success, not to be spoiled even by the three snakes which we saw (one of them is said to have chased Hunter for some distance before being blinded by dust !). The weir at Macquarie Grove was just a paradise, especially as the weather was generally very hot. We were glad to have visits from parties of parents and friends ; and we extend most cordial thanks to our hostesses, Mrs. Macarthur Onslow and Miss Gibson, for a score or so of thoughtful gestures.

In May, the Troop is to be the guest (collectively) of III. Hamilton Group, Newcastle. The actual site is Glenrock Camp, a local favourite, five miles south of the city, on a lagoon, and handy to an ocean beach. Though we understand that the beach must be used with the utmost caution, if at all, we are told that the lagoon is ideal for swimming.

Our hosts expect to secure for us invitations to visit the B.H.P. Steelworks, Ryland's Wire and Nail Works, Buttwell's Pipe Works, Phillips' Electric Lamp Factory, and Peters' Ice Cream Factory ; they threaten to take us down a coal mine, and to pilot us to Nobbys ; and they suggest a service at the Newcastle Cathedral, with its beautiful "Warriors' Chapel." This is an embarrassment of riches, and Mr. Backhouse, as Camp Chief, will be chiefly exercised in providing sufficient rests between outings.

The dates are as follows : Saturday, 14th, to Saturday, 21st May, both days included. Times and personal details will be notified in the usual manner when the application forms are printed.

CADET NOTES.

The year has opened well for the Corps. There is a spirit of keenness abroad. The general standard of work is perhaps a little better than it was at the same time last year. We certainly aim at making some advance each year, and the general opinion seems to be that we are succeeding. One factor that is of great assistance is the ready help we get from the S.U.R. Their officers and N.C.O.'s, whether Old Boys or not, are always willing to help us if they are free to do so. In addition, certain individuals have been outstanding in their contributions. With the example of these men before them, it would be strange if our boys did not become enthusiastic. H. G. Shaw has given us very valuable help over a considerable period, both as an instructor and as an examiner. B. H. Travers, about whom more is said below, attended parades regularly until the University claimed him, and assisted in the training of would-be N.C.O.'s and in the examinations. R. G. Robinson, F. H. Read (of Knox), J. W. Hipsley, R. G. Epps, N. G. Huddle and B. H. Potter have helped in the examination of N.C.O.'s, and, in addition, Capt. Scott, of Cranbrook, Capt. Okey, of Knox, and Capt. Griffiths, of Scots, attended our parade on 19th April and acted as examiners for the rank of Sergeant.

The strength of the Corps at one stage reached a record, being 230 for about a fortnight. At the end of the term it was equal to last year's total of 229. Of these, 94 are recruits. The recruits are a promising lot of lads. They are bucking into their work, and have already passed preliminary tests with great credit to themselves and their instructors.

We are always on the look out for ways of improving the uniform. This year three changes have been made—brass buttons instead of gilt, blue cloth instead of gilt N.C.O. stripes, and a different shaped crown for the hat.

Guard of Honour.—On the occasion of the visit of His Excellency the Governor of New South Wales to School on Speech Day, a Guard of Honour was provided from amongst the Cadets who had joined the Corps earlier in the year. The Guard was trained by Cdt.-Lt. B. H. Travers during the Annual Camp. Cdt.-Lt. O. L. Edwards commanded the Guard, Cdt.-Lt. B. L. Geddes being 2 i/c.

Long Service.—Of those who left School at the end of last year, 6 officers and 9 N.C.O.'s served for four years or more. Cdt.-Lt. B. H.

Travers had 6 years' service. He obtained his commission in '35, commanded the Drill Team in '36 and '37, and was O.C. B Coy. for the latter part of '37. He has been helping us this year as an instructor and examiner. He is now a member of the S.U.R., and we feel sure that his career will be successful.

Cdt.-Lt. O. L. Edwards obtained his commission in '36. He was 2 i/c. A Coy. in '37. Cdt.-Lts. J. C. FitzHerbert, P. H. Playfair, H. W. Stokes and J. B. St V. Welch obtained their commissions in '37. FitzHerbert was in the Athletic Team of '36 and '37.

A/W.O.'s R. D. Bedford, I. H. Hume and N. G. Hoddle, Sgts. W. L. Morris and T. W. Wise, Cpls. F. J. Ludowici, J. G. McLeish, W. A. Pringle and P. F. Way each enrolled in '34. A/W.O. Hume was Orderly Room Sgt., and was a member of the Miniature Range Team in '37. Sgt. W. L. Morris was Orderly Room Sgt. in '36, was a member of the Min. R. Team in '36 and led that team in '37. Cpl. Finckh was in the Min. R. Team of '37; Cpl. Ludowici in the Drill Team; and Cpl. Way in the Athletic Team.

Training.—As usual, the first four parades of the year were devoted to the training and examination of those who wished to become N.C.O.'s this year. Company training was commenced on 15th March.

"A" Coy. again split up into training groups, as this is the only way that effective work can be done this term :

(a) The Drill Squad and the Miniature Shooting Team were chosen and received their special instruction.

(b) Separate classes for the rank of Sergeant and for the further instruction of section leaders were arranged to prepare N.C.O.'s of these two grades for their duties.

(c) Cadets in their third year of service were formed into a platoon under Sgt. Connor, and made remarkable progress in a comprehensive course covering Squad Drill, Arms Drill, and N.C.O. work combined with Bayonet Training.

And (d) lastly, those Cadets who are now in our Senior Company for the first time were prepared by Cdt.-Lt. Way and Sgt. Willsford for the Final or Passing Out Test of their Recruit Training. It is an indication of the increased keenness, and of the higher standard of efficiency attained this year, that every Cadet in these two platoons passed this test, and are in consequence entitled to wear the regulation proficiency chevron.

On Tuesday, 26th April, three full-sized platoons were constituted with the normal complement of Plat. Commanders and N.C.O.'s, while the Drill Squad remained as such for another fortnight. It is intended that two of these platoons will be trained in the Lewis Gun next term, while the third carries out a course in Infantry Section Leading.

"B" Coy. was organised into 8 recruit training squads. Cdt.-Lt. W. W. Woodward was O.C., and Sjt. G. J. Yuill his 2 i/c. Each squad was trained by an experienced N.C.O. Tests held towards the end of term indicated that a high standard had been reached.

Examinations.—Candidates for 1st appointment to the rank of Cpl. were examined on 8th March. Forty-two were successful in passing the examination. Of these, 33 have already received appointments.

The examination for promotion to the rank of Sergeant was held earlier than usual this year, with the idea of arranging for the completion of the examinations for commissions at the beginning of Term II. Of the 23 who presented themselves for examination, 20 passed, and 14 were promoted.

Officers and N.C.O.s' School.—A ten days' School of Instruction is to be held at Liverpool for Officers and N.C.O.'s of Cadets in the early part of May. In conjunction with the School, a Tactical Course for Officers will be provided. The response from members of the Corps has been overwhelming. In addition to some officers, 12 N.C.O.'s applied for leave to attend the School. Our quota is a large one in comparison with those of other schools, but still it is only seventeen. We are, of course, very glad to have the opportunity of securing for our leaders the excellent training that this School of Instruction provides, and we find that those who attend are much the better for doing so. The Corps as a whole has derived a great deal of benefit from the attendance of its members in previous years.

Gymkhana.—Owing to the lateness of the date of holding the Gymkhana this year, the usual lists of teams and the results obtained by them will not be published until next term. The School entered teams as usual.

Shooting.—Members of the Corps took part in the Anniversary Rifle Matches held at Anzac in February. A record will be found under Shooting Notes.

Annual Camp.—The Camp was held at the Main Block, Liverpool, from 7th to 11th December, 1937. Five schools combined for the purpose of holding the Camp—Scots College (associated with us for the first time), Barker College, Knox Grammar School, Cranbrook School, and ourselves. The total number in camp was 584, of which 25 officers and 511 other ranks were from the schools, 15 from the Permanent Staff, and 6 from the S.U.R. There were in addition 5 instructors and 42 cooks, waiters, etc. The number from our Corps was 195, nearly 100 per cent. of those able to go.

On the last day Brigadier Hardie inspected the Camp. As usual, a great many parents and friends viewed the ceremonial parade. On this occasion the Brigadier and his staff and orderlies were mounted. Music was provided by the Scots College Pipe Band, assisted by drummers from other units. The Cadet Detachments of Sydney High School, Canterbury High School and Hurlstone Park Agricultural High School were attached to us for the Ceremonial.

One afternoon was occupied by demonstrations. These demonstrations must involve a great deal of trouble and expense to the Defence Department, and it is only right that we should show our appreciation of them. They are always most interesting and welcome. On this occasion demonstrations were given by two light tanks of the latest model, a trench mortar, and a section firing rifle grenades.

For purposes of training the Camp was divided into two groups, the Senior and the Junior. The Senior Group carried out a programme of section firing with the rifle and L.G. at Anzac Range, and an advance guard scheme at Green Hills. In addition, the rifle sections received instruction in anti-gas precautions, using respirators, and in I.S.L. The Junior Group supplied all guards, sentries and patrols, and were taken through a course of I.S.L. and range practices. They also carried out a tactical exercise at Glenfield.

One of the features of the Camp was the march of the Pipe Band around the camp each morning; another, the band practices of the pipers.

Old Boys.—Congratulations are offered to N. A. Vickery, Cdt.-Lt. '34, and to R. G. Robinson, Cdt.-Lt. '36, on their gaining their commissions in the S.U.R.

"G" Sec., 1st Corps Sigs., has four Old Boys in it—the Section Commander, Sgt. G. R. Parsons, who has recently passed for his commission, J. Lane, J. Clarke, and L/Cpl. Downes.

M. S. Nunn holds a commission in 1 Div. Sigs.

NUMBER OF PARADES.—3 N.C.O. Training, 2 Exam., 8 Training.

STRENGTH.—5 Officers, Sgt.-Major, 55 N.C.O.'s, 168 Cds. Total, 229.

PROMOTIONS.—To be A/C.S.M. : 18 Apr., Sgt. P. C. Richardson. 10 Feb.—To be Sgt. : L/Sgt. G. J. Yuill. To be L/Sgt. : Cpls. J. T. Baker, A. D. Fewtrell. To be Cpl. : L/Cpls. M. H. Forsyth, R. E. Stiffe, P. N. McNab, A. M. Boydell, N. G. Alexander. To be L/Cpl. : Cds. D. G. Robertson, J. N. McIntyre, J. A. McDiarmid. 8 Mar.—To be Cpl. : L/Cpls. D. G. Robertson, J. N. McIntyre, J. A. McDiarmid.

EXAMINATIONS AND PROMOTIONS.—Passed for Cpl, 8 Mar. : Cds. R. H. Feather, F. Natham, P. P. Crook, W. J. Morris, R. G. Wotton, R. T. Richardson, D. M. Taylor, J. C. Leitch, G. A. Heath (appointed Cpl 9 Mar.), A. B. Cuthbert, E. A. Armstrong, G. G. Fisher, D. R. Roughton, D. T. Bartley, H. D. Sheehan, A. B. Barton, C. Forsythe, J. S. Lyell (appointed L/Cpl 9 Mar.), W. M. Day, P. A. Dey, W. C. Woods, P. A. Stanton-Cook, L. H. Raymond, W. N. Barnes, J. W. Lipscomb, H. H. Jackson, D. R. Way, J. R. Wallace, J. H. Massie, I. D. Dunsmore, K. L. Falk, J. D. Murray-Jones, C. M. Fisher (appointed L/Cpl 25 Apl.), P. K. Jenkins, A. C. Parsonson-B. G. Wileman, J. D. McCarthy, L. N. Shaw, G. H. Gray, G. I. Gunton, F. T. Henry, P. L. Ibery.

Passed for Sgt. 19 Apr. : Cpls. W. Robins, W. G. Barnes, A. V. Maxwell, D. G. Robertson, W. G. Henderson, J. A. MacDiarmid, G. C. Dent (promoted Sgt. 19 Mar.), R. E. Stiffe, M. H. Forsyth, R. T. Richardson, N. G. Alexander, W. J. Morris, J. D. Dally, G. A. Lloyd (promoted L/Sgt. 19 Mar.), R. G. Wotton, J. N. McIntyre, P. P. Crook, K. H. Feather, B. R. Barton, P. N. McNab.

PROFICIENCY BADGES.—Cds. J. D. Alvarez, F. G. Arnott, D. G. Bligh, E. A. Blunt, B. H. Bowden, F. R. Brigden, G. S. Briggs, D. G. Brown, W. J. Burling, J. E. Carr, O. R. Cormack, W. H. Dyason, F. A. THE GROWTH OF RADIO SCIENCE.

TELEVISION.

(By J. T. Baker.)

To us in Australia now the word Television probably means very little, but in the near future it will no doubt have a great significance to us.

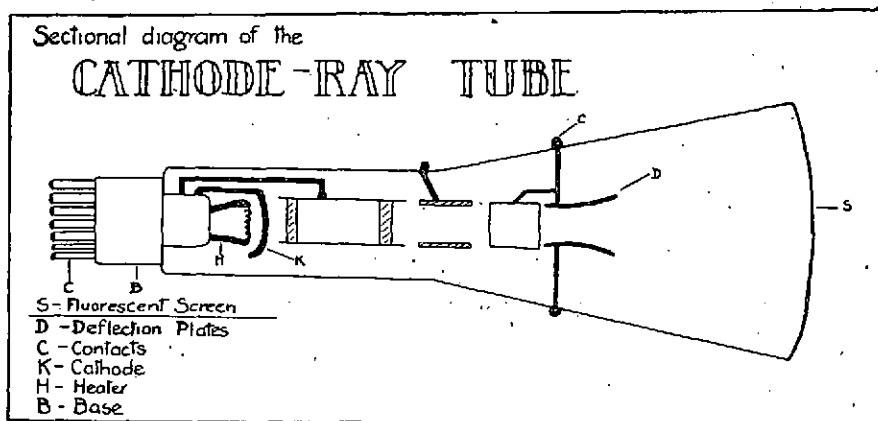

Owing to the enthusiasm aroused by the recent visit of Mr. J. L. Baird, the inventor of television, the subject has been well displayed in articles in the newspapers.

However, it is not my intention to endeavour to explain the subject in full technical detail, but, if possible, to set out the fundamental principles. Television was first put into practice by J. L. Baird when he gave a "talkie television" demonstration in 1930. It is a fact that experiments were being carried out at the end of last century, before the ordinary radio tube was invented, using cathode ray tubes; however, owing to a lack of enthusiasm, and, by the way, suitable apparatus, these then fantastic ideas were allowed to dwindle away. Fortunately the work was carried on by Mr. Baird, until to-day we have a system of television which, considering its comparatively brief time in existence, is well under way to perfection.

First let us look at the cathode ray tube—perhaps the soul of the television receiver. As seen in the diagram, the tube has a number of electrodes, the principal ones being named. The theory of the tube's operation is complex and not easily understood by the layman, and for that reason I will not dwell on it, except to say that it is in this tube that the waves of electrical energy, which are in the case of television about six or seven metres in length, are first made visible. This is done by concentrating the electron flow which is generated about the cathode (K) at a point on the fluorescent screen (S). This flow of electrical energy is influenced and "shaped up," so to speak, during its passage from the cathode to the screen as it passes, and is deflected from, the deflection plates (D).

The point of vision thus created on the screen is then refracted by a lens which is located in front of the tube, and is focussed on to a screen of mica coated with an electro-sensitive substance forming a cluster of little insulated cells, on which the final image is formed. This screen is not shown in the diagram supplied, as it would tend to complicate it ; however, the image is formed on this screen by a number of lines travelling from top to bottom of the screen, forming a minute portion of the image, a somewhat similar process to that of the weaving of tapestry.

Of course, it must be understood that the signal or impulse received is not merely fed to the cathode ray tube, but highly clarified and prepared for it during its passage through the various stages of amplification and other circuits through which it passes.

At the present time regular television transmissions are being carried out from the Crystal Palace towers at London, but only for purposes of amusement. However, it is the aim of those concerned with the research of this science to put it to a commercial use.

If colour vision can be perfected, it will be possible for a business man to purchase his goods after inspecting them by television and fixing the price by radio. Many difficulties face the eager experimenters, such as flickering owing to faulty scanning during reproduction ; however, we hope they will be able to overcome these, as they have done previously.

To some, the principles on which television is carried out will appear simple, to others complex ; but in my opinion, the men now in charge of these affairs, although perhaps possessing the highest qualifications of any electrical engineers in the world, are fully occupied in keeping abreast with their discoveries.

I am sure we shall eventually have television in Australia, but I cannot see how it can possibly be run in a commercial way out here within eight years. Great progress has been made, and it is thought that within six years both the transmission and reception of television will be so improved that we shall enjoy not only the comforts of colour vision, but full stereoscopic reproduction.

So far one man has brought this science to its present point of development. Let us help him to continue his efforts by taking an interest in his work, and in the attempts of future scientists.

THE SINGAPORE NAVAL BASE.

(By John Read.)

[The following account is taken from a letter to the Headmaster.]

You will have read in the papers, long before you receive this letter, all about the big manoeuvres and the opening of the Naval Base Graving Dock, both of which I was privileged to take part in. We have a Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve in Singapore, and it is a very active unit. I had command of one of the patrol launches during the manoeuvres, and the armed patrol launch Panglima at the Dock Opening Ceremony. Our two big armed launches formed part of the escort to H.E. the Governor in his yacht Sea Belle II. The Sea Belle II and her escort of two destroyers, H.M.S. Duncan and H.M.S. Diamond, together with the two R.N.V.R. launches, Panglima and Pahlawan, left Singapore at 2 p.m. We steamed round the island and up the Johore Straits to the Naval Base. At the Naval Base there were thirty-eight warships of all shapes and sizes, dressed for the occasion. It was a marvellous sight steaming past them all into the big dock, and I will always remember that memorable day. My first lieutenant was the only other Australian officer in the unit, and we were very proud to be chosen. Thus an Old Boy of "Shore" took an active part in the opening ceremony of Singapore's Naval Base.

The following Wednesday was the Naval Ball at Government House in honour of the occasion of the Dock Opening. It was a most enjoyable and colorful evening. The Malay Sultans in their gorgeous costumes added much to the splendour of the scene. It was a perfect night, and Government House grounds were all illuminated.

We finished the week by attending a big Malay wedding in Johore, at which the Johore Prime Minister and his wife were present. Malay weddings are most colorful and interesting. We were invited for 7.30 p.m., and shortly afterwards sat down to a very fine curry dinner. After dinner a car drove up, preceded by the band. The front steps of the house were guarded by the bride's friends, where a sham fight took place, and the bridegroom, victorious, dashed into the house to claim his bride. Then we were all invited inside to see the bride and bridegroom sitting on their thrones in the most beautiful costumes. After this ceremony the guests retired to the grounds, where Malay dancing and music continued till the early hours of the morning. The next afternoon about 4 o'clock we were invited to attend another part of the ceremony, when the bride and bridegroom are bathed together; this is a very old custom, and is dying out, but I was fortunate to take movie pictures of it in colour. The bride and bridegroom appear in very fine white costumes, and sit side by side on a special dais. An old member of the family, the bride's grandfather in this case, blesses them and sprinkles water on them. Then the old women set to work with great ceremony really to bath them both by pouring quantities of specially prepared water over them. After all this the couple are wrapped together in a beautifully embroidered cloth, and tied together by a fine twine, which is passed round and round them. The twine is then burnt; this, I understand, symbolises that only death can part them. They then retire, and appear again most beautifully dressed on the original throne. These were two of the ceremonies we were invited to see, but there were other religious parts at which only the families were present. The entire wedding extended over four days. Royal weddings last a week, or even longer.

A TRIP TO SINGAPORE BY QANTAS EMPIRE AIRWAYS.

(By T. O. Watson.)

I was, of course, thrilled when I first heard I was to fly to Singapore and spend my vacation with my parents there. During the last five years I had only seen my father for two months during 1935. I therefore left Sydney by train on Thursday, 2nd December, and arrived in Brisbane on Friday. There I was met and taken to the Hotel Canberra, where a room was booked ; thence on to Qantas Office, where I was weighed. At 5.15 a.m. next morning I was awakened, given some tea, and motored to the Aerodrome. It was 8 a.m. before the R.M.A. Brisbane Qantas Empire Airways left with nine passengers on board.

I was thrilled when we left the ground. There was a head wind, and we flew at 5000 feet. It was very bumpy the whole of the first day, and it was worse than being in a ship at sea. Most of the passengers were sick. We first landed at Roma about 9.30 a.m., where we had tea and sandwiches. Then we flew on to Charleville, where we had lunch. At Blackall we landed and took on petrol, then hopped to Longreach for afternoon tea. From Longreach we flew to Cloncurry, where we had dinner and stayed the night.

Next morning we left at 6 o'clock, and came down at Mount Isa, 100 miles away. The plane was very steady, although the pilot said that round Mount Isa was generally very bumpy. It proved to be quite a large town, and looked from the air very interesting, being encircled by hills. Its population is 4500, and it boasts of one of the world's largest silver-lead mines. For breakfast we came down at Camooweal, right near the border of Queensland and North Australia and the gateway to the Barkly Tableland, which is a very big cattle raising centre. The rabbit-proof fence marking the boundary between Northern Australia and Queensland is only twelve miles away, and can be clearly seen from the air. Next we landed at Brunette Downs, a lonely cattle station, and took on some petrol. Then we flew to Newcastle Waters on the north of the Barkly Tableland, and later on to Daly Waters for lunch. Daly Waters is where "Qantas" joins with the Western Australian Airways. It was there I took the photo. of the big S cut in a tree (which has been preserved) by the explorer, John Macdowall Stuart. After lunch we set out for Darwin, 328 miles away. We flew at 10,000 feet, and caught our first sight of the Timor Sea about fifteen minutes before our arrival in Darwin. We stayed that night in a cottage near the sea, which Qantas rents from Vestey Bros. It is near the famous Vestey's Meatworks, a very large modern meatworks which opened with a flourish of trumpets in 1917, ran for about three years, closed on account of a strike and cost of production, and has remained closed ever since.

At 6 a.m. on Monday we started out for our long flight over the Timor Sea to Koepang, on the Island of Timor. It was rather a monotonous flight of nearly four hours, for after losing sight of Bathurst Island, the last of Australia to be seen, no land came in sight until about twenty minutes before reaching Koepang. Timor means "East" in the Malay language, and is the most eastern island of the Dutch East Indies (D.E.I.). At Koepang we had breakfast, and flew on to Rambang, on the Island of Lombok. From Koepang until nearing Singapore, a distance of over 1700 miles, our course was over Dutch possessions, and our ports of call—Sourabaya, Batavia and Muntok—were in the D.E.I. After lunch at Rambang we flew on to Sourabaya, where we were due to stay the night.

Sourabaya, which is the centre of a great sugar trade, and sometimes referred to as the commercial capital of Java, is near the eastern end of that very rich fertile island, which is Holland's most valuable possession, and carries a population of about 40,000,000. The high mountains with very attractive scenery and old Hindu temples (the Javanese are now Moslems) attract thousands of tourists from all over the world. It was about 4 p.m. when we landed at Sourabaya, and as I stepped out of the plane a man said: "Hallo! How did you get here? School hasn't broken up yet." He turned out to be the father of a boy at 'Shore, and he recognised my School uniform. Two things particularly impressed me at Sourabaya. One was the number of bicycles, and the other the funny small three-wheeled taxis nicknamed "submarines." Next morning we flew to Batavia, the capital of Java, where we had breakfast. As this was the day we were due in Singapore, I was getting very excited. Generally, Qantas fly direct from Batavia to Singapore; but as we had a heavy load of mails, we landed about half-way at Nuntok, on the Dutch Island of Bankar, where I took a few snaps. This delayed our arrival at Singapore until 3.15 p.m.

The Singapore Air Port amazed me. It is one of the most modern in the world. Three advantages are: (a) Proximity to the centre of the city, which is only two miles away; (b) free aerial approaches; (c) combined facilities for both land and marine aircraft. The landing ground alone occupies 162 acres. It has been planted with grass, and is circular in shape, with a diameter of 1000 yards. Previously this area was an evil-smelling tidal swamp, and the whole project of reclamation and buildings, etc., cost £1,050,000. Adjoining the Aerodrome is the famous Singapore Swimming Club, which is considered one of the finest in the world. Most of the days in Singapore were spent at this swimming club, and it was there with my parents that I saw the New Year in. Actually I was first in the pool in 1938.

EXPLORING THE UPPER KOWMUNG.

(By J. L. M. and A. H. B. C.)

Towards the end of last year, several boys in our form decided to go for a hike during the Christmas vacation, and asked one of the masters, Mr. Mander-Jones, to take us. As he also was keen on hiking, he immediately agreed to our suggestion, and we soon had out innumerable maps of the Blue Mountains, trying to decide where we should go. We finally fixed on the Kowmung River. Our leader had already been from Jenolan Caves to Kanangra Wells, and thence to Yerranderie, so we decided, instead of going along the usual marked track, that it would be interesting to explore the Boyd or Morong Creek, and the Upper Kowmung River.

After many more arrangements had been made, we at last met, "under the clock," at Central. We must have appeared a weird collection of boys with our coloured shirts, khaki shorts, socks of all kinds, and shoes or boots, and with our packs bulging with blankets. Hats have always been a useful medium whereby boys, as well as women, may express their individual tastes, and this time proved no exception. Troppers, all colours, were in predominance, but the cadet hat was also represented, and a very good sun-shade it proved, with its wide brim. Straw hats, one with a School tie draped around the crown, proved useful, while one boy went with no hat at all. Rope, frying pans and billies or dixies hung outside our packs, and three boys, who had been hiking before, had waterbottles hanging from their necks. In this fashion we trooped into a waiting train and settled down for our lengthy trip to Mount Victoria. Two of us had bought shilling magazines, but after trying to read this rubbish for half an hour we put them away and resorted to the penny halfpenny paper!

Arriving at Mount Victoria we filed, with our mountainous packs, into the Railway Dining Hall, and for two shillings bought one of those dinners which have made the Railways famous. This was, incidentally, our last meal in civilization for a week.

While waiting for the service car, we made good use of the railway balance, and found we had three packs well over forty pounds, and the rest well up in the twenties or thirties. After a pleasant and comfortable drive, we reached Jenolan Caves at half-past three, and immediately set out to stagger up the Oberon Road at the beginning of our 2000 feet climb, with an average gradient of one in five, and in some places one in three or even steeper. About 200 yards from the Hotel we turned to the left, past a small dam, and climbed slippery leaf-strewn ridges till we reached the Kanangra Wells Road, which was just being re-made by a large gang of men.

We pushed on till about six o'clock, when the trees thinned out, and we came upon an open paddock, where the usual two or three old trees were still growing near the site of the farm house. In the fading light this scene looked very pretty; everything had a rosy tint, and the old deserted huts and trees cast long shadows on the ground. A hundred yards further on we crossed a fence and came to Budthingeroo Creek, and our camping ground for the night. We quickly pitched the tents and soon had the billies boiling and tea ready, and after a sing-song we all turned in. One of the party, who fished for trout, was delighted when he found the Budthingeroo Creek was alive with small brook trout.

The next morning we followed the road for about seven miles, and came to the Boyd, in which we wallowed to our hearts' content, after our hot march. When lunch was over, we left the road and plunged into the unknown bush! Sometimes we tramped along solid grassy banks, sometimes we hopped from rock to rock in the river bed, and sometimes we floundered, and waded and squelched, cut by sword-grass, through marsh and swamp. At one stage the Boyd became a swamp for some two miles. It was while splashing through this swamp that we saw our first kangaroos, three of them, hopping through the high grass. At last we came to the Kowmung Valley—or should I say the Kowmung Gorge?—with the river a tiny thread 1200 feet below us.

After a brief rest and a survey of the country, we started our rough and rather dangerous descent down the loose and rugged side. At the start we all had to spread out to find a way down, and while doing this someone's pack was caught up by two rocks. Getting it down, the pack slipped and crashed, bumped and banged its way down for perhaps fifty feet, where it was stopped by a friendly tree. Later he found he had but one whole egg left, while his tooth paste had squashed, and he had to spend most of his swimming time in washing his money and clothes free from that sticky substance. In spite of accidents, however, we managed to reach the bottom by swinging ourselves down on trees and crawling on hands and knees through the undergrowth; and there saw the Morong falling in a sheer forty-foot drop into a large and very deep rock pool, wherein, after peeling off our wet and muddy clothes, we immediately plunged.

Our first day down the river was spent scrambling over rocks and boulders, in traversing, as the crow flies, four and a half miles. We then came to the gorges; these consisted of almost perpendicular rock cliffs, rising straight from the river, which in many cases flows through a narrow rock gutter as it roars, crashes and foams its way to lower levels. In passing these gorges we either had to climb right up to the top and then push on, coming down when we thought we had passed them, or we would have to crawl and worm our way along the bottom, beside the river. We preferred the latter, because several times we came down after passing one gorge only to be confronted around the bend by another. In one place we had to send a boy up a cliff to tie a rope to a tree, so that we could climb up, pulling our packs behind us. Once on the river, we had to lower packs and clothes over a huge boulder and swim round to them. One of the strangest things we saw was a large rocky formation, about 500 feet above us, which very closely resembled an old man with a red nose and pink cheeks.

While on the river we saw twelve kangaroos, two wombats (which immediately trotted off when they saw us), many birds including some pigeons, an opossum, a huge goanna, fully seven feet from tip to tail, and, last but not least, a snake.

On Tuesday we came to the river, "which we couldn't get across," but we did not jump on any niggers! Instead we rigged a flying fox, an ingenious device consisting of a rope stretched from tree to tree, from which the packs are slung and pulled over—if all goes well! The first pack started its perilous adventure safely, but as it approached the middle the rope began to sag and sway alarmingly. We pulled and held for dear life, but still it sagged, until the pack dipped in and came out again. This pack was dipped three times. But "practice makes perfect," and by the time the last pack was to go it came across dry.

We tried to reach Church Creek, where we were to leave the Kowmung that night, but we had to halt when darkness fell, and went to sleep convinced that the creek was only a mile further on.

Camp was struck by six o'clock, and we left expecting to find Church Creek and to be in Yerranderie at noon, so as to catch the service car home. In point of fact, we walked on and on until we came to a creek, where we very joyfully sat down and waited for the leader to decide if it were our definite objective. Very disappointed we were to hear it was not Church Creek at all. There was nothing for it but to go on, and this we did. No less than three creeks were passed, each one of which we hoped might prove Church Creek. We lunched that day on a black pudding (swine's blood and suet), and had hard work to beat the flies to it! This was almost the end of our provisions. We had a rest and then pushed on, although we knew that we had no chance of getting a service car until the next day. With great joy we arrived at Church Creek at about five o'clock, and, after a swim, we had our frugal tea—two johnny cakes each, some dates, and tea or cocoa. At seven o'clock we left to get through to Yerranderie that night. Following the limestone creek for almost a mile, the track turns left and climbs up fully 2000 feet, in places following the knife-edge of the ridge. Finally we reached the top of the range, when the twilight was just fading, and, as we rested, we gazed out over the still, silent, hazy mountains, to see the twinkling lights of Blackheath on the horizon. We now went on by torchlight, singing songs when going downhill. It is funny that each camp or hike gets its popular songs. Once it was "A Tavern in the Town," and then "Clementine," but this time it was that good old tune, "Lincolnshire Poacher." We at last reached a waterhole, and there, to the tune of croaking frogs, had some chocolate and water.

After a brief quarter-hour rest we pushed on, and were soon walking mechanically. I think if the track had not been hard to follow we would have fallen asleep on the march. A large grassy glade, the haunt of kangaroos, lay across our path, and looked very strange and silent in the hanging mist that covered it. At last, about half-past seven, we strayed off the track, and nothing remained but to halt for the night. We took out ground sheets and blankets, and at once fell into a sound sleep on the hard, rocky ground. We had been up since five o'clock that morning, and by half-past eleven at night had covered a good twenty miles.

Next morning we left at six o'clock, soon found where we had missed the track, and walked into Yerranderie by 6.45 a.m. Both the Post Office and the store opened specially for us, and we breakfasted sumptuously on saveloys, tinned peaches and cream. It was a scorchingly hot morning, but at 11.30 Mrs. Henderson kindly called for us and drove us back to Sydney.

Thus we traversed in five days a very interesting seventy-five miles of the wildest and roughest country in the Blue Mountains, although as the crow flies it is a bare twenty-one miles from Jenolan to Yerranderie.

THE VIKING SHIP.

The wind blows hard and bitterly,
 And whips the waves to icy spume ;
 A Viking ship, towards the coast,
 A shapeless, silent, wraith-like ghost,
 Is sailing to its doom,
 Through the gloom.
 It writhes and swirls through mist and sleet,
 And battles on, for life is dear :
 The tiller's lashed ; the sail's in rags ;
 The lookout at the masthead sags,
 For Death is drawing near,
 And Fear :
 From out the fog the rocks loom up ;
 The lookout shouts, but useless sound ;
 The vessel strikes with dreadful shock,
 The timber rends against the rock,
 And men are swirling round,
 To be drowned.

ROWING REPORT, 1938.

The season actually began early in Term III., 1937, when the members of last year's crews began the coaching of tyros at Berry's Bay for the House Regatta, which took place at Gladesville on October 20th. In the meantime the VIII. had begun paddling, with T. W. Wise mostly in the stern, and by the House Regatta the crew had had several rows with Mr. Robson.

Mr. Burrell was at this stage busy sorting out the products of the House rowing, and on the last day of Term III. a meeting was held of those selected to attend Christmas Camp. B. P. Jay had in the meantime been elected Captain of Boats by the Sports Executive.

The Christmas Camp took place during the last fortnight of the holidays, beginning on January 25th. Mr. Burrell was in charge as usual, and Mr. Gilfillan was also present, assisting in the coaching of the fours and doing some very useful service for us in the carpentry line.

The same happy spirit of co-operation and keenness which animated the 1937 Camp was reproduced, and useful conditioning work was done by the VIII. and four IV.'s, who were in residence at the Shed. The opportunity was taken to go up to the Nepean River to see the Empire crews, who were training there.

The VIII. had no veterans back, but was made up entirely from last year's 1st, 2nd and 3rd IV.'s. There were three members from last year's 1st IV. : Jay, Woodward and Starkey rowing at 7, 6 and bow respectively. Banyard, Pritchett and Cameron from the 2nd IV. were occupying the stroke, 5 and 2 seats, and Barnes and Marshall from the 3rd IV. were at 4 and 3. It was an easy matter to select the 1st IV. At the end of Camp, this crew—made up of Willsford, bow ; Brown, 2 ; Geddes, 3 ; and Forsyth, stroke—were doing excellent work. Windeyer, cox of last year's 1st IV., made a very generous gesture when he offered to cox 2nd IV., and to hand over 1st IV. to Golding, cox of last year's 2nd IV. Wotton, cox of last year's VIII., again had charge of the VIII.'s rudder lines.

However, it was not at all easy to select the remaining fours, as the material offering, though keen and enthusiastic, was young and lacked weight. Also, just when it looked as if everything was progressing most smoothly, several incidents occurred which changed the face of things. Pritchett, in the VIII., strained his back, and so Geddes, who was already being tried out for the VIII., was taken from the 1st IV., and there was no one to go back to fill his place. Soon after Brown left School, and so a new 3 and a new 2 had to be found. These positions were subsequently filled by Fisher and Bartley, and this combination has made very satisfactory progress.

During the Easter Training Camp, which commenced on Friday, 1st April, one month before the race, the opportunity for real keenness was increased, and the three crews, now all settled, finally set themselves out to win.

An account of the junior races, which took place at Gladesville on Saturday, 23rd April, appears elsewhere. The traditional coxes' race, rowed between Shore and Grammar in tub pairs, was won quite easily by Shore with the same crew as last year.

Over the last few weeks the VIII. was assisted by Old Boys' crews, who came up and provided good rowing company. Several rows were also arranged with the N.S.W. King's Cup crew and with St. Paul's College, which latter crew trained from the Shed. To have such a strong crew as the State VIII. was found to be very beneficial to the School VIII.'s work. Of course, the two fours are in the fortunate position of always having each other for a pacemaker. The presence of Old Boy rowers and their attendant interest is always a useful element in the last stages, and we shall always welcome any who can come up and give us the benefit of their experience and criticism. Charles Helsham, Esq., also showed great interest all through the season, even taking some of us and tubbing as far back as Term III. last year, and has given us helpful advice on many occasions. We shall always be pleased to see him at the Shed. We are also indebted to the following for their kindnesses, such as the gifts of fruit, donations, and the offering of their cars: Mrs. W. A. Purves, Mr. A. D. Fisher, Mr. Starkey, Mr. Bartley, Mr. Cameron, Mr. R. Ludowici, Mr. Golding, Mr. Jay, Mr. Banyard. Mrs. Burrell again cooked for us, and well, too, for the appetites never seemed to be satisfied!

THE REGATTA.

Ideal conditions both for rowers and spectators prevailed at Penrith. A warm day, with a faint breeze just stirring the water, was exactly what was wanted to make the Regatta a thorough success.

Since last year great alterations to the river banks have been begun, and, when turfed, the new terraces will be a decided improvement. This year, the dusty conditions were rather trying.

The race for 2nd Fours resulted in a good win for St. Joseph's, with High School second. Our own crew came up from well behind to fill third place with a good finish.

The 1st Fours race was deservedly won by High School, who boated a good crew. They were forced to go all out to stave off a very plucky finish by our crew, who, when seemingly right out of it, came so hard at the finish that they were a real danger. It was a good piece of work, and roused all to enthusiasm.

Then came the Eights. Everyone knew that we wanted calm water and, if possible, a following wind, to assist our crew, which was the lightest of all the crews. We got the calm water, but were denied the wind. From the gun, High and Shore began to show out slightly, and it became obvious that for once the experts had been right in picking the best crews. After a ding-dong race, with little in it for anyone, Shore spurred. After a few strokes, however, someone "missed" and the boat was seen to falter ominously ; but only one stroke was lost, and a wonderful recovery saw the boat moving again. The rate quickened without perceptible loss of length, and our hopes rose as High and Shore battled it out to a splendid finish. So close was it that no one was satisfied until the judge's boat showed the blue and white first. Newington had been rowing along well, and finished a good third. The official result showed a margin of three feet in favour of Shore, and the time was given as 8 mins. 26 secs. And so to town once more !

SWIMMING.

The 36th Annual Swimming Carnival was held at the North Shore Olympic Pool on March 7th this term, and was a great success.

During the term teams have been picked to represent the School in the G.P.S. relays, and we must congratulate High and Grammar on their victories in these relays.

The House Competition was won by Robson with 43½ points ; School House was second with 39½ points, next Hodges with 39 points, and Barry last with 31 points.

CRICKET NOTES.

1st XI.

The following played for the 1st XI. during the term : J. Wearne (captain), Colwell (vice-captain), Connor, Alexander, Richardson, Lyttle, Lang, Way, Brien, Helsham, Coulton, Haley, and G. Wearne.

The team is fortunate in possessing accurate bowlers of different types. They are : G. Wearne, right hand fast outswing ; Haley, fast, with an occasional ball that breaks back ; Connor, slow medium swing bowler ; and Alexander, slow left arm. John Wearne, on his day, is a very good leg break bowler, but so far has not achieved consistency. These bowlers, backed by good fielding, should dismiss most sides cheaply ; but unfortunately the fielding has been very bad at times. For example, against High School four catches were dropped between 65 and 84.

The batting has been disappointing. Too many players have thrown their wickets away by playing across straight ball ; they seem to be possessed with the foolish ambition of scoring too many of their runs by hitting to square leg. They forget that a straight ball, short of good length, can be hit for four in front of the wicket with safety. Colwell has been the most consistent ; he plays his best cricket when he hits the ball hard. Lang and Way had good partnerships in the first two matches, when the side was in a bad position; they showed real ability, and also proved that they are temperamentally fitted for making big scores. John Wearne had batted in excellent form at the nets, and, as usual, should score well again in third term. Connor has shown remarkable improvement, and his innings of 73 against High School was an excellent performance. Alexander, too, has improved, and can now get runs against good bowling. Lyttle possesses a sound defence against swing bowling, and has improved against slow bowling; much is expected of him in the future. Of the others, Coulton has a very good defence; Brien possesses good shots; Richardson is effective when he hits the ball hard; while Haley and G. Wearne are likely to develop well.

John Wearne showed increasing skill as captain, and set the team an example in the field by his certainty in catching, his anticipation, and accurate throwing.

v. Old Boys, at Northbridge, 12th February, 1938.

Won by 19 runs on the first innings.

This match had particular interest for the School team. E. S. White, now on tour with the Australian XI. in England, captained the Old Boys. J. Wearne, captain of the School XI, took the opportunity at lunch to wish him a happy tour, with plenty of wickets and runs. The game was interesting, with bowlers dominating play, most of the batsmen being out of form so early in the season. School batted first, and made the modest score of 136, J. Wearne (30) and Richardson (39) doing best. Both left-handers, they hit the ball hard in front of the wickets. Busby (3 for 12) and Creagh (3 for 32) were the most successful bowlers.

On paper, the Old Boys' batting was strong, but they could total only 117, Tyrell (22), White (24) and Vincent (19) being the chief scorers.

v. T.S.C., at Northbridge, 19th and 26th February, 1938.

Won on the first innings by 36 runs.

Scots batted first, and looked like making a very big score, the opening partnership being 105. But after lunch the bowlers, particularly Way, struck form, and the total was 207. Way (5 for 51) and Alexander (3 for 51) were the most successful bowlers.

Our innings was most interesting, for after a good start there was a collapse, and the batsmen found difficulty in passing the total of Scots. Colwell and Helsham put on 57 for the first wicket. Then Helsham was caught and bowled by Ross, the leg break bowler, and soon after Colwell mis-hit a ball and was caught at cover. Lyttle and J. Wearne played out time, and at stumps the score was 2 for 99. The second day began badly, as Lyttle (12) and Coulton (0) were out in the first two overs. When J. Wearne was soon after stumped by See on the leg side off fast bowler Coutts—a brilliant piece of work—the score was 5 for 113. Richardson and Lang took the score to 131, when Richardson (12) was bowled. At this stage, Scots looked to have a very good chance of a lead on the first innings, but Lang and Way, playing their first competition match, batted well and put on 42 runs; then Alexander stayed with Lang until the score was 216. Lang was assisted by the last two men to take the score to 253. He was 94 not out, and had batted very well; he drove hard, and hit with judgment to the outfield.

In their second innings, Scots made 122, See (24) and Perry (35) doing best against good bowling by Alexander (5 for 19) and G. Wearne (4 for 38).

This left 77 runs to make for an outright win in 65 minutes. A good start was made, as at five minutes past five the score was 1 for 37. But rain fell heavily, and the match was abandoned.

v. Newington College, at Northbridge, 5th and 12th March, 1938.

Won outright by an innings and 73 runs.

Newington batted first, and their young and inexperienced players could not cope with the bowling, except Matthews (20) and White (18). Matthews played many excellent shots, one square out off G. Wearne being outstanding. Their total was 58. Alexander had the remarkable average of 5 for 12.

Our early batsmen, except Colwell (21), failed, and four were out for 38. Then Lang and Way had a good partnership, and took the score to 138. They gave a chance or two, and nearly ran each other out several times, but they were always interesting to watch, as they each hit hard and were ever ready to go for the runs. Alexander (34) did best of the others, and the total was 217.

Newington in the second innings were out for 86, G. Wearne (4 for 8), Haley (2 for 10) and J. Wearne (3 for 27) sharing the wickets.

v. Riverview, at Northbridge, 19th and 26th March, 1938.

Lost outright by 5 runs.

Riverview batted first, and made only 82, G. Wearne (4 for 10) and Alexander (4 for 25) being responsible for the collapse.

Lyttle (21) and Colwell (36) gave the School a good start, the opening partnership being worth 52. Then they were out in successive overs by hitting across straight balls, Lyttle being clean bowled and Colwell bowled off his pads. (Two for 63.) Lang was next, but was run out after scoring a single. This run out probably cost the match. Coulton (23) batted solidly, and Brien made 17 quickly with good strokes. Apart from Connor (9 not out), the others failed, and the total was 166.

Riverview did much better in the second innings, Finn (42), Uechtritz (81), Wootten (25) and Slocum (33) being chiefly responsible for their score of 213. G. Wearne (4 for 41) and Alexander (3 for 53) did best with the ball.

Our second innings began badly, and finally 7 were out for 69. This looked rather hopeless, as 130 runs were needed to win. The last men, Connor (28) and Alexander (15), very nearly won the match by sound batting, but the last wicket fell at 124, five runs short of the Riverview total. We congratulate Riverview on their excellent win from what appeared a hopeless position.

v. S.H.S., at Northbridge, 2nd and 9th April, 1938.

Lost outright by 8 wickets.

For the first time Wearne won the toss, and batted on a good wicket. The total was 85, the batsmen being impotent against the bowling of Cristofani (5 for 33) and Gowanloch (4 for 25).

High School began badly, the first wicket falling at 4 and the second at 5. The collapse continued, and they had lost 7 for 59. Up to this stage the fielding had been good, and the bowling excellent; but all chance of a first innings lead was thrown away by bad catching. No less than four easy catches were dropped between 59 and 84, the batsmen, Gray and Dent, each giving two chances. Gray finally made 78 not out and Dent 31. Cristofani (47) helped them to take the score to 218. Haley (3 for 56) did best with the ball. G. Wearne (2 for 49) bowled really well, but had an unlucky day, as he could not hit the wickets; neither could the batsmen snick the ball to the slips.

The second innings began at 5.30 p.m., and at stumps two were out for 11, Connor and Brien being the not out batsmen. On the second day two wickets fell early, and the score was 4 for 41. Then Connor and Colwell made a valiant effort to win the match ; they put on 111 runs for the fifth wicket, each batting well. After settling down, they were severe on the slow bowling. Connor's judgment was excellent, and he scored many a four to square leg by good timing and placing. He made 73 before being bowled by Cristofani. Colwell played the best innings of his career, and one of the best innings seen at Northbridge for years. His on-side play was particularly good, and he hit the straight short balls very hard on either side of the bowler. He showed his team mates how to deal with the short ball—a demonstration which they needed, for many had lost their wickets by hitting across a straight ball. Coulton was absent on account of an injury, and the remaining batsmen failed, the score being 173.

This left High School 40 runs to make, which they did for the loss of two wickets. Scores :—

7th and 8th XI's.

These teams have been fortunate in having so many games while the grounds at Northbridge are being reconditioned. Matches were played against Waverley, Newington, Riverview, and Scots ; and one was played between the boarders of School and Robson House, the latter winning. As there have been about fifty boys on the roll, the teams have been constantly changed. Net practices have been well attended. Batting is poor on the whole. There is hardly a boy who will attempt to leave his crease either to punish slow bowling or for forward defence. Parkes i., Campbell and Ibbott are beginning to do this, however. Lambell ii. and Martin are reliable run-getters. Some improvement has been shown by Little, Middleton, Gibb, Hardie, Young iii., Butler, Hough, Woolard, Bracie, Lawne, Frost, Long, Biddulph, Butler and Robertson.

Ibbott, Evans i., Hough, Batchelor, Way ii. and Middleton have been successful bowlers.

Little, Long, Pearce and Ogden have been useful captains.

Trenerry and Nivison, from the "B" Colts, have been very useful additions sometimes.

HOUSE CRICKET.

Only 23 of the 30 matches comprising the first round were played this term. The results of the matches were as follows:—

School House	66 points
Hodges House	52 "
Barry House	48 "
Robson House	34 "

The following batting and bowling performances were outstanding:—

Batting: Goodman (School 4ths), 70; Tilley (Barry 1sts), 88; Briend (Barry 5ths), 53 not out; Epton (Robson 2nds), 53, 32; Kelly (Robson 5ths), 45; Scandrett (Barry 2nds), 36; Chapman (Barry 1sts), 40.

Bowling: Moors (Hodges 5ths), 5 for 1; Griffiths (Robson 1sts), 6 for 10 and 5 for 20; Hordern (Barry 1sts), 5 for 37 and 4 for 31; Lawrie (Robson 5ths), 4 for 18; Hunt (Barry 5ths), 3 for 0; Dennis (School 1sts), 6 for 30. Digby and Dickson (School 1sts) each took 5 wickets in one innings.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

For a time it appeared as though there would be an excess of forwards, with the old problem of scarcity of inside backs cropping up. But practice games have been promising. There is every indication of a heavy first-class pack, and, with Connor moved up five-eighth from the full-back position, and two smart potential halves in Lyttle and Lambell offering, a good side should develop. Barnes and Marshall in the forwards (both in the VIII.), and Connor and Nathan in the backs, remain from last year's XV., whilst Alexander, Jay, Richardson and Leitch have had experience in the 1sts. Other very likely players are Stiffe, Woodward, Dally, Pritchett, Osborne, Geddes, Wileman and Dent. There are some young colts who should do well in the 2nds, and be a sound nucleus for next year.

In the first game against North Sydney High School, Shore won by 15 points to 5, scoring five unconverted tries. Surprisingly good form was shown, especially by the backs, with Connor, Wileman, Lyttle and Maxwell prominent. Stiffe and Dent also did well, but the forwards were more ragged than rugged. Five forwards should come in from the boats.

School v. C.B.C., Waverley.

The game was fast and even for the first half, both sides making determined efforts and varying the play nicely. Connor's kicking gave us an early lead of 6 points, and at half-time the score was 9-5, a try being scored by each side, ours by Richardson. Waverley attacked strongly in the second half, but good tackling held them out. With the scores 15-all Waverley made a desperate effort, but Maxwell saved a certain try with a brilliant tackle. He was injured and left the field. Dent then took the ball up-field in a good dribbling rush. Shortly afterwards, Wileman, Connor, Nathan and Lyttle combined well, and, with a well made overlap, a certain try was lost. Connor had two more chances at goal, kicking one from half-way. The final scores were 21-15 in our favour. With the rowers back, there should be more fire in the pack and extra penetration in the backs.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL NOTES.

Chapel Services.—Addresses have been given by the Chaplain and Mr. Fisher. There have been practices of new tunes, and also hymn-singing services. The Quarters now sit in separate blocks, and note is being kept of the Quarter that sings best throughout the year. At present one Quarter in particular is conspicuous.

It is noticeable that the singing in Chapel has much benefited already by the singing practice on Tuesdays. The separate Preparatory Service also seems an excellent idea.

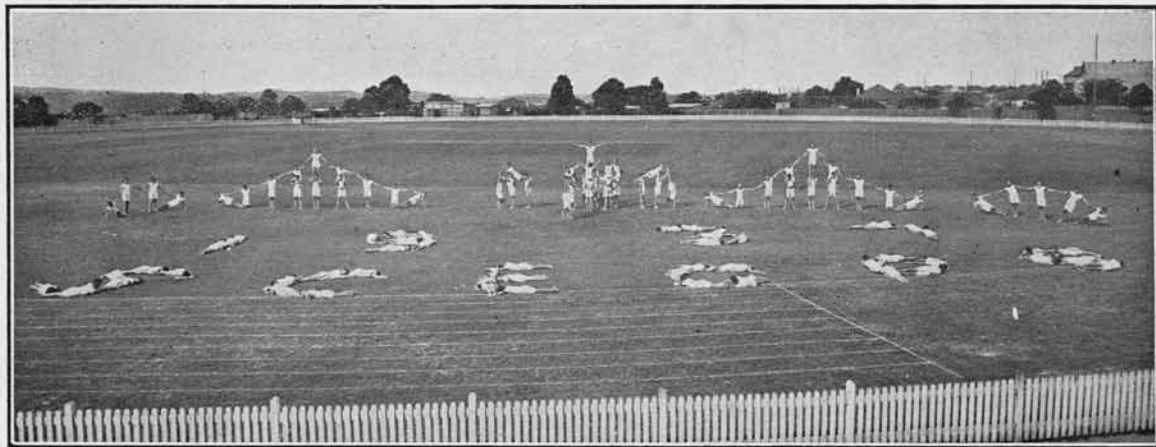

We thank Mr. Walmsley for kindly lending a record of "Jesus Christ is risen to-day" and "Jesus, lover of my soul" (tune of Aberystwith) sung by the Choir of St. George's Chapel, Windsor—one of the finest in the world. The record was played in Chapel.

Talk on British Posters.—Early in the term Miss Guy gave a delightful and most instructive talk on "British Posters." Many of the posters are the work of great artists like Norman Wilkinson, Fred. Taylor and Claude Buckle. It seemed a pity that one could have merely a cursory glance at such beautiful examples, which in themselves could form a remarkably fine art exhibition. We should welcome a repetition of this lecture.

Art Classes.—Although their drawing period lasts only half an hour each week, boys from II.A. and II.B. are showing much interest and good progress. Some are doing excellent work in their spare time, the main object of the classes being to stimulate boys to do so.

There are budding artists, too, in the lower forms. Non-singers in Remove B and Form I. are doing art once a week, when the rest are having singing.

Supplement to "The Torch-Bearer"—May 1, 1938.

Preparatory School Display, 1937.

Form I. has begun painting, and also many of the boarders are showing enough enthusiasm to ensure good results in this.

Singing.—In Form I. songs and rounds are being learnt, and most boys are able to contribute a musical item at a form concert.

We have to thank Captain Mathers and Mrs. E. E. Warren for some fine posters, and Mr. C. L. Forbes for framing a colorful poster. Our thanks are also due to Captain Mathers, who provided a launch to take the boarders out to see the Empress of Britain coming through the Heads.

Several forms have made excursions to the Technological Museum.

The Sergeant-Major has varied the daily physical drill period with some interesting games, some of which are held on the new School Oval.

The boarders have had some interesting films, and various geographical films have been shown to the different forms. Our thanks are due to Mr. Robertson for reels dealing with Ceylon.

One period a week has been given over as a singing period. We began with community singing, and have gradually seeded the boys, there remaining now 65 as a singing class, who are all keen and ready to learn. The class hopes to sing publicly at the end of the year, giving parents an opportunity to hear what progress has been made.

Amongst other songs, the class is learning "I Love Sixpence . . ." (Dunhill), "Billy Boy" with descant (arrangement by Dunhill), "Banks of Allen Water" with descant, "Windy Nights" (Stansford), "Lullaby" (Mozart).

We are very grateful to Mr. J. H. Stephenson for sixteen reproductions of original etchings by Norman Wilkinson. The subjects, "Ships of the Seven Seas," outline the evolution of ships from the Viking Long ship to the warship, linking sea and air power. Mr. Stephenson has very kindly offered to have the pictures framed.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL CRICKET.

The Prep. School cricket has been quite successful during the term. Every boy has either attended net-practice or played games twice a week, while the higher teams have had matches with other schools on Saturdays.

The 1st XI. has been somewhat more consistent than usual, as a result of improved fielding and accurate bowling. The bowling honours go to J. F. Walker and W. Marchant. Walker has taken 33 wickets in the seven matches that were played.

Outstanding with the bat was F. C. Coulton, who distinguished himself by scoring 111 on one occasion in fine style. He has been ably supported by Burns, O'Donnell, Wood, Walker and Marchant.

The results of the 1st XI. matches are as follows:—

Prep., 170 (Coulton 111, Fisher 15, Burns 15), beat St. Andrew's Choir School, 73 (Walker 7 wkts., Marchant 2 wkts.).

Prep., 88 (Wood 21, Coulton 17), beat "B" Colts, 56 (Walker 5 wkts., Marchant 3 wkts.).

St. Leonards, 80 (Walker 4 wkts., Smith 2 wkts.), beat Prep., 77 (Coulton 46, O'Donnell 15).

Prep., 79 (Wood 18, Traill 16, Coulton 13), beat Christian Brothers, 57 (Marchant 5 wkts., Coulton 4 wkts.).

Prep., 46 (Walker 26), drew with Scots, 46 (Coulton, Walker and Marchant 3 wkts. each).

Coogee, 73 (Walker 5 wkts., Marchant 4 wkts.), beat Prep., 65 (O'Donnell 22 n.o.o.).

Prep., 82 (Coulton 27, Marchant and O'Donnell 11 each), beat Mosman, 14 (Walker 6 wkts., Marchant 3 wkts.).

OLD BOYS' NOTES.

The Old Boys' Union would like to take this opportunity of wishing Mr. Robson a good trip and a good holiday. He left for America by the Mariposa on Friday, April 29, and will, we understand, be abroad till the end of the year.

Annual Dinner.—This function was again held at Killara Golf Club, on May 4. Sgt.-Major F. J. Davidson, who this year completes twenty-five years of service at the School, was the guest of honour. The toast of "The School" was proposed by Vernon Treatt, and responded to by Mr. J. Lee Pulling. The Lord Mayor, Alderman Norman Nock, proposed "The Union"; the President (Dr. St. Vincent Welch) replied. The health of the Serjeant-Major was proposed by Dr. St. Vincent Welch, and seconded by Dick Dickson and Harry Pannifex. All present agreed that the Dinner could not have been a better show.

* * * * *

Football.—Two teams were fielded against the School on the same day, May 4. Results were:—

FIRST GRADE: O.B.U., 15 (Burns 4 and Ayers tries), beat School, 9 (Connor a try and two penalty goals).

SECOND GRADE: O.B.U., 19 (Bourke 2, Reid, Hoddle and Farram tries; Robinson two goals), beat School, 3 (Goswell a try).

Golf.—The usual Stableford competition in three grades was held at Killara Golf Course on May 4. The winners were : A Grade, P. R. Esplin and D. A. Cameron ; B Grade, D. M. Dixon and K. Barnett ; C Grade, C. P. Ayers.

Annual Cricket Matches.

The Old Boys' Union fielded the usual three teams against the School on February 12, 1sts and 2nds at Northbridge, 3rds at the School. On paper, the teams looked just as invincible as ever before, but current form and condition proved the deciding factors, especially in the all-day matches, and the School came out on top in all three matches.

The 1sts had a close tussle, scores being low and conditions tiring. Ted White (since off to England with the Australian XI.) top scored for the Old Boys, but found the wicket unresponsive. It gives a kind of grim satisfaction to the bowlers amongst us to find that Archie Ferrier is still turning out those wickets that look like bowling greens and play like billiard tables.

The 2nds were soundly trounced by a team half their size, and, moreover, finished the day like a Scotchman's dozen of wet rags. "Professor Picard" Keegan provided some amusement by bowling those ones that "go up and come down with ice on them," and one at least of the other bowlers showed that he had not forgotten where the "patches" are on B Ground wicket.

The 3rds had an extraordinarily merry time at the School. They found the small ground conducive to fast scoring, nearly 450 runs being knocked up in about four hours. Nevertheless, the match did not appeal to all as eminently successful—not a single window in the new building was broken !

Dr. F. C. M. Jones, with his wife and family, toured the North Coast in January by caravan. Reports have it that on several occasions the camp was flooded out owing to the heavy rains experienced.

* * * * *

Dr. J. Gall and R. L. Manning also holidayed on the North Coast at Foster, where, fortunately, the weather was ideal.

* * * * *

A. C. Watt, after thirteen years' residence in Culgoora, sold out his property, and intends to live in or near Sydney in the future. Mr. Watt has always been a strong supporter of the Union, and of the Jubilee Fund, and will no doubt take an active interest in these matters in the future.

* * * * *

Bruce Coulson, of Rowena, was seen at Moree during the Celebrations Week there.

Austin Langhorne still continues to take an active interest in public affairs, being an active member of the Committee of the P.A. & H. Association, and Chairman of the Narrabri branch of the Graziers' Association.

At Wagga, Bob Nathan, assisted by Hank Pronk, Ernie Selff and Bob Cunningham, organised an enjoyable match, a fine dinner, and some really hot weather! A very enjoyable stay for a few days allowed opportunity for individual characteristics in the team to show. Vincent's painless method of back-diving found considerable support, particularly from the waters of the Murrumbidgee. "Gunner" Lewis caused a sensation as a broadcast announcer, and his sayings were discussed for days in the local Press. Bev. Mayne allowed his theological inclinations to prevail, and took holy orders. One member of the team, by his consistent attacks with bat and ball on the stratospherical altitude record, earned the title of "Professor Picard"; while a fine display of pyrotechnics was arranged at comparatively small cost.

At Goulburn the team met very genuine and well organised hospitality from the local Old Boys under the command of Colonel Twynham, with Neville Hunt adjutant. Mr. Eldershaw and Mr. Whight, who unfortunately could not do the whole tour, came to Goulburn for the match and attendant festivities. Praise must be given to Adjutant Hunt for his excellent organisation. After a glorious tea of welcome the invading troops deployed to the homes of Old Boys. Other hosts were Stanley and Harold Prell, Dick Johnson, Fred. Harris, Roy Cohen, Bunny Burnell, Gordon Deane, Tertius Bell, Herb. Chinnery and Ken. Little.

Next day, with fine weather, an easy wicket, and an excellent luncheon at the ground, there was heavy scoring, particularly by Cohen and Hunt and Vincent, with nine wickets to Gordon Deane. The party that evening, for which Dr. and Mrs. St. Vincent Welsh came up from Sydney, was most enjoyable, and a fitting conclusion to an excellent tour.

The hospitality which greeted the team in all centres was a pleasant source of embarrassment. The tour was not only a cricketing holiday for the team, but, from the viewpoint of the School and the Union, a good-will mission of real value.

John and Bruce Kerr, who are on the land at Tooraweenah, were in Dubbo over Easter taking part in the Dubbo Open Golf Tournament. John is now married. Conditions are very dry in their locality.

* * * * *

Several Old Boys who are returned soldiers came to Sydney for April 25 to take part in the Anzac Day ceremonies.

L. C. J. Broughton, who is on the land at Mendooran, has suffered bereavement. His eldest son died after an operation for appendicitis.

The father of Noel Stockwell, of Spicer's Creek, Wellington, recently died. Mr. A. J. L. Stockwell was a solicitor in Wellington.

* * * * *

Gordon Arnott, practising solicitor at Bingara, ran into a deal of trouble when the car in which he was travelling overturned and finished up in the ditch. Gordon was moved from the local hospital to Lewisham, and was operated on at the end of April. Latest reports have it that he is now much better.

It is much more pleasant to read that Clive Weston has just graduated in Law with First Class Honours and the University Medal. He also shares the John George Dalley prize for proficiency in fourth year. Others who have just graduated are John Steed, with Second Class Honours, E. O. B. Thomas, D. C. Beit and J. C. Paynter.

A Cricket Tour is Made.—In January a team of Old Boys toured the South and South-West of New South Wales. The team comprised Harry Vincent, Clinton Ayers, John Bull, Mick Busby, Bob Cadwallader, Col. Hambly, Bill Henderson, R. W. Keegan, "Gunner" Lewis, Bev. Mayne, Peter Minnett and Bill Newton. As captain, Vincent bore the burden of maintaining discipline on the field, which was, however, scarcely as great as the disciplinary responsibility thrown on Manager Keegan in respect of matters off the field, as the hospitality tendered at Cooma, Cootamundra, Wagga and Goulburn was not exactly niggardly. Led by Tony Litchfield, the Cooma lads, including Bill, Rowley, Hayden, Don. and Jeff., of the clan aforesaid, Bob Cox, the Fergusons, and that versatile Old King's Boy, Bill Wood, once again proved themselves good cricketers and better hosts. After strenuous luncheon, cricket and dinner, their kindness in putting the team up at their homes for several days was appreciated.

At Cootamundra, Tom Cowdroy had the local lads well organised, with the Gibbs, Reading and Brassingthwaite doing their share. Their hospitality did not stop at a day's cricket, a luncheon and a fine dinner. During the afternoon a demonstration of modern methods of firefighting was put on, much to the delight of the team.

Appearing opposite is a photograph of the School's Athletic Team which competed in the first Annual Combined Athletic Sports Meeting of the G.P.S. of New South Wales in 1895. This team, with 26 points, defeated The King's School (22) and Scots College (20), and thus became the first G.P.S. Athletic Premiers.

It is hoped that Old Boys who know of the whereabouts of the boys whose addresses are not given below will forward them to the Secretary of the Old Boys' Union.

P. N. Aiken : Medical practitioner. Died December 11, 1929.

A. W. Conolly : According to the Register, left for England in 1895. Present whereabouts unknown.

E. M. Sullivan : Served in South African War. Killed at Great War.

A. B. S. White : Stock and sharebroker. At present resident in Cremorne.

G. A. More : Mining engineer practising in Sydney.

A. G. Powell : Whereabouts unknown.

R. D. Hill : On the land. Address unknown.

H. D. D. Walker : Whereabouts unknown.

A. D. W. Fisher : Solicitor, now retired. Resident in North Sydney.

N. W. Turton : On the land in the Walcha district.

H. Cropper : Broker in York Street, Sydney.

A. C. Mack : Engineer with the Department of Main Roads. Living in Mosman.

N. G. Levick : Address unknown.

C. D. Abraham : Estate agent in Falcon Street, Crow's Nest.

F. C. B. Bland : Since dead. Date unknown.

A. Ritchie : Address unknown.

J. Lyne : Whereabouts unknown.

Johnnie Oatley, like most others on the land, is finding times very dry, but has been busily preparing land in the hopes of good crops next season. He and his wife recently visited Sydney for the wedding of his brother, Peter Oatley, in the School Chapel.

Lance Manning's two sons are both now at Shore. He continues to take an active interest in the public life of the town, holding, amongst other positions, the presidency of the local branch of the Returned Soldiers' League, which is a flourishing one, and also serving his fourth term on the Municipal Council.

We regret to record the death of an early Old Boy, Jim Taylor, of "Warrigal," Baradine. On April 9 he was found on the road near Coonamble with a fractured skull and jaw, and died early on April 11. His horse had evidently stumbled, and he had fallen on his head.

Jack Cockle writes from Lismore :—

There is a strong movement on foot once again to launch a G.P.S. Old Boys' Club in Lismore, and a provisional committee comprising O. Menser, P. Glynn (St. Joseph's), K. Shand (King's), and myself as secretary, has been appointed to arrange preliminary details, which will culminate in a big meeting of all Old Boys throughout the district at a big banquet on Boat Race Night. We anticipate that well over one hundred Old Boys will attend. Already Old Boy activities have been set in motion, when a team of St. Joseph's Old Boys met a team representative of the Old Boys of the other G.P.S. Schools at the grand old game of cricket. It is my misfortune to report, as captain of the combined team, that St. Joseph's on this occasion defeated us. Our side comprised H. ("Tuff") Davies, F. Hayley, J. S. Cockle (Shore), H. Shand, J. Gemmell-Smith (King's), D. McDermott (St. Ignatius'), N. Craig, H. Walker (High), A. Halls (Scots), J. Guinnane (Grammar) and B. Coates (T.A.S.).

A. G. Read, till recently Manager of the Port Macquarie branch of the Bank of New South Wales, has been forced by ill-health to relinquish his position and come to Sydney. He will return to Port Macquarie shortly.

Mervyn Paine recently distinguished himself as an amateur actor by a clever presentation of the part of Tom Prior in the comedy drama, "Outward Bound." This production was staged at the Capital Theatre, Armidale, last month, by the original London producer, and the actors were all well known locally, the proceeds being in aid of the Hospital.

Major L. M. Lemaire writes from Melbourne :—

"A gathering of eleven Old Boys took place at Phair's Hotel on March 2 last. Those present included J. M. Pitt, T. J. West, V. D. Watson, G. C. Hawker, R. J. Black, F. Ifould, R. R. Sinclair, E. S. Crane, G. Barton Browne, L. Penlington and B. Hornidge.

"Godfrey Hawker has since left for England and the Continent for an extended tour, and is not expected to return until the end of the year."

Alan J. Leslie, of Gulargambone, has lately drawn a nice block of country on "Wellshot," and is now out attending to improvements. He has been very fortunate, being one of the few south of Longreach who can boast of good feed on the property. His property adjoins "Loon-gana," where Joe Milne's people live; and he is also very handy to F. W. White, of "Whitehall," and John H. L. White, of "Booloo."

After ten years in Dubbo, C. J. Purser sold his property last year and returned to his native Orange. He is renting a cottage in Orange while the homestead is being erected on his property in the Blayney-Millthorpe district.

Dr. E. L. Hutchinson has sold his practice in Tasmania, and has now become a "country cove"; he has bought "Vermont" (a station about five miles north of Armidale), and is enjoying country life to the full.

* * * * *

Mervyn Paine writes from Armidale, describing the New England University College :—

Boooloominbah is ideally situated about three miles out of town, and has many acres of park-land and leased farm-land round about. I believe 100 acres are attached to the University Trust. Dr. Edgar Booth, the Warden, said that they hoped to get more and more of the land for their own use. They are already growing feed for the kangaroos and deer in their deer park: Renovators are still in the place, but it is gradually nearing completion. They have opened remarkably well considering the short notice with which arrangements were made. There are about twenty-four "boarders," and, with the non-resident students, some of the lectures are given to over thirty. Even now there is none too much room, so, when the thing does really take hold in a year or two, very extensive renovations and buildings will have to be provided.

Ted White writes to say that the Australian XI. are getting along together splendidly; although they hardly noticed the motion of the ship at sea, things seemed to be heaving about when they landed at Colombo. Ted is at present bewailing the loss of £15, stolen from his clothes in a bathing cubicle while he was competing in a swimming contest in the ship's pool.

The christening took place on 1st May, 1938, at St. Thomas' Church, North Sydney, of William Branthwaite Clarke. His great-great-grandfather, also William Branthwaite Clarke, was first Pastor of the Parish of St. Thomas, North Sydney, upon completion of the church in 1843, which was the first to be built on the north side of the Harbour. Previously the Rev. W. B. Clarke was Headmaster of The King's School in 1839.

Old Boys in the Faculty of Engineering at the University of Sydney forward the following notes of their doings :—P. M. Gilet and W. Isbister, who both graduated last year with First Class Honours, have just completed their one year's appointment as Commonwealth Research Scholars in Mechanical and Civil Engineering respectively. The former has been appointed for a further year, whilst the latter is proceeding to England in a few months to a position with de Haviland Aircraft Pty. Ltd. D. M. Myers is still with us as a Senior Research Fellow, doing problems on his "Graphintegrator." A. B. Podger has just graduated in Engineering Technology, and we wish him the best of luck in his new career. E. B. Henning, V. D. Burgmann, J. S. Ellis and A. H. Dreverman are now in their final year. D. A. J. Crombie and J. C. L. Henning have negotiated second year; whilst B. E. Swire, J. W. Hipsley and D. G. Walkom have successfully weathered first year, and are now tackling perhaps the hardest year of all. In the sporting activities, the Henning brothers are prominent in tennis and boxing, Swire in football and swimming, Crombie in football and athletics, whilst Hipsley in football and Ellis in athletics are still pulling their weight. Walkom has proved a real asset to the tennis team.

Members of the Union are looking forward with considerable interest to the cricket matches to be played in England during the coming season there, as it is some time since the School has been actively represented in an Australian XI. Mr. R. G. H. Walmsley, who acted as coach of the XI. during E. S. White's years at School, is a particularly happy man. White was a member of the 1st XI. for four years, and captain of the team for 1931 and 1932. The 1930 and 1931 teams were Premiers, and in 1929 the School was second in the competition. During the four years Ted scored 1318 runs at an average of 25.86, and took 175 wickets at an average of 12.1 runs per wicket. It must be obvious that his presence was a very material factor in the success of the teams of those years, and the Union wishes him every success in the forthcoming matches, and a most enjoyable trip as well.

The University Letter.

St. Andrew's College,
Newtown,

22nd April.

Dear Editor,

As usual, there are many Old Boys who are figuring prominently in 'Varsity affairs'. I think most interesting last year is the activity and success of the Rifle Club. There are only three Old Boys in the Club, all of whom were prominent. J. L. Holme was treasurer and L. A. Pockley secretary.

Johnny Holme is in final year Medicine this year, and has not an official position this time. L. S. Greenwell has been elected captain for this year.

In the Inter-'Varsity shoot, Sydney won all events, including the Imperial Shield, which is a world-wide contest. Just to inspire any shooters, I have included the score card that the team returned at 800 yards in this shoot. The total was 392/400. This is considered a world's record score, and the Club is waiting recognition. Each man averaged 49/50 :-

T. Le Gay Brereton	50
K. Furness	50
J. Cumpston	50
H. F. C. Davis	49
L. S. Greenwell	49
L. A. Pockley	48
J. R. O. Roger	48
S. Sanders	48

392

J. L. Holme was an emergency for this team.

It is probable that all these will be awarded Imperial Blues, the highest shooting award.

Other Shore boys who shot with the Club are Max. Truscott and Luke Middleton. Max. is shooting well, and will probably make the 'Varsity team this year ; he has been a consistent shot for St. Paul's College for the last four years.

I have a message from the Captain of the 'Varsity Club, who invites any Old Boys at the 'Varsity to shoot with the Club.

John Church and "Aber" Crombie have been running with the University Athletic Club. This Club had a very successful season, winning the 1st Grade Championship and the Dunn Shield.

St. Paul's College have a number of Old Boys as freshers : J. C. L. Henning, who is a Boxing Blue, and in third year Engineering ; also "Jika" Travers, who is expected to do great things for the Collebe sport—he is playing football for the Reserves at the moment. Tommy Lyttle is in his final year Medicine, and has retired from most of his sporting activities.

Frank Hayley is a fresher in Andrew's, and is training for the College Mile. Frank Hutchinson, who is so well known in the football world, has left Andrew's, and is teaching out at Trinity Grammar School.

H. G. Shaw, who is in Arts II., and has done a lot of work for Honi. Soit, the 'Varsity paper, has been elected to the Students' Representative Council.

Yours,

R. HODGKINSON.

University Notes.

Adam Lang gained First Class Honours at graduation in the Faculty of Arts.

Frank Hutchinson, showing good form with 'Varsity, was a member of the State XV. which toured Queensland.

Bill and Jika Travers have played well with 'Varsity, and Harry Vincent likewise behind the Drummoyne forwards.

In Victoria, Trevor West is having another good season with the Old Boys' Club.

For Gordon, Brian Gill is playing the right game to win him a trip to England.

Dr. Eric Susman has been appointed Honorary Neurologist to the Royal Alexandra Hospital for Children, Sydney.

Dr. A. F. Janes, of North Sydney, was graduated in Medicine in 1925, is among this year's graduates of the Sydney Law School. He is the first person to graduate in these two Faculties at the University of Sydney. The late Dr. Todd, a former secretary of the New South Wales branch of the B.M.A., held both degrees, but he graduated at an English university.

D. T. Waterhouse and M. Day have recently arrived in Canberra, and are working at the C.S.I.R., the former studying blowflies and the latter termites.

David Wood is to be congratulated on his consistent support of the Jubilee Fund. For about twelve months he has been organising monthly tennis tournaments in aid of the fund.

B. G. Littler, who has returned to active interest in Newcastle business after a short illness, has been appointed to the chairmanship of the Newcastle and County Permanent Building and Investment Company.

E. N. Allen is an active member of the recently formed Newcastle Stock Exchange.

Fergus Boundy writes from Brisbane :—

Rod. Colquhoun looks after the interests of the Broken Hill Pty. in this State, whilst another old Mosman boy in Erik Virtue has some well-established agencies.

Rex Beale was soldiering in Toowoomba when last I saw him ; and another newcomer to Brisbane is Geoffrey Reading, who manages Spalding's Office.

Since the issue of the last "Torch-Bearer," I have joined the ranks of the "marrieds." Another to go down the same primrose path is "Yed" Boazman, who recently took Betty Fletcher to wife at Roma.

Among the older Old Boys are T. S. L. Armstrong, who manages "Corona" Station, in the Longreach district, and has a property of his own in the south-west ; and L. A. Childe, a pastoral inspector for various organisations in this State. Mr. Childe is, if memory serves me right, No. 3 on the School Register.

Cecil te Kloot is a grazier, with more than one property in the Cunnamolla district ; and Jack Jamieson controls a large territory in Central Queensland for the Shell organisation.

Cedric Cleghorn plays a big part in the sport of kings ; he is an executive of the Queensland Turf Club.

I met Peter Bell having a holiday in Brisbane recently. He has sold his farm near Brisbane, and is now a grazier in the Barcardine district. Fairly close to him is Tom Shadforth, who has a particularly good property at Aramac.

Amongst the wool buyers who regularly attend Brisbane sales are Gordon Vaughan, Lindsay Bell, Ian Dodds, Neville Manning, Jerry Ayrton, Jim Booth and John Allerton ; the latter, although famous in other directions, is the trade's white hope in the golfing world.

Alan Dawson and Peter Black are with the C.S.R. Co., whilst Harvey Higgs manages for United Chemical Industries Ltd.

Russell Cuppage contested a State seat here in the recent elections under the U.A.P. banner, and did well enough to suggest that his chances of success next time are very bright.

Extract from Letter received from C. K. Roberts, describing flight from Sydney to New Guinea, with Miss Barbara Hitchen as pilot, in the Moth 'plane Felicity, under date February 12, 1938 :—

We left Sydney in really horrible weather, getting off about 7.30 a.m. on February 21, 1938. We left in a drizzle of rain, and soon realised we were in for something. Over the Harbour at about 500 feet we could see only a few yards ahead. We made out to sea and got down to 200 feet in order to dodge the clouds, and so to Newcastle ; often the coastal cliffs, which we kept a hundred yards or so to our left, were higher than the 'plane, and the surf breaking at the base of them did not look so pleasant. At times it was very bumpy, and over near Port Stephens we turned almost on our back, and so suddenly that only my safety belt saved me from going out. After that, more nasty weather to Coffs Harbour, where it cleared, and we had a good run inland to Grafton, where we landed at about 11.30 a.m. We were in the air again about 1 p.m., and flew out towards Tweed Heads, and so up the coast to Southport, where we headed inland and could soon see Brisbane. This last section had been in fine weather. We landed on Archerfield at 3 o'clock, and once more found the camera brigade in wait. After seeing the 'plane refuelled and hanged, we had afternoon tea at the Club House and then into town. Of course, we had been wet in the 'plane, and got very muddy on the Grafton 'drome, and so arrived at the Hotel Canberra looking like a couple of tramps and collected amazed looks from the occupants of the lounge. I was very tired, and in bed soon after dinner.

Up at 5 a.m., and on the 'drome for 6 a.m. breakfast at the Club House. We took off about 7 a.m. into a nasty looking sky, and we had plenty of rough stuff as far as Maryborough ; after that it cleared, but remained very bumpy indeed. At last we picked up Rockhampton, and landed there very stiff after four and a half hours in the air. Had a cup of tea while the 'plane was refuelled, and off again just after 12 o'clock ; and so to Mackay, where we again refuelled, and only stayed fifteen minutes, as headwinds all day had put us back and we had to hurry to make Townsville in daylight. At last we picked up Magnetic Island, and then could see Townsville, and passed over the city just after 7 p.m., and landed in the dusk. We could not see too well, having come out of the sunlight into twilight, for the sun was still up at our altitude, though already set on the ground. Anyway, we made a good landing amongst a lot of sandhills, and then, of course, realised it was not the 'drome. Vast numbers of kids arrived and gave us instructions as to how to locate the 'drome, after which we had them move sundry empty bottles and kerosene tins ahead of us, and off we went. Soon spotted a big paddock with a shed, several cars and people, circled the latter, and were signalled down by all of them. Made another good landing, only to find ourselves on the Rifle Range, where the people had been having a pigeon shoot. They explained that, seeing us land the first time and then come up again, they guessed us to be lost, and so signalled us down in order to explain where the 'drome was, which they proceeded to do. Needless to say we cursed, as it was getting darker and darker. However, off we went again, and this time spotted the 'drome; there was no mistake this time, as we could see the wind sock and hangar. By this time it was just about properly dark, but we got down and put "Felicity" to bed by the aid of electric light. We got into town soon after 8 o'clock, and had a much needed bath, and then a wonderful feed about 8.30 p.m., the first since 6 a.m.

Next morning it was raining again, but we were used to that by this time, so got out to the 'drome, where we refuelled and got off about 8 a.m. From Townsville we headed for Cairns by way of the Hinchinbrook Passage. The flight up the Passage was a wonderful one, a hundred times more wonderful than the trip through by boat. We arrived at Cairns, and had a spell there, and then on to Cooktown, where we found the 'drome a very nasty one. At length we made a perfect cross-wind landing, and were both much relieved. No hangar there, so we tied the machine down and proceeded into town. Afterwards we went for a drive around the place, and had tea that night at the Hospital as guests of the Matron.

We awoke next morning to find it raining, as usual, but decided to carry on. On account of the nasty 'drome, we took off with enough petrol to take us to Somerset, and a little reserve only in case of headwinds. We did not like the idea of trying to take off with any extra weight, though the tanks were there. Anyway, away we went into some delightful tropical thunderstorms! Most of this section was over water, hopping across the bays from headland to headland, and we had to fly very low in order to keep below the actual clouds, though still in rain. However, on we went for four and a half hours, and then, when 120 miles south of Somerset, which was the nearest settlement, we saw ahead a storm which covered the whole horizon, and went from the water up as high as one could see. The others had been bad, but one look at this one was enough to convince us that to fly into it was sheer suicide. So we headed for the coast, which was two or three miles away on our left, and picked out a decent looking beach. It was Miss Hitchen's first beach landing, and we knew nothing about this particular beach. However, there was nothing for it, so down we went, and the landing was perfect! We jumped out, and rushed around getting the machine tied down and the cockpits covered. Just had time to do that and the storm broke. Later the sky cleared, and, having taken some photographs of our forced landing, we got aboard again and took off for Somerset at about 3 p.m. We wasted no time, but came straight down on the very small 'drome there. All the way from Brisbane we had heard worse and worse reports of this 'drome—the "postage stamp," as they call it—and many told us we were mad to land on it. However, our landing was a good one. It was 5 p.m. when we landed, and on measuring our petrol we found we had just about enough left in the tanks for 18 or 20 minutes' flying.

Next morning, up at 4.30 and off the 'drome soon after daylight and down to the beach. We finished our run with the wheels just a bare foot from the bank of the creek at the end of the beach. We found that a parcel of tools in my cockpit had slipped down under my seat and jammed the connections for the dual control. After that we took good care to see that they could not slip again. We started refuelling, but when we came to fill the last tank, which was a ten-gallon one in my cockpit, we found our funnel would not fit, and so we were beaten. Much to our disgust, we had to pull the machine up into the soft sand above high water mark and tie it down. Of course, the tide having come right in, we had to postpone our departure for a day. Actually, although disappointed at the time, we were quite glad afterwards that we could not go, because after our arrival back at the house the Vidgens decided to take us for a trip in their ketch around to Cape York, so off we went and had a most enjoyable afternoon. Saw the most northerly point of Australia, and photographed it, and then had tea at the Cable Station, sent more wires and got the latest weather information; later returned to Somerset in the starlight—a lovely trip.

Next morning, up again at 4.30 and around to the beach in the ketch. Soon had the extra tank full and all our gear stowed away. Said farewell reluctantly to the Vidgens, who had been particularly good to us. With 49 gallons of juice aboard, started down the beach at 7.35 a.m.—an anxious moment or two, wondering if "Felicity" would lift the extra heavy load; and then we were in the air and away on the last hop straight out over Albany Island and so over the open sea. Twenty minutes later I looked back as the last glimpse of Australia faded out, and then for a long time (so it seemed) we went on over water. At last we sighted New Guinea, and what a wonderful sight it was! We were right on our course, and we circled Dara just two hours after leaving Somerset. While circling around to let them know we had got across, the map covering our next section (across the mouths of the Fly and Bamu, 109 miles) blew out of the cockpit, which was not so hot. However, we headed out across the delta, and for another two and a half hours went on over the sea with the coastline away on the left horizon. Picked up land again at last, and a few minutes later circled over Kirëma just five hours out from Somerset. From there on I knew the way blindfold, and an hour and a half later came the greatest thrill of all, as we first sighted the roof of the reservoir on the hill. Twenty minutes later we flew in over Fairfax Harbour, and the native village and across to Government House, where we saluted, and then turned in over the town itself, which we circled two or three times. Then on to the drome to make a perfect landing, just seven hours to the minute after we took off from Somerset, 520 miles away. Our total flying time from Sydney was 37 hours.

OLD BOYS' CLUB NOTES.

The fourteenth Annual Report of the Club was presented to members at the Annual Meeting held in the Clubrooms, Warwick Building, Hamilton Street, Sydney, on March 24, 1938, when Mr. G. C. Turnbull, President, occupied the chair. Apologies for non-attendance were received from Messrs. A. B. S. White, A. S. Simpson and J. W. London.

The meeting adopted the Annual Report, which read as follows :—

The Committee has pleasure in presenting its fourteenth Annual Report.

Having reviewed the Club's position throughout the year, it is felt that the results, both social and financial, may be regarded as satisfactory. The balance sheet of the Club continues to disclose a sound position, and the revenue for the year has benefited from increased membership. Provision was made at the last Annual Meeting for reduction in the subscription payable by country members, to operate from 1st January, 1938. It is hoped that any loss of revenue through reduction of subscriptions will be met by a greater number of country members. Members themselves are requested to bear this in mind when in contact with country Old Boys.

The matter of income tax, referred to twelve months ago, has now been clarified, and assessments have been received in respect of the years 1930 to 1935, whilst provision has been made in the present accounts for the years 1936 and 1937.

A prospectus of the Club was prepared during the year, and the Committee feels that the expenditure incurred has been repaid by the ready and effective means now available of making the Club's facilities known to prospective members.

During the year, Messrs. A. N. Harding, D. F. Roberts and G. C. Turnbull have represented the Club on the Board of School Clubs Ltd. Messrs. J. W. London, A. S. Simpson and P. C. B. Trebeck have given valuable assistance on the Entertainments Committee. Messrs. G. A. Fisher, of the School staff, and S. D. Angus were elected to the Committee as co-opted members.

A number of members, organised by Messrs. A. S. Simpson and R. Ludowici, have been contributing regularly to the School Jubilee Fund as a Club group. To date the sum of £55/14/- has been donated.

The monthly luncheons arranged by younger members have been continued throughout the year, and many enjoyable meetings have taken place, guests on several occasions being masters of the School. The usual monthly billiards and ping-pong evenings, theatre evenings, and billiards and snooker championships of School Clubs Ltd. have been held. A billiards and ping-pong evening, arranged by the Committee and held on December 2, 1937, was attended by 84 boys of the School.

In the Inter-School Billiards Tournament conducted by School Clubs Ltd., the Club's team, comprising Messrs. A. L. Charlton, J. E. M. Dixon, H. D. Ainsworth, T. C. Walker and R. Ludowici, was successful.

The thanks of the members are due once again to Mr. N. E. Brooks, Chartered Accountant (Aust.), for his services as Honorary Auditor.

It is with profound regret that the Committee records the deaths of H. H. Dixon and W. N. Cadwallader.

Members are reminded that they are entitled to bring guests for luncheon and dinner, and it is hoped that during the coming year more members will avail themselves of the privilege, which, besides assisting the Club financially, makes it more generally known, and is a valuable aid in securing more members.

There have been twelve meetings of the Committee. Attendances were: S. D. Angus (elected April 15, 1937), 8; G. E. Browne, 12; J. E. M. Dixon, 12; G. A. Fisher (elected April 15, 1937), 7; A. N. Harding, 7; A. R. C. Hull, 8; C. R. Kelynack, 9; H. J. Lewarne, 9; J. W. London, 5; R. Ludowici, 8; D. M. MacDermott, 12; D'A. F. Roberts, 6; J. K. Shirley, 7; P. C. B. Trebeck (elected June 15, 1937), 8; G. C. Turnbull, 11; M. Paine (resigned May, 1937), 0.

GORDON C. TURNBULL, President.

D. M. MacDERMOTT, Hon. Secretary.

In moving the adoption of the Report, the President mentioned that various avenues for the increase of membership had been tried, and that the recently published prospectus had been well received by members and Old Boys. He drew attention to the excellent work of Messrs. A. S. Simpson and R. E. Ludowici in organising a Club group contributing to the School Jubilee Fund.

The election of office-bearers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, G. C. Turnbull; Vice-Presidents, D. F. Roberts and R. E. Ludowici; Hon. Secretary, D. M. MacDermott; Hon. Treasurer, J. E. M. Dixon; Committee, S. D. Angus, G. E. Browne, A. N. Harding, A. R. C. Hull, C. R. Kelynack, H. J. Lewarne, P. C. B. Trebeck and J. T. Humphreys; Hon. Auditor, N. E. Brooks. Subsequently Mr. G. A. Fisher, of the School staff, was co-opted.

The Annual Christmas Dinner of School Clubs Ltd. was held in the evening on this occasion, and Mr. Bert Fahy was engaged as pianist. About seventy members attended, and the evening was voted an unqualified success. The theatre evenings which have been held have continued to be popular.
